VIET NAM PEACE PLAN

12-Nation Appeal Sought by Britain

Message Sent To Soviet

LONDON (AP)—Britain today proposed a 12-nation appeal to North Viet Nam to quit fighting and negotiate a peace.

The British move was contained in a draft message sent to the Soviet government. It called upon the Russians to join in signing and circulating the message among the nine countries which attended the 1954 Indochinese peace parley and the Indian, Canadian and Polish governments, which form the Viet Nam control commission.

Represented in the peace parley were the United States, France, Britain, Russia, China, Cambodia, Laos, the Viet Minh regime that fought the French and South Viet Nam. The United States never signed the general armistice agreement on Indochina, but made a unilateral declaration defining its position.

In the message, the British government accused the North Vietnamese of stepping up intervention in South Viet Nam.

The British government said North Viet Nam also has been speeding and increasing the flow of military equipment and men southward to aid the Viet Cong forces.

The message also said North Vietnamese forces, "on a constantly expanding scale, are violating the neutrality and territorial integrity of Laos."

MAKE COUNTER-PLEA

Britain and the Soviet Union were co-chairmen of the 1954 conference in Geneva and the British message was sent to the Russians as a counter-proposal to a parallel Moscow move aimed against the United States.

Soviet agreement seemed improbable.

Small groups of Russians are flooding the U.S. embassy in Moscow with resolutions protesting the war in Viet Nam. An embassy spokesman said more than 100 resolutions have been presented since last Friday. Others still were showing up.

The Russians three days ago had formulated a message which they wanted the British to sign and circulate among the Geneva nations. In it, the Russians called for international condemnation of American action in Viet Nam.

This proposed message was rejected by the British government, which then sent along its own version.

'TAKE AWAY CN RIGHT' ON JOB CUTS

Jurist Backs Labor On Automation Bid

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal inquiry report today recommended that the CNR should be denied the right to introduce controversial crew run-throughs without first negotiating them with its labor unions.

Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman of Winnipeg, reporting on his year-long study of CNR run-throughs at Nakina, Ont., and Wainwright, Alta., gave his backing to a revolutionary labor principle that the introduction of job-slashing technological changes should no longer be the exclusive right of management.

His report says the run-throughs, which reduce freight train stops by working their crew over longer runs, are a justifiable improvement in railway operations. But he is sharply critical of the way the CNR introduced them against mounting employee resistance.

When the CNR began its run-throughs at Nakina and Wainwright on the weekend of Oct. 25, 1964, more than 2,800 engineers, conductors, trainmen and firemen "booked sick" in what Mr. Justice Freedman described as an illegal strike.

OPERATIONS HINDERED

The work stoppage, which nearly crippled CNR operations across the country, ended after Labor Minister MacEachen agreed with a CNR proposal that a full inquiry be set up. The railway cancelled the run-throughs pending the inquiry report.

Mr. Justice Freedman's 65,000-word report was made public today by Mr. MacEachen who said the judge "had to struggle with one of the key

Minh Hedges On China Aid

TOKYO (UPI)— President Ho Chi Minh, in an interview broadcast today, said President Johnson "wants neither peace nor peace negotiations."

The interview was conducted recently in Hanoi by Felix Greene, a British journalist. It was broadcast by the official North Vietnamese news agency, monitored here.

Ho declined to answer directly when asked if Communist China was supplying North Viet Nam with great supplies of military aid.

"'China, like the Soviet Union and the other socialist countries, fully agrees with the line of struggle of the government of the Democratic Republic of (North) Viet Nam and the South Viet Nam National Front for Liberation (the Viet Cong)," Ho said.

"They wholeheartedly support the Vietnamese people's fight against the U.S. imperialist aggressors."

Ho said the Vietnamese people "eagerly want peace to build up their country but genuine independence must be achieved if there is to be real peace.

"The question is very clear," Ho said. "U.S. imperialism is the aggressor. It must stop its air attacks on the north, put an end to its aggression in the south, withdraw its troops from South Viet Nam and let the Vietnamese people settle by themselves their own affairs as provided for in the Geneva agreements.

"Peace will then be immediately restored."

As for the relationship between Hanoi and Peking, Ho said "all U.S. attempts to divide Viet Nam and China are doomed to ignominious failure."

'All Aspects Of Viet Nam On Agenda'

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson said today he would discuss "all aspects of the Viet Nam" problem when he meets President Johnson in Washington Dec. 17.

Wilson, answering questions in Parliament, said Washington had sent no request to Britain to send troops to South Viet Nam. But he said a medical representative was in South Viet Nam to see what Britain could do to provide "humanitarian assistance" such as an ambulance unit.

Details of Wilson's trip next week were announced today. He will leave London Wednesday, address the UN assembly the following day and see Johnson on Friday. The talks will probably be completed in one day, but, if necessary they will continue on Saturday.

Afterwards Wilson will go to Ottawa for talks with Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson and members of his government.

U.S.-GERMAN TEAM

New Energy Source Found

HAMBURG (Reuters)—West German and American scientists, joining forces in a major experiment here, have found a new way of creating a source of energy which could be many times greater than normal nuclear power, it was announced today.

Working through Wednesday night, the team for the first time created anti-protons from light.

A proton is a particle of the nucleus, which in turn is the central core of the atom.

An anti-proton is a particle with an opposite electrical charge to the proton.

A collision between proton and anti-proton means the annihilation of both, with a consequent release of energy.

Until now the only way to create the elusive anti-proton has been the method achieved in the United States of shooting protons against protons.

Scientists believe that distant milky ways—luminous bands in the universe—may consist of anti-matter such as the scientists created Wednesday night.

TAKE REST

Exultant members of the 11-man team slept today after the success of their experiment. It took place at West Germany's electron synchroton research unit, which can accelerate particles of matter to 6,500,000,000 volts of energy.

Prof. Peter Staehelin of the institute said his team produced 18 such particles — negatively charged helium nuclei—which "explode," releasing enormous energy when brought into contact with their normal counterparts.

Staehelin said a stream of photons, or light particles, was directed at a target of liquid helium in the experiment, which also used an 80-feet-long chain of various types of electro-magnet and particle-counters, coupled to a computer.

The anti-protons were separated from other particles, so-called pi-mesons, which are 2,000 times as frequent, in a Cherenkow counter, where they lag behind the faster pi-mesons.

The professor said that three young American scientists took part in the experiment, but declined to name any of the scientists involved because this was "a genuine team effort."

He was cautious about possible applications of the discovery, stressing that only a few anti-protons could be created in the experiment.

'PROLONG BOOM' WITHOUT INFLATION

By JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Federal and provincial finance ministers today discussed prospects for prolonging Canada's expansion boom without allowing it to deteriorate into inflation.

Acting Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp expressed some concern over the possible threat of inflation and stressed it was not merely the responsibility of one level of government.

"This is a community problem and must be attacked from all sides," he said.

The outlook for 1966 is one of continuing pressure on Canadian resources which is the main factor which should be taken into account by all governments, he said.

"We are now expanding without any slack in the economy and our resources are being used fully," Sharp continued.

"This emphasizes the importance of stretching out, particularly in construction projects, so this expansion can be prolonged."

He said that provincial finance ministers who had spoken at the start of the two-day meeting had been in general agreement with these views.

There was considerable discussion of the effect of recent United States measures on the development of the capital market in Canada.

Professional CS Get Pay Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government today announced salary increases for some 19,300 professional employees that will cost the federal treasury some $8,600,000 annually.

The increases range from four to six per cent and are retroactive to July 1, 1965. The average increase is $446 a year.

Revenue Minister Benson, who made the announcement, said the "interim adjustments" were aimed at current problems of recruitment and retention of professional employees in the public service.

However, Leslie Barnes, executive director of the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada, branded the increases "too little, too late."

"They won't keep the best people in the civil service. They won't do the job they were intended to do—halt the drain of professionals from the government service."

WILL EXPLORE FURTHER

The pay announcement said the government will examine further recommendations on the group a professional category in the new year to consider whether further increases, effective July 1, 1966, would be warranted. Next July is the mid-point in the two-year pay cycle.

The increases amount to four per cent for classes with a pay maximum of $6,060 a year or less, five per cent for classes between $6,060 and $7,900, and six per cent for those above $7,900.

LBJ Speeds India Wheat

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson ordered a speedup today in shipment of 1,500,000 tons of wheat to India "to help meet the immediate food crisis" there.

He also authorized a $50,000,000 loan for Indian purchases of fertilizer.

Johnson decided upon the aid measures after conferences with Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman.

The decisions were announced by White House press secretary, Bill D. Moyer, who said the $50,000,000 loan for purchases of fertilizer for India's spring rice crop would be matched by the Indian government and $100,000,000 worth of fertilizer would be bought.

Ship Officers Strike

MONTREAL (UPI)—Some 500 officers walked off their ships on Canada's inland waterway today, idling at least 24 vessels from here to Fort William.

Strike May Isolate Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI)— — A 24-hour "general strike" of government workers, officially denounced as subversive, threatened today to isolate Uruguay from the rest of the world.

If all of the 200,000 unionists concerned heed the strike call, the walkout could paralyze long-distance telephone and telegraph lines, all banks, the docks, the customhouse and other government offices.

Indonesia Offers to Negotiate Islands Dispute With Malaysia

JAKARTA (Reuters) — Indonesia is willing to negotiate a dispute with Malaysia, Foreign Minister Subandrio said today.

Negotiations would be held with representatives of the federation of Malaysia — Malaya, Sabah (North Borneo) and Sarawak—and with Singapore and Brunei, the official Antara news agency quoted Subandrio as saying.

He declined to say when talks would be held or at what level.

Indonesian military operations in the meantime would continue, Subandrio said.

He said the aim of the talks would be a solution to the dispute leading to self-determination for Sabah, Sarawak and British-protected Brunei.

Subandrio's statement, made to the news agency at President Sukarno's palace, came as a surprise to most observers.

Indonesia has been pursuing an economic blockade and sporadic guerrilla campaign against Malaysia for the last two years on the grounds that the federation was formed improperly and against the wishes of its people.

Only Wednesday Subandrio's deputy, Suwito Kusumowidagdo, threw cold water on a report from Malaysia that Malaysian Premier Tunku Abdul Rahman was still willing to attend peace talks with Indonesia.

11 More Railroaders Join PGE Walkout

VANCOUVER (CP)—Another 11 men joined the Pacific Great Eastern railway walk-off today, bringing to 123 the number of trainmen who have reported sick since last Friday.

A spokesman for the B.C. government-owned line said the 11 all are from the Lillooet division.

He said passenger and freight trains are still running, although the dayliner passenger service is running only to Clinton, instead of Prince George.

The trainmen, members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, booked off sick because of what they said were long-standing grievances. The immediate incident was reported to be the dismissal of a trainman at Prince George four days before his six-month probationary period was to end.

Meanwhile, the PGE today turned down a request by the union for new talks to discuss the dispute.

Regional manager J. A. Deptford said in a wire to the union that PGE officials have repeatedly asked for an explanation of what the union wants to discuss and to date have received no answer.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen has offered to refer the whole dispute to a compulsory arbitration board but this has been rejected by the PGE.

The union had no comment today on Mr. Deptford's telegram rejecting the request for new talks.

FUTURE LOOKS BRIGHTER FOR KOREAN MOTHER

Suicide Only Way Until USC Came to Rescue

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

The baby was found in the waiting room of the Unitarian Service Committee hospital in Mokpo, Korea.

That night the mother, whose heart was breaking over having deserted her child, tried to kill herself.

She failed, and her tragic case came to the attention of USC workers who had her baby in their care.

Why did this woman take such drastic steps? What drove her to it?

Her despair stemmed directly from the poverty which afflicts her family, as it does thousands of others in Korea.

Her husband was unemployed, they had five underclad children, winter was coming and there was no food or fuel in their shack.

After her attempt at suicide, the mother was admited to the Seoul Mental Institution with her expenses paid by the USC.

USC workers also helped her husband get a job, and cared for her baby while the woman was in hospital.

Now recovered, she is back with her family and the future looks a little brighter for all of them, thanks to USC help.

The husband works as a laborer at Seoul harbor, earning 70 cents a day.

From this they are gradually paying off a debt of $100, still owing from their time of trouble.

In the meantime, they receive food and milk from USC workers.

They eat well now, rice and barley twice a day, and as special treat once a month they have some fish.

But without USC help, there would have been a different ending to the story.

Through contributions to the Times-sponsored Children of Asia Fund, the USC is able to continue their work with needy people in Korea, India and Hong Kong.

Donations may be sent care of this newspaper, and cheques should be made payable to the Children of Asia Fund.

Contributions are also being received at the main branch of the Bank of Montreal, Douglas and Yates.

A list of donors is published daily in the Times.

In recorded history Oak Bay has made municipal contributions of $86,500 to Royal Jubilee and $40,000 to St. Joseph's capital fund drives. The community hospitals have been largely maintained by Victoria.

But Duncan, with a population about the same as Oak Bay, is building a $4,781,000 hospital with a municipal contribution of $2,169,000 and previous to this maintained another hospital.

In the last five years 12,000 Oak Bay residents have been patients in Jubilee and St. Joseph's.

A reader writes that he is confused by the terms dentist, denturist, dental mechanic and dental technician.

We are told that the dentist is the only one who can legally remove your teeth. And until three years ago, only a dentist could provide you with false teeth. He prepares a prescription and the teeth are made in a dental laboratory by a dental technician on a wholesale basis.

For three years, however, it has been legal for a person to have a dentist remove his teeth then have a dental mechanic provide false plates. The dental mechanic can also deal directly with the public on some repairs to plates but cannot undertake to sell partial plates.

Dental mechanics who belong to their society—Public Denturists Society of B.C.—call themselves denturists.

To this a dentist friend adds that only a dentist may diagnose and treat dental disorders, and only after six years of university training. He says a dental technician serves only an apprenticeship. He says the same about dental mechanics and adds, a dentist or physician's certificate of oral health must be obtained before one may order dentures from a dental mechanic.

When dental mechanics began dealing directly with the public they offered false plates at prices which they claim are 30 to 50 per cent cheaper than those supplied through professional dentists.

Since about a year ago the Academy of Dentistry, a non-profit society sponsored by the College of Dental Surgeons of B.C., has operated clinics here and in Vancouver where plates can be provided at a price competitive with the dental mechanics' price.

CANDIDATES OUTLINE PROGRAMS

City Election Campaign Short, Lively

By AB KENT

Victoria civic election campaign was barely warmed up when it wound up at a sparsely-attended all-candidates meeting Wednesday.

A mayoralty contest and the issue of regional hospitals tax failed to draw more than 55 persons to hear three candidates for mayor and nine for five aldermanic seats.

They sat scattered among 348 steel chairs set out in Central Junior High School's cavernous gymnasium. Audience and speakers were dogged and harassed by poor acoustics and faulty amplification system.

It was the only public meeting of the Victoria city campaign, the last before polls open Saturday.

The mayoralty candidates were given 15 minutes, the others five minutes, to state their policies. About six persons asked questions.

First speaker, Ald. M. H. Mooney, said he wants to be mayor to bring progress to Victoria without raising taxes. He supports beautification, recreation and cultural facilities, sports fields and a civic convention hall.

MONEY CRISIS

But "civic government is on the verge of a money crisis. The cry is to hold the line on taxes, roll back the mill rate," he said.

It is foolish to suggest taxes be reduced because the work can be done by budgeting money available, Ald. Mooney said.

He emphasized his independence, "uncontrolled by any group whether organized or not. I am no puppet to be controlled by a puppeteer," he said.

Ald. A. W. Toone said he would make a continuous effort to "keep on the course so ably laid down by Mayor (R. B.) Wilson."

He pointed to his own record on council as a leader of urban redevelopment schemes. But there can be no standing still in Victoria, he said.

If elected mayor, he would appoint a steering committee to put into effect over-all long-range plans and ask the new planning department to set priorities on projects to be undertaken.

They will be costly, he noted, and it will be impossible to finance them out of property taxes. More capital costs must be paid by the senior governments as at least two provincial royal commissions have concluded.

He pledged himself to the rule of law, sanctity of contracts, and full-time devotion to the office without party politics.

"I make these pledges now because my integrity has been called into question these past weeks," Ald. Toone said. He referred presumably to challenges in connection with the recently proposed general strike.

Rev. J. A. Roberts, third of the mayoralty candidates, said the lack of council and business experience is no impediment to seeking office.

The experienced councillor must "take the blame for the bad things he has done and the good things he has left undone," the candidate said.

EXCEEDED COSTS

He observed that almost all Centennial Square projects exceeded cost estimates.

"If businessmen (on council) can make that kind of mistake, I don't believe a woolly-headed parson can do any worse."

He said council has not performed the services to people that are needed. For example, there is less swimming time at Crystal Garden since the city took it over than when the CPR operated it, he said.

And Royal Athletic Park is still not restored although it burned 13 months ago.

Candidates for alderman were:

Percy Frampton, who advocated careful spending and approval of the hospital tax referendum. Since all governments raise money by taxes and all taxes are paid by the people it makes no difference which government pays for hospitals, he said.

Charles Kingsfield said he would strive to take education costs from the land and place them on senior governments. He said there should be more police protection through more patrol cars and an ambulance, and he favors a civic convention hall.

EMOTIONALISM

Mrs. Evelyn MacKenzie said emotionalism is clouding the hospital issue. It is not a question of hospitals but of finances, she said. "Because we need the best, I don't think the municipalities should be expected to pay the amount of money required," she said. The homeowner should not be saddled.

Wesley Dickie said the mill rate should be lowered. There is a defeatist attitude toward increased civic expenditure, he said.

Ald. Lily Wilson asked for a chance to continue her close association with Metro Health juvenile, family and children's court, Gorge Road Hospital and public library board matters as she has during her 10 years on council.

Hugh Stephen admired the optimism of those who say they will cut taxes. But unless there is a new provincial-municipal distribution of revenue sources, taxes will inevitably rise and by 1975 the Victoria rate will be about 75 mills, he predicted.

Answering a question, he said he would advise a "yes" vote on hospitals because Victoria's rejection would make it the only area in B.C. outside the provincial cost formula. Any hope of "no" voters to blackmail the province into assuming a greater share is "whistling in the graveyard," he said.

BED SHORTAGE

William H. Williams urged a "yes" vote on hospitals on the basis of hospital bed shortage. He wants more municipal sports facilities, better streets and fewer unnecessary expenditures such as Centennial and Bastion Squares.

Ald. Robert Baird urges "financial convalescence, for a while at least," and to keep a careful eye on taxes. He said a "yes" vote to hospital financing keeps faith with those awaiting bed space.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow would urge the sale of Beaver-Elk Lake properties to Saanich, strictly for park purposes. This would end continual payment for maintenance outside the city boundaries and save ratepayers ½ to ½ a mill annually, he said.

Ald. Edgelow does not oppose regional hospitals, but he disagrees with the formula basis fixing provincial contributions.

BOY'S BITE TOO MUCH FOR DENTIST

TORONTO (CP) — A woman dentist who hit a small boy on the head with a drill after he bit her finger was convicted Tuesday of assault.

Dr. Elena Zubrys was given a suspended sentence by Magistrate Donald Graham.

Mrs. Marion Beadman of Toronto said she took her seven-year-old son to Dr. Zubry's office for an emergency filling. She was waiting in the anteroom when she heard slapping noises from the office. When she entered, she said she saw Dr. Zubrys strike the boy with a metal instrument.

The boy received a half-inch cut at the hairline.

"I lost my control and hit him when he bit me," Dr. Zubrys said. "I didn't mean it."

The lower mainland and southern Vancouver Island had intermittent rain through the night but rainfall amounts were light, being generally under one-tenth of an inch. The weak disturbance causing this rain will move eastward across the interior today and will be accompanied by a few showers.

The next Pacific disturbance is expected to reach the Charlottes this afternoon and will be over the lower mainland Friday afternoon. Occasional rain will accompany this system down the coast and showers are expected with it in the interior. It will also bring milder air to the coast to ensure that temperatures will remain slightly above normal in all areas.

Telephone Calls by Sauve 'Hot Topic' for Martin

OTTAWA (CP) — An alleged telephone call by Forestry Minister Sauve to an Iles-de-la-Madeleine judge on election day became a hot topic at Acting Prime Minister Martin's press conference Wednesday.

Mr. Martin was asked whether Mr. Sauve, now in Rome, had telephoned the judge in the forestry minister's Iles-de-la-Madeleine riding Nov. 8 to have two Conservatives detained in jail.

Mr. Martin said he had heard about the matter but hadn't read the newspaper account in question.

However, he added, there was a well-established legal procedure for anyone to take if he contends irregularities occurred.

Judge Joseph Duguay of Grindstone, Que., has told reporters Mr. Sauve telephoned him "at least twice" on election day to protest the release of two men from jail to vote. They had been charged that day with theatening a Liberal and one of them subsequently pleaded guilty and was fined $50.

Mr. Martin was asked whether the government plans an investigation.

"I know nothing about the situation," he snapped.

A reporter then asked whether it was still the government's view that cleaning house should be left to the Opposition and not to the government itself.

Mr. Martin said there are well-known legal remedies to deal with a question involving an allegation against a member of Parliament.

He added that he wouldn't want to leave the impression the matter wasn't being looked at by the government.

"Is it?" he was asked.

Mr. Martin said he had made only an "observation."

Meanwhile, national director Richard Thrasher of the Conservative party said the Conservatives have begun an investigation into the Iles-de-la-Madeleine election. No decision had yet been taken on whether to ask the courts to nullify the contest, won by Mr. Sauve by 392 votes—2,860 to 2,468—over Conservative Dr. Marc Arsenault.

MARTIN
. . . heard about matter

Mr. Martin had announcements to make about Rhodesia, sugar beets and holidays for civil servants.

He said Canada's ban on imports of Rhodesian goods will be extended to cover 90 per cent of these commodities with embargoes on imports of ferrochrome, chrome ores and concentrates, asbestos and meat. Imports from Rhodesia were valued at $4,300,000 in 1964.

MORE FOR SERVANTS

Mr. Martin also said public servants will get 3½ days off on the Christmas and New Year's weekends—half of Friday and all day Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

In reply to a question, Mr. Martin said he is sure Prime Minister Pearson is making "constructive progress" on cabinet changes during his Caribbean holiday.

A reporter said there has been criticism because Mr. Pearson has been away during important financial decisions.

"His absence in no way impairs his concern and interest in this country," Mr. Martin said.

Murder Suspect Taken by Posse

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—A 30-year-old man wanted on a charge of capital murder surrendered to an armed posse today in the rugged snow-covered bushland of British Columbia's Chilcotin district.

RCMP here said John Sulin of the Anahim Lake Indian reserve gave up without a struggle when stopped by the posse near Nimpo Lake, southeast of Anahim Lake, where 67-year-old Jamus Jack was fatally shot last week.

Police said Sulin was hungry and tired. He apparently had obtained some food from trappers' cabins in the area and appeared to be heading towards a store at Nimpo Lake when captured.

Jamus Jack and his son Benny, 26, were shot after going to the rescue of a cousin who was attacked by a man with an axe.

Jamus Jack died on the 90-mile trip to Bella Coola hospital from the reserve 300 miles north of Vancouver.

Benny Jack is in hospital in Vancouver with bullet wounds in his shoulder and spine, temporarily paralyzed from the waist down.

Police, using a 20-man posse and a helicopter, had been searching for Sulin since Friday.

Mikoyan Leaves Post In Russian Shuffle

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP) — A major shuffle in the Soviet high command today assigned Alexander N. Shelepin to an influential job at the top level of the Communist party and boosted Nikolai V. Podgorny into the presidency.

Podgorny, 62, who has been No. 2 man in the part as one of its secretaries and a member of the ruling party Presidium, replaces Anastas I. Mikoyan, a member of the top Soviet command for 40 years.

At 70, Mikoyan said an operation three years ago had made it difficult for him to fulfil the demands of the presidency. This is a largely ceremonial post.

Shelepin, 47, was relieved as deputy premier and head of the committee for party and state control. Communist sources indicated he would take the No. 2 post formerly held by Podgorny. This job is second to that of Leonid I. Brezhnev, chief of the secretariat, the most powerful unit in the Soviet Union.

There was no change in the two top posts—Brezhnev as first secretary of the party and Alexei N. Kosygin as premier. They suggested the changes, which were approved by the Supreme Soviet, the parliament.

STAY IN PRESIDIUM

Both Podgorny and Mikoyan remained members of the 12-man party Presidium which makes the policy executed by the party secretariat.

Mikoyan also was elected, following his resignation from the presidency, to a Supreme Soviet role corresponding to one of many parliamentary vice-presidents.

The unit which Shelepin headed for the last three years, the committee for party and state control, was changed into the committee of people's control.

The Supreme Soviet was told that the change in the application of the powerful organization, which supervises party leaders by Soviet government units, would increase the role of the common people.

The chairman of the new committee is Paval Kovanov.

The Supreme Soviet also made changes in the Soviet Council of Ministers, including Pavel Kovanov, the new chairman of the U.S.S.R. people's control committee, in the council. The council of ministers, which has about 100 members, acts as the administrative arm of the government, or cabinet.

Two others also were made council members. They were Alexander Bulgakov, chairman of the state committee of the council for vocational and technical education, and Alexander Yershevsky, chairman of the agricultural engineering equipment association.

TOKYO (AP) — Police reported Tuesday the arrest of a man who strangled his wife four months ago, encased her in cement, then tried to sell the story of his deed to a magazine. The police said Ryutaro Shoji, 29, confessed. Shoji was arrested after editors of the weekly magazine reported his tale to the police.

Waterfront Racket In Liquor Broken

VANCOUVER (CP)—A waterfront liquor racket has been broken by city police and the RCMP.

Six cases and 20 assorted bottles of liquor were seized by an RCMP officer and city detectives when a suspect was arrested Wednesday night on Ballantyne pier in Vancouver harbor.

Two other suspects were picked up later. No charges have been laid.

Police said today one of the suspects is a Canadian customs officer, another a cargo checker and the third a provincial Liquor Control Board truck driver.

Police said liquor has been taken from cargo and smuggled into the country without being checked through customs.

It was then sold to persons unknown.

Police said they have not yet determined how much liquor is involved but said it could run into thousands of dollars.

Ski Classes Scheduled

CAMPBELL RIVER — Skiing, always at the back door, is finally catching on with local residents.

Last year, about 50 persons took ski lessons under auspices of Courtenay Recreation Association and Mt. Becher Ski Society.

This year, two buses of 50 enthusiasts each will travel to the slopes of Forbidden Plateau starting in January, for nine weeks of lessons.

In addition, about 20 others wishing to learn how to ski and with their own transportation will also take lessons.

The nine-lesson package costs $25 with bus transportation, or $7 if own transportation is provided.

No plans are being made for a local ski club.

Skiers here prefer to work along with the CRA and Ski Society.

economic and social problems of our day" — automation and technological change.

The minister said the report recommends "important innovations" and will receive careful consideration.

The judge said there is no doubt under present law that the CNR had the right to introduce crew run-throughs. But he urged that this right should be taken away, through legislation if necessary.

Labor laws now provide that once it signs a contract a union cannot legally strike unless the specific provisions of the contract are violated. Management, meanwhile, is free to make any changes it desires in working conditions.

"The present situation which permits management to make unilateral changes in working conditions during the contract period is a manifest inequity which clamors for attention and correction," the 57-year-old Manitoba Appeal Court judge said.

'USE N-BOMBS AGAINST N. VIET NAM'

WELLESLEY, Mass. (AP) —Mme. Chiang Kai-shek recommends hitting the industrial centres and military complex in North Viet Nam with nuclear bombs.

She told a press conference Wednesday at Wellesley College, from which she graduated in 1917, that she would not recommend using nuclear weapons to bomb Viet Cong civilians.

Mme. Chiang said nationalist China, of which her husband is president, would send troops to South Viet Nam only if asked by the government of Saigon.

Flying Garbage Bucket

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Gemini 7 astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell face a housekeeping problem that would make any good housewife throw up her hands in disgust.

Home for two weeks in a cramped spacecraft with a living area for two men no larger than the front seat of a small foreign car. Anything loose floats aimlessly and weightless.

To make matters worse, Borman and Lovell are not allowed to dispose of anything in space. What went up must come down.

Housekeeping is a daily chore for the high-flying space twins. This means stuffing away trash or storing cameras and other experiment equipment used during a busy day circling the globe.

And from what they have told ground controllers, they seem to be running a pretty tight ship.

"It's amazing how the spacecraft seems to be getting bigger and bigger," command pilot Borman said. "Either we're losing weight or we're getting used to it."

The astronauts harbor no doubt they can master the stowage problem by using every nook and cranny in the craft. Several times before the flight they surveyed the cabin inch by inch, converting unused space into storage bins, drawers and pouches.

By HOWARD BENEDICT

HOUSTON (AP) — Gemini 6 launch crew received orders today to prepare for a Sunday morning firing and completion of the first U.S. space rendezvous one day ahead of schedule.

Preparations at Cape Kennedy were 24 hours ahead for the blastoff of a Titan II rocket that will propel Gemini 6 in pursuit of astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell in the Gemini 7 spaceship.

The two spacecraft will meet in the sky, if there are no hitches, and complete a space first by flying in formation.

Other than a few sneezes by Borman, there were no problems aboard the Gemini 7, which was hurtling along toward a 14-day endurance record.

Dr. D. Owen Coons, a flight surgeon, said if Borman develops a cold "we would treat him with the medicine we have on board the spacecraft. We would expect to continue the flight."

The four-ton Gemini 7 continued its performance as the best operating of any U.S. manned spacecraft.

Can Gilbey's London Dry and ginger ale live happily together?

The answer is a blissful yes.

Gilbey's London Dry has a perfect balance of flavour for all mixed gin drinks.

The flavour of some other gins is either too strong—or utterly tasteless.

But Gilbey's dry flavour has been an international favourite since 1873. Quite a long time.

Gilbey's London Dry lives in perfect harmony with the lively taste and effervescence of ginger ale.

Prove it to yourself. Tonight.

To Know Who Speaks

IN THE COURSE OF ANTI-fluoridation campaigns in various parts of North America in recent years, a number of names have appeared repeatedly. These are the names of persons who are quoted as being "eminent medical men," "well-known doctors," "prominent physicians," "scientific authorities," and so on. Without further background, their degrees and laudatory references must carry some weight with newspaper readers, who thus are apt to accept the opinions of such "experts" as worthy of consideration.

The American Dental Association has noted occasional news references to many of these often-quoted persons. It is interesting to have a look at some of the background information so revealed. Among names which have been freely employed in the local fluoridation controversy by those anxious to marshal authoritative allies are the following.

Mr. Charles Eliot Perkins has been quoted recently as an "internationally-known physiologist and bio-chemist" in adverse references to fluoridation.

More than a decade ago, Dr. Thomas L. Hagen, chief of the Division of Dental Public Health of the U.S. Public Health Service, in discussing Mr. Perkins' pamphlet, "The Truth About Water Fluoridation," wrote: "Mr. Perkins uses no degree after his name and so far as is known has done no research. He has authorized two books on cancer . . . (of one of which) the American Cancer Society says: 'This volume presents a mass of undocumented theories.'. . . In 1946 Mr. Perkins was press agent for a Washington hotel. . ."

About the same time, a letter from the American Medical Association was quoted: "He said he had studied at St. Mary's College in Oxford, but the judge pointed out that there was no such college. Then Perkins said he had taken a correspondence course from Oxford while he was living in New Jersey."

Dr. Alfred Taylor has been quoted as conducting experiments showing that cancer in mice developed at an earlier age through drinking fluoridated water. He is said to be with the Biochemical Institute of the University of Texas. Of him, as far back as 1951, Mr. C. D. Leake, vice-president of the University of Texas, Medical Branch, wrote: "It is greatly to be regretted that Dr. Taylor's conclusions (that fluorides were connected with cancer) were so widely disseminated without full appreciation of all facts involved. . ."

Dr. Frederick B. Exner is a frequently quoted "expert" on fluoridation. Of his book, "Fluoridation," William B. Bean, MD, writing in Archives of International Medicine in 1962, said: "Exner, aided and abetted by the Greater New York Committee Opposed to Fluoridation, symbolizes the testimonial approach which the most convinced zealot may mistake for evidence."

A year earlier, the Master in Chancery "Notice," Chicago, said of Exner and another doctor called as witnesses in a court case: "Unfortunately, however, for the plaintiffs' position, neither of these men has done any research of any kind of the effect of fluoridation on tooth decay and neither of them is a qualified dentist. . ."

Dr. Charles Betts has also been named as an authority by local opponents of fluoridation. Of him, in 1953, the Milwaukee Journal said: "Dr. Betts received his licence in Ohio in 1900 when some licences were being granted without dental school training. Dr. Betts admits he did not go to dental school. . . Dr. Betts is known for his opposition to vaccination and other accepted public health practices, such as pasteurization."

Dr. Leo Spira is another "expert" frequently quoted by opponents of fluoridation. A report on him by Dr. J. Roy Doty, secretary of the Council on Dental Therapeutics of the American Dental Association, May, 1955, included this summation: "Dr. Spira apparently assumes that a substance that is toxic in high doses must of necessity also be toxic when ingested in very small amounts of low concentrations. One wonders how he would explain the fact that humans require small amounts of vitamin A although it has been demonstrated repeatedly that an intake of this vitamin several hundred times the required amount will produce serious toxic effects."

These references are detailed here only because the names mentioned, and many others like them, are used to bolster the arguments of anti-fluoridationists who accept these questionable "authorities" yet reject the advice of qualified spokesmen of the American Dental Association, the American Medical Association, and the Canadian counterparts.

Oak Bay voters on Saturday should weigh the qualifications of those whose advice is given them—and vote accordingly. A telephone call to the voter's own dentist or family physician would bring needed light to the question.

A Candle In the Indian Gloom

FEDERAL-PROVINCIAL REPresentatives have been given some hard facts on Indian life at the Ottawa meeting focussing attention on Canada's war on poverty.

The presentation by the Indian affairs branch does not differ in substance from earlier reports, but it gives a statistical background that reveals the problems in harsher light. Figures are produced on the life expectancy of the Indian—not quite half the psalmist's three score and ten; on grossly substandard living conditions—inadequate electric light, worse plumbing; on deficient diet, minimal employment opportunities, ignorance of the outside world and the way to cope with it.

All this is old news to Canadians who have interested themselves in Indian affairs. It bears repetition, however, because too many non-Indian people have limited their interest in improving Indian conditions to the expression of sympathy. As a nation, Canada has yet to do much of a positive nature.

There is, nevertheless, some hope in the Indian affairs' brief dealing with the emergence of a new group of leaders among the Indians themselves. These are men who are demanding that "the frontier dividing the majority of Indian people from the affluent society be removed."

Here is a show of militancy which at least indicates a certain vigor in approaching problems common to the natives. If it is properly channelled, it could serve the people well.

There seems to be little doubt that an increasing number of Indians are capable of providing such leadership. In 1964-65, according to the brief, more than 550 Indians were established in non-Indian communities through relocation and placement services provided by the branch, and among them are people who have succeeded in their new environment.

The climate for improvement must, of course, be made as favorable as possible by the various governments — and serious and creditable efforts have been made to this end. Ultimately, the general problems of the Indians will have to be solved by a display of initiative on the part of the people. They need help. They deserve help. But the best help they can get will be provided by themselves — a prospect brighter as leadership develops.

"Let's put it this way . . . I can't say just how serious your case is until I get the results of Saturday's hospital vote . . ."

FROM WASHINGTON — By JOSEPH ALSOP

High Spending and 'Great Society'

IN the row about the Federal Reserve Board's decision to raise the discount rate, the thing to note is the nature of the administration's objection to this "independent" act. The minority of the board, herein echoing Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, merely objected to the timing of the board's action. They said the decision ought to have been put off until the board could get a look at next year's federal budget and could, therefore, be more sure about the need for a higher discount rate.

Alsop

Pretty obviously, therefore, the President and Secretary Fowler were not unprepared for the rise of the discount rate.

But they wished the board's anti-inflation step to be linked rather directly to the new budget in order to counter the psychological effect of much higher spending totals.

This is only one sign among several that a major drama, of the utmost political and economic importance, is now going on behind the scenes. Another sign was the crestfallen return from Texas of budget director Charles L. Schultze, with rather irritable presidential orders to re-work the intractable budget figures all over again.

One more sign was the recent public statement by the able chairman of the House appropriations committee, Rep. George Mahon, calling for severe cutbacks of Great Society and other kinds of civilian spending because, as he warned, defence spending must rise this year to a level of around $60 billion.

Rep. Mahon put his finger, of course, on the quivering heart of the drama. Briefly, the federal revenue is still rising with encouraging buoyancy at the rate of about $7 billion a year. But this year's budget deficit is already in the neighborhood of $8 billion. Other things being equal, therefore, a Viet Nam-caused increase of about $10 billion in defence spending will cause an unacceptable budget deficit next year.

A deficit "certainly under $8 billion, and if possible around $6 billion," is officially defined as acceptable, in the present state of the economy, with the danger of super-heating that the Federal Reserve Board has now moved to avert. With the United States deeply engaged in an increasingly costly war, the only possible approach to defence needs is to pay up and look pleasant—or at least as pleasant as possible.

To complicate the matter further, almost every one of the massive array of Great Society statutes just passed through the Congress was a thin-end-of-the-wedge proposition on the spending side. In other words, the initial outlays approved at the last session of Congress were obviously much less than the eventual outlays for which these statutes could be expected to generate requirements.

The poverty program is a good case in point. Spending is now at the level of $1.5 billion a year. But the program's administrators already want to double or even to triple the rate of expenditure in order to achieve their assigned target, which is the effective elimination of most of the American poverty pockets within a reasonable period of time.

Want More

Yet even if Great Society and other civilian spending is merely held at existing levels, the result will be a dangerously high and, therefore, dangerously inflationary budget deficit. That was the reason, of course, for Rep. Mahon's plea for cuts on the budget's civil side.

From all this it should be abundantly clear that the budget calls for the toughest decision that President Johnson has had to make since he ordered the retaliatory bombing of North Viet Nam last winter. If he drastically cuts civil spending, indeed if he even holds the poverty program and other like programs at present spending levels, he will be instantly accused of "making the poor pay for the war."

Thus, the very small minority that now opposes the President's Viet Nam policy will gain much additional support. Furthermore, and far more important, the president will be deferring action of grimly urgent social problems which demand immediate and bold action.

Modest Raise, Big Return

Yet there is no escape from the squeeze in which the president finds himself, except by another kind of action that will also be unpopular and controversial. A quite modest rise in taxes, nowadays, produces an immense increase of revenue. New revenue of about $6.5 billion would result from a 2 per cent increase of the corporate and personal income taxes, imposed for two years to cover part of the added cost of the war.

But if the president should request and Congress approve such a rise, there would be no squeeze. Or the squeeze might alternatively be eliminated by imposition of the kind of "value-added" tax on output which almost every European country collects.

These tax alternatives are now being very seriously considered, but this can mean much or little. No one can say as yet what the president's decision is likely to be, for he has given no indication of the trend of his thought. It can certainly be said, however, that if this rich country has to stand a temporary, relatively minuscule tax increase in order to avoid inflation and do the jobs that need doing, the tax increase ought to be requested and voted without groaning and without hesitation.

'Tight Money' Cry

TIGHT money," the cry which served the Conservatives well in 1956-57, is likely to be heard again when Parliament convenes in January. It is an attractive cry for an opposition party because it is a term which never has been defined. Money is always "tight" for most people in the sense that even in prosperous times our desires always outpace our means (including our credit).

Western

The notion that one's own problem is attributable to outside forces restricting the expansion of the economy would seem, from the past record, to have considerable appeal.

More generally, "tight money" is taken to mean high interest rates and by this measure money doubtless is tight. But it does not necessarily follow that tight money is a bad thing or that we wouldw be better off if action was taken to make credit more readily or cheaply available. The converse is probably true.

The fact is that most interest rates, as shown by the weekly figures of the Bank of Canada, have been trending upwards for the past three quarters of 1965. Throughout this period, the economy has been booming; indeed, by the reckoning of the economists we have been enjoying overfull employment in the autumn months. In some provinces, governments are worried about labor shortages—Ontario, for example, is planning steps to bring in more immigrants from Europe.

There are other shortages which have forced curtailment or postponement of building programs including the Bank of Canada's own cherished project of a new headquarters in Ottawa.

In such a situation where there is already excessive competition for scarce resources, it seems obvious that a policy of "easy money" could only serve to force up prices. But this is neither in the interest of the consuming public nor the economy for higher prices in Canada would aggravate the already worrisome problem of the balance of payments.

Conversely the discipline of relatively tight money should induce both government and industry to direct more attention to priorities, deferring less urgent projects until a time of less intensive activity and more favorable interest rates.

It is very probable that in the newly elected Parliament the same critics who deplore "tight money" will also voice bitter compaints about the hardships of inflation. Some will be in a position to do this merely by up-dating the speeches which they used in the course of the election campaign.

Squeeze on Government

The government will not, however, be in a very easy position because it is bound to be squeezed between considerations of politics and those of economics. It will be difficult for any opposition party to turn a deaf ear to a Conservative "tight money" cry.

In any case the government, while much more restrained than its rivals, was sufficiently generous in its own election promises, that it can doubtless be made to suffer a good deal of embarrassment by opposition critics carefully armed with campaign quotations. A great deal will obviously depend on whether the new ministry in these circumstances will have the will to take its stand on the advice it gets from its best economists and to take its chances subsequently in the House of Commons.

Looking Back

From The Times of Dec. 9, 1905:

At the 31st annual banquet of the Pioneer Society at the Victoria Hotel last night were many of British Columbia's old-timers who came here in the sixties or seventies. Many of them have attended the affair with the faithfulness characteristic of the early settler. The ranks have thinned, a speaker remarked, many of the stalwarts having passed into the great beyond. In the hall, just back of the chairman, hanging between two Union Jacks was a portrait of Sir James Douglas, the first governor of the province.

Supporting Flouridation

Tooth decay, by affecting the vast majority of people in Canada, has come to be recognized as one of the major health problems of our times. Studies covering a period of over 30 years, under the widest variety of controlled conditions, have marked fluoridation as one of the most widely studied of public health procedures. Such studies have revealed that fluoride in the recommended amounts, one part fluorine to one million parts of water causes no ill effects, and is effective in reducing tooth decay by approximately two-thirds.

The following responsible groups endorse fluoridation: Canadian Dental Association, Canadian Medical Association, Canadian Public Health Association, Ministry of Health, British Government; Hall Royal Commission on Health, National Research Council, U.S.A.; United States Public Health Service, American Dental Association, American Medical Association, American Health Association, Federation Dentaire Internationale, World Health Organization, American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organization.

In Canada, 29 communities have been added to this year's list of cities and towns with controlled fluoridation. The estimated number of Canadians drinking fluoridated water is 4,000,000; in the U.S.A. the estimated number is 58,000,000. Among the world's largest cities recently adopting fluoridation are: Toronto, Ottawa, New York City, Dallas, Texas; Dublin, Ireland; Wellington, New Zealand; Amsterdam, Holland.

The members of the Victoria and District Dental Society recommend to the voters in the municipality of Oak Bay that they mark their fluoridation plebiscite ballots in the affirmative on Dec. 11.—M. J. T. Dohan, President, Victoria and District Dental Society.

Homeowners' Burden

The importance of the need of increased hospital space cannot be eclipsed, but it's a queer state of mind that can feel that it is fine to put the hospital problem on the doorstep of homeowners, etc., via taxation.

Even homes can be taxed out of sight, or site.—Mrs. B. Brazil, 676 Battery.

Fluoridation

What is it? The addition of a very small amount of fluoride to the water to make teeth more resistant to decay. (Victoria and Oak Bay waters both contain fluorine but not enough to be of benefit).

How does it work? The growing tooth uses the fluorine to give it a lifetime "built-in" resistance to decay. Fluoride toothpastes and painting of the teeth with fluoride have a "surface" effect which can be of added benefit.

Is it safe? The benefits of fluorine were first discovered in 1874, and since then many years of research have proven its safety. In fact, more research has been done to prove its safety than on any other public health measure of the last 50 years. In areas where it has been added to the water, no evidence has ever been produced to show that it has ever caused harm to any person, plant or equipment.

Is it effective? A ten year research project in Brantford, Ontario, showed that it reduced decay by 60 to 65 per cent. This has been verified by similar projects in many other cities in Canada and the U.S.A.

What does it cost? Mr. G. White, Oak Bay municipal engineer has evidence to support the following estimate for Oak Bay:

Installation—$10,000.
Annual cost—$3,000 (this amounts to about 20 cents per person per year.

Is water fluoridation the best method rather than pills, fluoridated milk, etc.?

It is the safest.
It is the cheapest.
It is the most effective.

How can we get it? In Oak Bay, vote for it at the Oak Bay Municipal Hall on Saturday, December 11.—F. G. Baker, D.D.S., 1625 Oak Bay Ave.

Physicians' Dispute

The local medical association promotes fluoridation and Mrs. Lydia Arsens and others are quoting physicians who are violently opposed to fluoridation for various scientific reasons.

Now since we have to vote are we going to listen to scientific reasons, in this space age of ours, or to a local medical gentleman calling these reasons "twiddle twaddle" and saying in a medieval and dogmatic way that fluoridation is good because others are using it.

In any way it's a dispute among physicians and for the sake of public safety they should settle the question among themselves by proper scientific methods before letting the public decide whether to take the medicine or not.

Until then and before voting it might be wise to remember that the case of the thalidomide babies has shown that in the pharmaceutical field everything is not as safe as many physicians would like us to believe. — Max Schuler, 1221 Rockland.

Why Saanich Needs Pools

For the past two years our association has thoroughly investigated and compiled information concerning recreation facilities in various areas of British Columbia and has pressed Saanich council to implement a definite program to acquire land for parks and to develop recreational facilities. We are naturally very pleased that a start has been made by the inclusion of land acquisition in Bylaw No. 2426 and swimming pools in Bylaw No. 2442 to be voted on December 12.

Here are some recent criticisms and our answers:

1. Why do we need swimming pools when we have the Crystal Garden, Elk Lake, Beaver Lake, and the Gorge?

Firstly, the Crystal is in Victoria centre and is inadequate for the city alone, according to the parks department. Secondly, Saanich is the second largest municipality in B.C. and as yet has no enclosed recreational facilities. The lakes and the Gorge are only usable for two or three months each year, are muddy due to overcrowding and are difficult to reach. Our salt waterways are so cold that no further word is necessary.

2. Why are they proposed in the Gordon Head and Burnside-Tillicum areas only?

Saanich covers such an extremely large area that it is not practical to centralize recreational facilities. Placing the pools in these two areas as a start will give basic coverage to each half of the municipality.

3. Funds will have to be allocated each year to cover maintenance and operation of the pools.

All the reports, without exception, from the various centres all over B.C. indicated that with a small admission charge the maintenance, management, lifeguards and general operation expenses were fully covered.

4. We can't afford any extra tax burden.

The pools will cost the taxpayer about 1/3 mill per year. This would mean on a basic tax of $250 the 1/3 mill would add approximately $1 per year to your taxes. Do you realize that it costs more than $1 to make three return trips to the Crystal from most areas of Saanich?

5. The pools will still only be used in the summer months.

Being open air pools, this is true to a certain extent. However, the heating of the water does extend the length of time the pools can be used and also gives extra usage on cool or dull days during the summer months. Our association is at present formulating plans to enclose the pool proposed for the Gordon Head area.

It is up to Saanich voters to get out and vote "yes" for Bylaw No. 2442! — Gordon Head Mutual Improvement Society; Jack Groves, President, 4096 Tyndall Ave.

Separatiste Threats Haunting Caouette In Provincial Bid

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Quebec Correspondent

QUEBEC CITY—Past promises by Real Caouette's Rallie-ment des-Creditistes that they would get into provincial politics are coming back to haunt them now that they have definitely decided to take the plunge.

McDowell

The party's first promise, or threat, of the kind was in the form of an ultimatum to the federal government issued in January, 1964.

The Rallie-ment declared then that it would turn separatist and go into provincial politics if the federal government did not, within two years, grant Quebec four concessions—control of credit, control of external trade, control of immigration and complete fiscal autonomy.

The ultimatum seemed good strategy at the time.

Wasn't the party doing all it could to make it possible to put Social Credit monetary principles into action in Quebec? And wasn't it going all out for provincial autonomy even though operating solely as a federal party?

Time Run Out

But now that the time limit on the ultimatum has all but run out and Mr. Caouette says his followers will run in the next provincial election, the ultimatum leaves the awkward legacy of its commitment to separatism.

Mr. Caouette insists nevertheless that he is not a separatist, in spite of the 1964 threat and in spite of the possibility now of an alliance with the Regroupement National, a right-wing separatist group. According to Mr. Caouette the leader of the Regroupement, Dr. Rene Jutras, would not necessarily oppose the associate-states formula.

The object of such an alliance, according to Mr. Caouette, would be "to unite all the right-wing elements in Quebec to confront the mounting socialism of the Lesage administration."

This opposition to socialism makes for tricky relations between Mr. Caouette and the bulk of the separatist movement.

Mr. Caouette, who favors high welfare payments but fiercely champions private enterprise, draws support mainly from people who are underprivileged and anti-socialist.

The majority of separatists, on the other hand, come from the more prosperous sections of the population, and are at least mildly left-wing. The most militant of them are dedicated socialists as well as separatists.

Thus Mr. Caouette can expect no support from the largest part of the separatist movement. And the echo of the 1964 ultimatum remains to compromise him among those who are strongly anti-separatist.

A further complication for Mr. Caouette arises from his vendetta with Daniel Johnson, Union Nationale leader.

Same Traditions

Many people who support the Union Nationale provincially voted for the Creditistes in 1962 and 1963. Both parties appeal to the same traditions of conservatism, clericalism and militant anti-socialism. Both have had their strength among rural people and others who feel left out of the increasing prosperity of recent years.

The Union Nationale had no reason to object to its supporters voting Creditiste, as long as the Creditistes were interested only in Ottawa.

But once the Creditistes began looking to Quebec City, the Union Nationale had to defend itself. The points of similarity between the two parties were no longer reasons for mutual tolerance; they became grounds for special hostility.

The result was that the Creditistes blamed the loss of several seats on the opposition of the Union Nationale. And Mr. Caouette vows that in the next election his followers will teach the UN a lesson.

No Hints

Premier Jean Lesage has given no hints, so far, on the date of the next election which must be held by the fall of 1967.

For Mr. Lesage at least, the announcement by Mr. Caouette, can only be good news.

The Creditiste leader's new venture may be seen in several guises: as a non-separatist alliance with unorthodox separatists, as a right-wing front against the province's main party of the right, or as opposition to the official opposition.

But for the premier, all these boil down to one thing—a split among his opponents.

Once-Huge Caribou Herds Now on Verge of Extinction

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA — Santa's reindeer have survived time and weather to make their annual Christmas journey throughout the world. But their Canadian cousin's haven't fared nearly as well.

In fact, Canada's barren-ground caribou — virtually the same animal as the European reindeer — may be on the verge of extinction. Almost 3 million caribou roamed Canada's North-west Territories at the turn of the century. Now these great herds number only 200,000, and no end of the reduction is in sight.

However, the problem is not simply one of game management, says Fraser Symington in a new book, "Tuktu — A Question of Survival," written for the government's wildlife service. Symington contends the problem is a sociological one, too, because many Eskimos and Indians depend on the caribou for survival.

"There are those who believe that laws must be made to protect the caribou, and that these laws should be enforced strongly 'across the board'," he writes.

"The native hunter, feeling the bite of 70 or 80 degrees of frost as his finger caresses the trigger of his rifle, would not understand this viewpoint.

"The caribou have always been there, and the hunters have always killed them. And there are empty bellies back in his camp."

Tukta is an Eskimo name for the northern deer, which is concentrated in the flat tundra of the central Arctic mainland in the districts of Mackenzie and Keewatin, although they do range as far as Ungava, Baffin Island and the northwestern fringe of northern Ontario near Churchill, Man.

Head for Coast

In the summer, they migrate to the Arctic coast, and even reach some of the southern Arctic islands. They head south for the winter, usually going below the tree-line and some go as far as the northern regions of the prairie provinces.

The illustrated book, available from the Queen's Printer for $2, says much more research is needed to apportion the blame for the losses.

However, Symington says the period of the decline seems to follow closely the introduction of modern firearms in the north, and the increasing activity of the white man in the area.

The rifle makes hunting caribou easier for Indians and Eskimos, he says, and neither people are noted for their belief in conservation. They often kill as much as they can and eat as much as they can when the caribou is available because they know they will also face periods of hunger when hunters will return without meat.

Fires Increased

The coming of the white man has been accompanied by an increase in fires, he adds, and the lichens that form the major part of the caribou's diet are slow-growing plants. They often take 50 to 100 years to recover from the ravages of fire.

Predators such as wolves also take a toll, but this loss was insignificant until the numbers started seriously to dwindle.

Symington offers no solution, and doubts an easy answer exists:

"The fact is that we must experiment, for we cannot afford to drift aimlessly and watch the caribou and the people go steadily downhill . . . There is no simple, known solution to the problem."

Fire and wolf losses can be controlled, he concludes, but hunting is another matter. The annual kill already exceeds the caribou birth rate, and a complete ban on hunting would bring hardship for persons relying on the caribou for their food.

Only research can provide the final answer. "But the acknowledged need for more research should not obscure the possibility, and desperate need, to take immediate action."

The Spectre of Famine Is Stalking the World

By GODFREY BLAKELEY

ROME—Despite the continuing explosion in the world population, for seven years there has been no appreciable increase in food production per head.

In the Far East and Latin America, output per head is still less than before the war. In some of the more heavily-populated areas of the under-developed world famine is a possibility in the next 10 years.

The 112-member nations of the UN Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) meeting in Rome were given these grim facts by their director-general, Dr. B. R. Sen. The solution? The yield of land and man must and can be increased by scientific methods of farming. Oceans must be properly husbanded. Large resources of land and water must be exploited.

But the fact remains, said Dr. Sen, that 15 per cent of mankind are hungry and up to half suffer from hunger or malnutrition, or both. A yearly increase of 4 per cent in food production as against the present average increase of 2½ per cent in population will be necessary over the next 15 years to avoid serious famine.

Open Doors

The Swedish economist, Professor Alva Myrdal, said: "The rich countries must open their doors to a flow of trade with and aid to the poorer countries. And the poor countries should help break down public reluctance to do this by rooting out corruption and fostering economic and social equity at home.

"The richer countries are aware that there is harsh and increasing economic inequality in most of the under-developed countries and have a feeling that the spokesmen for the poorer countries, who mostly belong to the privileged strata, should do some equalization at home, before they appeal for more international solidarity."

Myrdal added that the yearly sum spent on armaments throughout the world, mostly by the richer countries, was $200,000 million. This was bigger than the total incomes of all the non-Communist under-developed countries. Grants, loans, the total flow of financial resources to these countries had levelled off over the last 10 years. The rich countries could not agree on how to secure exchange stability and world liquidity among themselves, and therefore the situation had worsened.

The World Food Program, started in 1963, as an experiment, is to be reviewed. World food surpluses have been used in disasters such as famines, droughts and floods, but the program goes further.

Thus workers on dams, irrigation and reafforestation projects in poor countries are being paid in food instead of cash—food obtained through the distribution by FAO of world surpluses. Students in colleges in poor countries are being fed with food surpluses under the program. Groups being resettled, such as the wandering Bedouin, are being fed while their land is prepared for first crops. The program's budget, originally $94 million, will be increased to $275 million.

The Freedom from Hunger Campaign launched in 1960, is, in the words of one delegate, "here to stay." More than $300 million will be spent on the campaign next year. "It has taken on a life of its own," said the delegate.

FAO aims to win better terms of trade for underdeveloped countries. Farm products from the poorer countries are securing "abysmally bad markets in the richer world," said one delegate. Coffee prices have dropped sleeply, fibres are meeting with competition from synthetic fibres and jute is being replaced by paper sacks, to quote a few of many examples.

Eastern Bloc Countries Find Tourists Headache

By LAJOS LEDERER

LONDON — Several East European Communist regimes appear to be having second thoughts about opening their frontiers to tourists from the West, three millions of whom, it is estimated, crossed the borders in 1965, up to Nov. 1.

Just as many people were congratulating themselves on the disappearance of the Iron Curtain—at any rate, so far as tourists are concerned, the Hungarian, Czech and Polish press began to print complaints directed chiefly at the effect of the superior standard of living obviously enjoyed by the visitors. For example, ". . . people almost lost their minds at the sight of Western cars, and gaze at them as if it were the first time they had ever seen a motorized vehicle."

This sort of thing has been followed by references in public by leading Communists to the "detrimental effects" of Western tourists on "national pride" and "internal security."

The Hungarians, for instance, although still keen on encouraging Western tourism, are saying that the policy of the open door has made Hungary "the playground of spies, agents and smugglers."

Hungarian Prime Minister Gyula Kallai, in a speech in Parliament recently, warned "those who abuse Hungarian hospitality" that they will receive punishment. He spoke of "certain circles in capitalist countries who arrive in Hungary on special missions disguised as tourists."

Although Mr. Kallai did not name the country, he clearly referred to Western Germany, where a number of Hungarian emigre organizations are constantly plotting the overthrow of the Communist regime in Budapest. According to Mr. Kallai, their agents "try to persuade our citizens to defect" and to "act against the state order."

It was never in doubt that opening the frontiers to Western tourists traffic would prove a mixed blessing for the Communists, but, one by one, the governments of the Soviet bloc hesitatingly decided to do so, mainly because they needed hard currency.

The Yugoslav experience was a major influence. If Tito has managed to get away with it, we shall too, it was reasoned."

The East European regimes are clearly under pressure from their security services to tighten regulations for crossing the frontiers. One can only hope that they do not go to extremes. To co-exist both sides have to take calculated risks.

Owls Have Aura of Mystery Which Makes Them Intriguing

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL
Director, Provincial Museum

The "night shift" in the bird world is mainly made up of owls, a group not well known by the average person. Of course because most of these birds work under cover of darkness they are not so easily observed and consequently less is known about their habits. Even to a confirmed and perhaps somewhat blase bird-watcher owls have an aura of mystery that makes them most intriguing. Perhaps their knowing look, which incidentally is quite misleading, adds to their attractiveness.

Dr. Carl

As a group owls are widely spread around the world. No continent except possibly Antarctica lacks representatives and they are present on many of the major island groups.

Some, such as the saw-whet owl of the Queen Charlotte Islands, have a very restricted distribution, while others such as the barn owl are practically world wide. Some, like the elf-owl of the southern states, nest only in holes dug by other birds in giant cacti or nearby trees and consequently they are found only where such accommodation is provided.

Fifteen species or kinds of owls are known to occur in British Columbia. Many are quite common but others such as the great grey, the barred, and the boreal are quite rare and perhaps of sporadic occurrence.

★ ★ ★

While owls in general tend to shun settled areas, some seem to be attracted or even prefer a relatively close association with man. The barn owl is perhaps outstanding in this respect. It regularly takes up residence in church steeples, bell towers and haylofts and will even invade a busy city and nest in bridge structures as a pair did in Vancouver a few years ago.

Owls are surprisingly common in the Victoria area; we seem to be favored in this respect more than most other urban areas of similar size, perhaps because of the abundance of trees and other habitats suitable for these birds.

Whatever the reasons, a fairly large population is in permanent residence and a fair number of visitors occur more or less regularly.

By far the most common is the little screech owl which nests throughout the city, especially where there are oak trees. It seems to have an affinity for oak, probably because these trees often contain cavities which provide good shelter or nesting sites. Any hole well up the trunk of an oak is a potential home for an owl. Moreover, the plumage pattern of the screech owl is almost a perfect match for oak-bark in both design and texture, rendering the bird practically invisible so long as it is not silhouetted.

The individual best-known to local bird-watchers lives in an oak tree which partly overhangs busy Foul Bay Road. Twenty or so feet up the main trunk is a cavity which is the preferred perch of this bird by day. If you can't see the hole as you drive by it is because the owl is sitting in it, matching the bark so well it takes close scrutiny with field glasses to distinguish the bird.

Screech owls are found across the continent. Specialists recognize several subspecies, each inhabiting separate areas, but they all look very much alike. However, the sounds they make differ in different parts of their range. Birds in the east have a quavering call which apparently gave rise to the common name for the species. Our western bird has quite a different note—a series of soft whistled sounds like the syllable "coo" repeated four or five times and pitched about D an octave above middle C or a third higher depending upon the sex.

As in many species of owls and other birds of prey the male is noticeably smaller than the female, and it is generally assumed that the higher pitched call-notes are produced by the male but this has yet to be proven.

Several other species of owl appear at times well within the city limits. Nearly every fall saw-whet owls move in to urban areas and would remain unnoticed if it were not for a few casualties as a result of collision with wires, cars or window-panes.

A few years ago a slightly injured, grounded bird turned out to be a long-eared owl, a widely-distributed species, but seldom seen in our area. Some winters snowy owls turn up, occasionally in quite large numbers and attract considerable attention because of their conspicuousness in a snowless habitat.

The latest member to receive notice in our area is the great horned owl which was considered to be quite rare on Vancouver Island. Several were observed on numerous occasions a year or so ago around Southern Vancouver Island and last season a pair nested not far from the city. We will probably see and hear more of these night workers in the future.

GIRL CRITICAL

Island Crash Kills Airman

SQUIRE
. . . law on books

Carol Ann Manson of Courtenay, received multiple injuries when the car in which she was a passenger was in head-on collision with another car on the Island Highway just south of here.

Driver James Funkhouser, a U.S. Air Force staff-sergeant, was killed instantly in the crash.

The two were heading south in the 31-year-old communications officer's white sports car when the collision occurred.

Police said another car, driven by Courtenay music store owner, Ken Day, pulled out to overtake a northbound car, hitting the sports model.

Mr. Day is in fairly good condition in Comox Hospital.

Miss Manson, 21, was being transferred to Victoria this afternoon.

An inquest on the staff-sergeant opened this morning and was adjourned indefinitely.

His body will be shipped back to the U.S. for burial. He was father of two. The wife Sally, lives in Fairborn, Ohio.

He had been stationed at RCAF station Comox for the past 15 months.

One of a group of U.S.A.F. officers supervising the storage of nuclear warheads at Comox, he lived on the base.

The accident happened around 3 p.m. in pouring rain.

Pollution Control 'Not Easy'

PORT ALBERNI—Controlling air pollution in mill towns is harder than it sounds, according to Port Alberni Mayor Les Hammer.

Replying Wednesday to statements made by local MLA John Squire who said municipalities now have legislation to force companies to control air pollution, Mayor Hammer said:

"If our council has not been successful in suppressing air pollution, it is not for lack of trying.

"We are perfectly aware of the municipal act provisions."

He said in theory it is possible to make things so tough a company will either close down or take the simple course of relocating outside the municipality where there is no control.

"Until there is provincial legislation to cover all areas, there is little hope of enforcing local tough bylaws," he said.

A petition is now being taken in the Alberni Valley asking for pollution control measures across the province.

BACK PETITION

Said George McKnight, one of the petition leaders:

"To suggest, as Mr. Squire does, that municipal councils have the power to control pollution by multi-million-dollar industries inside or outside their boundaries is unrealistic.

"We, and the petitioners, call on Mr. Squire to support this petition and help us bring this menace of air and water pollution under control."

CARVER HAS BEAR IN HIS TOTEM POLE

CAMPBELL RIVER — Local totem pole carver, Sam Henderson, is at work on the first of two poles he has been commissioned to carve for the Canadian Confederation Centennial Committee of B.C.

Mr. Henderson, of the Spit Reserve, is one of several leading Indian carvers in the province who have been commissioned to produce a total of 20 totem poles.

The totem poles are to be completed by June 1 of next year and will be located along the Route of the Haidas from Victoria to Port Hardy and Prince Rupert.

★ ★ ★

Totem poles will be 12 feet in height and approximately 3½ feet in diameter. Each will have an upright grizzly bear as its dominant figure and any smaller figures will be common to the areas in which the poles are erected.

In addition to the poles, each carver must supply the committe with a story depicting the pole's significance.

This will be displayed on a plaque alongside the pole.

Mr. Henderson's poles will be erected at Tsawwassen and Campbell River.

Early, Late Voters To Miss Trustees

Early morning and late night voters in Sooke school district will be cheated out of half their vote.

To mark their X on both school trustee and hospital slips they must cast their ballot between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Although polling booths in the Langford, Colwood, Metchosin and Sooke areas open 8 a.m. and close 8 p.m. the first and last hours will be for voting on the hospital referendum alone.

Explained the area's hospital vote returning officer Fred Willway: "Being in an unorganized area, the school board is allowed to set its own hours.

"They chose 9 to 7 before the hospital referendum came up.

"I asked to observe the same hours but the hospital referendum is governed by the Municipal Act which says we have to open 8 to 8.

"It's unfortunate but there's nothing we can do about it."

Victory at Last

CAMPBELL RIVER — It took them two days to do it, but Willow Point elementary boys school soccer team finally won the district playoff trophy this week, edging Campbellton 1-0. First game Monday ended in a scoreless tie. The victory for Willow Point climaxed an uphill struggle. They finished second to Maple in regular season play. Maple was later eliminated in the semi-finals by Campbellton.

Firemen had 68 per cent of the members donate blood while Lions were second with 48 per cent.

Rotary Club was third and Kinsmen fourth.

Challenge helped to spark one of the most successful clinics ever which saw a total of 410 pints donated.

Lumber Plant Sets Expansion

NANAIMO — A new development by Mayo Lumber could add 30,000,000 board feet to the total lumber exports through Nanaimo harbor in a year.

Company official, Dr. Henry MacHemer, announced Wednesday a new packaging plant will be built near Nanaimo Assembly Wharf.

Dr. MacHemer said construction could begin — within two months.

He did not reveal costs but a grading and gravelling contract has already been let to Hub City Paving for $34,883.

Dr. MacHemer said Mayo Lumber is carrying out an engineering study into the possible construction of a re-manufacturing plant at the same site.

The re-manufacturing plant will process previously-cut lumber into different dimensions, which will then be packaged into different lengths.

Dr. MacHemer confirmed negotiations are taking place with a local mill for a lease of part of the 12-acre site.

Mayo Lumber's present sawmill is on Haliburton Street at the south end of Nanaimo.

WEDDING BELLS were ringing today for polio victim George Hillier. The legendary west coast skipper was wheeled to the altar in a wheel chair at Pearson rehabilitation clinic's tiny chapel in Vancouver. His bride is lifetime friend Ruth Tugwell, from his hometown of Ucluelet. She is seen above with him at the time he was in an iron lung at Royal Jubilee Hospital, Victoria. Hospital patients listened to the service over the intercom system. The couple will return to live in Ucluelet at the weekend. (Jim Ryan Photo.)

N. COWICHAN ELECTION

North, South Feuding On Recreation Issue

By DON DINGWALL

NORTH COWICHAN — The municipality's centennial project bylaw will get dry run Saturday.

Recreation is the big issue in the local election.

In fact, recreation is the only issue.

Dr. Neil Dorning is the lone candidate taking any other line.

Saturday's votes will be for or against the $300,000 ice arena planned for a site at Fullers Lake Park.

There has always been a north versus south battle in North Cowichan.

And the Fullers site is in the north end, just under three miles from the heart of Chemainus.

It is also 10 miles from Duncan.

Candidates Reeve Donald Morton and Councillors John Cannon, Elaine Dobbyn and Reg Clegg all favor the Fullers site.

The opposition is divided.

NEAR DUNCAN

Robert Waddy, candidate for reeve, wants a $1,000,000 recreation centre.

And he wants it built "closer to Duncan."

Crofton candidate Stan Dyke thinks the municipality can finance arenas in both ends of the district.

Thomas Kay, Chemainus, supports the Fullers site and says he would vote for municipal participation in a joint recreation project in the south.

Dr. Dorning said: "Because the municipality is split into two distinct districts both should be provided for.

DOWNTOWN ARENA

"Chemainus should have a downtown arena.

"The south end requires one but the complex should be built on a shared basis by the municipality, City of Duncan and unorganized areas."

Dr. Dorning said Chemainus people must realize they would not be cheated out of an arena if they voted down the Fullers Lake site.

It is wrong, he said, for Reeve Morton to "hold out the carrot" of the municipality paying two-fifths of the cost of a south-end complex, unless Duncan and the unorganized areas will commit themselves to meeting the balance.

Dr. Dorning said his platform is: "Chemainus will get an arena, even if it isn't at Fullers Lake."

He said: "If we build at Fullers Lake and also in the south end there's no question that one would go broke. And there's no question which one."

Mr. Waddy says North Cowichan needs one recreation complex to encompass the whole municipality.

It is time to stop the "silly feuding" between north and south, he said.

He called for the municipality, Duncan and unorganized areas to build one major recreation centre—near Duncan, the population centre.

History of the North Cowichan project started 18 months ago.

A municipal recreation commission was formed.

After investigating various sites the commission decided on Fullers Lake.

The municipality owns 40 acres at Fullers Lake.

Land adjoining Pioneer Park, Duncan, was dismissed from the commission's mind when the price was quoted at $10,000 an acre.

The choice of a project and site was endorsed by the municipal centennial committee comprised of all members of council and the commission.

LATEST MOVE

Arena plans have been drawn up and a $300,000 bylaw is ready to be put to the electors in February.

Latest move is that Reeve Morton said today he intends asking the centennial committee and recreation commission tonight to buy a piece of land and set it aside for a south-end complex.

Identical Tenders Received

OTTAWA (CP) — Identical tenders were submitted Wednesday by two companies bidding to construct a new laboratory for the National Research Council here.

The facilities will house special radiation measurement equipment to find safety standards for hospitals, research institutions and industry.

Bids of $1,547,000 were submitted by Sirotek Construction Ltd. and V. K. Mason Construction Ltd. Other bids ranged to $1,716,015.

Award of the contract will be decided after a review of specifications and bids.

Equipment for the laboratory will include two linear electron accelerator or atom smashers.

Irwin Will Retain Post Of Chairman

Securities commission chairman William Irwin today said he does not intend to resign.

Mr. Irwin was reported considering resigning the post he has held five years to accept a lucrative offer to join a Vancouver brokerage firm.

"I haven't taken the offer and I intend to stay where I am," he said.

Earlier, Attorney-General Bonner said it was pure coincidence that two high-ranking commission staff submitted resignations.

DEPUTY QUITS

Earlier this month deputy chairman Barry Speton submitted his resignation and Cece Bayfield, an investigator for the commission, resigned to join a brokerage firm.

Mr. Speton will leave Dec. 31 to enter private law practice and Mr. Bonner said the main reason was that he was a young bachelor who preferred to live in Vancouver.

Mr. Bonner said there was no connection between the resignations and denied rumors they were prompted by a cabinet order forbidding commission staff to speculate in the stock market. He said the cabinet ruling merely formalized a long-standing internal directive.

New 'Fastback' Added to Dodge Line In Canada

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Chrysler Canada Ltd. has announced the addition of a new four-seat "fastback" sports model to its 1966 passenger car lineup, the Dodge Charger, a sleek, two-door hardtop derived from an experimental show car built by the company a year ago.

The Charger, with four individual bucket seats, will go on sale early in the new year. Prices have not been announced.

Dual headlights retract out of sight into each side of the full-width grill. The tail lights consist of a thin red bar which runs the full width of the car's rear. The car is 203.6 inches long and is built on the Dodge Coronet 117-inch wheelbase. The standard engine is a 230-horsepower V-8. It is being built in the U.S.

ANTI-DUMPING EXEMPTION BIDS

Delay Irritates British

OTTAWA — The Canadian government has not received all the information it requires to make decisions on the British applications for exemption from the anti-dumping legislation, a national revenue department spokesman said Wednesday.

Over 20 applications have been received through the British high commission and another dozen have been received direct by the department since the last Canadian budget.

The budget was brought down April 26. Some British complaints have been voiced at the long delays processing the applications. Not one application has been approved to date.

However, the national revenue department contends that the holdup has been due to a combination of circumstances. Primarily the department has not been able to complete the processing of any one of the applications because it has not received sufficient information from the British.

In addition the legislation was not formally passed by the cabinet until July. It is an amendment to the customs act which enables the government to exempt certain goods from the anti-dumping legislation provided discrimination is proved to the satisfaction of the Canadian government.

The department operating under the new section is seeking to determine whether the applications it has received are from exporters who have actually suffered discrimination. They seek to ascertain if the British exporters have been discriminated against as compared with exports from Germany, Italy or other countries.

Canada Extends Ban on Imports

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada announced Wednesday extension of its ban on imports of Rhodesian goods.

Acting Prime Minister Martin said at a press conference the embargo now will cover 90 per cent of Rhodesian exports to Canada.

These totalled $4,300,000 in 1964.

New commodities being banned are ferrochrome, chrome ores and concentrates, asbestos and canned and cooked meats.

Sugar, Rhodesia's main export to Canada, was banned Nov. 26.

"These measures reflect Canadian support for the United Nations and the Canadian government's belief that effective economic action should be taken to bring to an early end the illegal situation in Rhodesia," Mr. Martin said.

Royal Bank Assets Hit Record Level

Total assets Oct. 31 were $6,571,055,243, the highest level in the history of the bank and a gain of $339,457,039 over the previous year.

BALLOT BOXES WILL DECIDE

Big Union Battle Nears Finish

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP)—One of Canada's biggest, longest, most expensive and — sometimes — violent union battles is winding up here in the unaccustomed atmosphere of peace and quiet at the ballot boxes.

The voting should settle—at least for a time—the see-saw-ing over control of the country's largest individual labor unit, the 15,000 miners and the smeltermen employed by International Nickel Company of Canada in this Northern Ontario area.

In three days of voting that end at 2 a.m. Friday, the workers are choosing between the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) and the Independent International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Canada), which lost its long-standing certification to the steelworkers union three years ago.

The stakes are high. Apart from prestige and the fact that win would double Mine-Mill's Canadian membership, the big Inco local has a dues potential of $1,000,000 a year. Both unions have shovelled out money heavily in organizing and propaganda, and the struggle is regarded as the most expensive in Canadian labor history.

Mine - Mill, which organized the nickel belt region about 20 years ago, was shoved out of Inco by the Steelworkers in 1962 after a long and hard-fought battle marked by frequent violence. The margin was a razor-thin 15 votes.

Mine-Mill has hung on to its 2,300-member local at Falconbridge Nickel Mines Ltd. in the district and this year thrust back a bid from the much bigger and wealthier steel union to take it over. Meanwhile, it presented the Ontario Labor Relations Board with more than 7,000 membership application cards from Inco workers to qualify for a new vote there.

To get the vote, it needed cards from 45 per cent of the eligible workers. To win, it must poll more than 50 per cent of the eligible voters.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1965—PAGE 13

Arthur Mayse

One day this week, I happened to be idly coiling a long brown plush boa constrictor around my arm in the Bay's toyland when a nearby customer glanced, squeaked, and stepped backward into a trim brunette clerk who later identified herself as Mrs. Robert A. Slater of 4414 Patricia Bay Highway.

Mrs. Slater, a part-time hand, was functioning as house mother for the doll department, with which she is thoroughly familiar.

She flipped a chubby little creature over her shoulder, where it burped convincingly, shortened a shapely swinger's auburn mane by twisting a key in its back, then undertook to guide me among the moppets and poppets bears, tigers and poodles in her care.

Of the "plushes," which is what the trade calls stuffed animals of every sort, this year's top number is the well-publicized tiger. However the teddybear—washable, but otherwise the same orangy-yellow and lovable character little kids have been taking to bed since Teddy Roosevelt lent his name to the breed—remains the basic.

"Tradition," said busy Mrs. Slater as she relieved me of the boa, "figures heavily in this business. Those snakes sold very briskly, and so did our monsters. But not among the grand-parents."

We paused to hobnob with a flap-eared hound dog which is billed as a puppet. Mrs. Slater pulled a ring in his back, and he said gruffly, "If dolls can talk so can I." Then she let me tug the ring, and from his eleven-sentence vocabuluary the dog said — very sensibly, we agreed — "I want a bone."

Getting back to the importance of tradition in doll biz, I learned that granny and gramps are hard to sell on dolls that walk, chatter, cry, and offer other spectacular manifestations of babyhood.

When doll-shopping, they usually head straight for the fluffily-dressed bisque babies that content themselves with just an oldfashioned opening and closing of their eyes.

"If they can find one that says 'mama'," Mrs. Slater amplified "they're delighted. And they're our best customers for rag dolls, too."

We took time out to accommodate a mannish and slightly embarrassed young fellow who wanted a cuddly pink pup for his baby sister. The plush range starts away down there, flourishes more expensively in the teens with carnival-sized pandas, tigers and such for girls' rooms; and where it ends, Mrs. Slater can only guess.

"More than once," she told me, "I've had a husband buy one of our plushes for his wife."

★ ★ ★

We were kept busy for a while demonstrating plastic fibre hair in several shades, and flexible joints as fitted to the more talented and expensive models. Then we looked in on the fashion set which is credited with extending dollage for girls from a previous high of about eight years to 12 or even beyond.

These smart young sophisticates, which stand 11 inches tall in the senior sizes, were led upon the scene a couple of years ago by Barbie, her boy friend, Ken, and her girl friend Midge.

Makers both American and Canadian have enormously increased the tribe, which frolics in a climate of luxury only matchable in Beverly Hills or New York's flossier bedroom suburbs. You name it, and, with the exception of their own cocktail lounge, these glamour-dolls have it to a degree that scandalizes the occasional senior shopper.

Mrs. Slater, however, has a good word to say for them. Since no girl can possibly wheedle or buy all the outfits cunningly made available for the fashion set, out comes the sewing basket and in go the stitches as well-styled miniature garments are copied with painstaking exactitude.

I learned further that tiny girls like large, huggable babies, that most European dolls have dished-in faces, and this final fact which should comfort hard-squeezed parents:

Whatever doll greets Snooksie on Christmas morning, you can be 99.9 per cent sure she's going to love it.

FINE FISHIN' TIME

Ships aren't the only sea-travellers to enter Esquimalt graving dock these busy days, and in the pictures two dockyard hands demonstrate their version of shooting fish in a basket.

Protected by hip boots and armed with pikepoles, they splash into the enormous rectangle as receding water leaves a freighter high and dry on the blocks.

4 Break-Ins Admitted By Lookout for Gang

A youth who acted as lookout and getaway car driver, pleaded guilty today in central court to taking part in four recent break-ins.

Roy Alexander McLaren, no fixed address, was remanded to Dec. 16 for sentence.

He will also be charged by Saanich police in connection with recent break-ins at Gordon Head Elementary School and Mattick's Farm.

The acts were done in company with three other youths.

One appeared on the charges in juvenile court today. The other two are still at large.

Police launched an extensive search for McLaren's companions today. He admitted the break-ins to police when questioned Wednesday.

On Nov. 28, McLaren parked his auto in the lot of the RCN Sailing Association clubhouse at 1001 Maple Bank Rd.

He got out of the car and stood by a tree while his three companions broke into the premises, stealing $40 in cash and a dozen 26-ounce bottles of liquor.

They divided up their loot, valued at $100, as they drove to Nanaimo.

Friday the quartet smashed a window at S. J. Willis school and forced open the door of the principal's office to steal a radio.

McLaren again did the driving.

Saturday night they broke into Shepherd's Dairy, 1645 Fort Street, by kicking in a rear door, but nothing was taken.

Tuesday night they returned to the sailing association's clubhouse and stole $78 in cash.

Police have recovered about $25 in cash and the radio.

TOPICS of the DAY

United Nations Association in Canada, Victoria branch, will meet Wednesday, Dec. 15, at 8 p.m. in the Douglas Building cafeteria, not Wednesday, Dec. 8, as previously reported.

Speaker will be Hon. Ralph Loffmark: "Practical Choices in International Politics."

★ ★ ★

Rear-Admiral C. J. Dillon will visit west coast defence establishments from Monday to Wednesday.

He is deputy comptroller for Canada's armed forces.

★ ★ ★

Sailors who must serve their duty watch aboard Pacific command ships Christmas Day will get a present this year.

Rear-Admiral M. G. Stirling, flag officer Pacific coast, has announced wives and families of men involved will be allowed aboard their ships to celebrate Christmas with them.

★ ★ ★

A man found to have a neighbor's transistor radio in his home today pleaded guilty to possession of stolen goods.

Daniel Barrieu, 1499 Admirals Road, will be sentenced Friday.

Colwood RCMP Constable Walter Curry told the court he uncovered the radio, valued at less than $50, following a complaint by Mr. Barrieu's neighbor.

He said Barrieu knew the radio was stolen from a neighbor but he made no effort to return it.

CHILDREN GET $10,000 IN SUIT SETTLEMENT

The two children of Mrs. Doris LeCorre, 1170 Palmer Road, Victoria, are to receive $10,000 in an out-of-court settlement for the loss of their father, killed in a 1964 target shooting accident.

The settlement was announced in B.C. Supreme Court, Vancouver, Wednesday. It followed a suit launched by Mrs. Le Corre against Geritt Mol of Saanich, charging that her husband, Jean James Peakman, was killed by a bullet from a rifle fired by Mr. Mol in the Martin's Gulch area just south of Shawnigan Lake on Nov. 15, 1964.

Roland Johnson, counsel for Mrs. LeCorre, said Mr. Peakman was hunting with Mr. Mol and stopped to fire at a tin can. While returning to their firing position, Mr. Mol's rifle accidentally fired and the bullet struck Mr. Peakman in the spine.

He was dead on arrival at Duncan Hospital.

Pay All Chronic Costs, NDP to Urge Cabinet

PIANO WISH COMES TRUE FOR CHANT

Works Minister W. N. Chant got his wish today although not from the fountain.

He said about $700 has been raised to provide a piano for the Senior Citizens Recreation Centre in Centennial Square and it should be installed by Christmas or New Year.

Mr. Chant last Friday tossed a coin into the fountain behind the Parliament Buildings in the hopes other people would follow suit that day to provide enough money to reach the target.

About $500 had been collected this way towards the piano in past years.

"But the weather was not very good Friday so we set out donation boxes among the civil service offices and the fund has been built up sufficiently now," he said this morning.

Caucus Adopts Leftist Stance

The B.C. New Democratic Party today moved further leftward in its policies on chronic care, pushed apparently by last week's government announcement of dollar-a-day coverage for medically ill persons in non-profit nursing homes.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan announced the party's council has endorsed a proposal by the caucus of NDP members of the legislature advocating the provincial government undertake 100 per cent of construction costs for chronic care institutions.

This was a slam at the Social Credit cabinet's stand that it will extend normal 50 per cent construction grants to any non-profit group that builds or buys appropriate nursing homes. The offer specifically included municipal councils.

The NDP policy also repeated its previous position that the government should extend BCHIS coverage to all persons labelled as chronic care patients, including custodial cases who have no specific malady but need supervision. The last group still is outside the government program.

The NDP party previously made no particular policy declaration on construction of such facilities but last weekend in Vancouver it agreed on the 100 per cent provincial responsibility.

THREE REGIONS

Mr. Strachan said it was unfair to three regions of the province to require the communities to raise half of the capital cost.

The regions are Vancouver Island, particularly Greater Victoria, the Lower Mainland and the Okanagan Valley where the bulk of senior citizens—main group requiring the facilities—have retired.

"Some places in the province will never have to build a chronic hospital at any time so why should some municipalities have to accept the load for the whole province?" Mr. Strachan asked.

"The municipalities involved just can't pick up the load and it should be borne by the whole province through the government."

He said this was a crucial distinction from the situation applying to acute hospitals which have to be provided in all communities.

SECOND FACTOR

"The second factor," continued Mr. Strachan, "it that in spite of all the misleading publicity, the latest announcement of the minister of health on this subject is merely a faltering first step 10 years too late to meet today's need."

He scored the fact that only 570 beds in nursing homes will be covered immediately and many of the patients now occupying them will not qualify on medical grounds.

"And as approximately 50 per cent of these patients are already being paid for by the government through social welfare grants the new government plan means very little," he said.

RESPONSIBILITY

He said a New Democratic government would take full responsibility for all chronic care and would purchase immediately all private profit-making hospitals and nursing homes that provide the three types of chronic care — rehabilitation, medical supervision and custodial.

"This would be an interim measure as a means of supplying immediate coverage until adquate facilities can be provided in conjunction with acute hospitals," Mr. Strachan said.

"No more licences would be granted for profit-making ventures and all future facilities for this type of care would be financed 100 per cent by the provincial government."

Buy Surplus, Nurserymen Ask Ottawa

Saanich nurserymen have asked the federal government to buy their surplus stock to compensate for the loss of export markets.

Shipments of plants with soil attached from South Vancouver Island were halted last July with the discovery in Saanich of golden nematode, a wormlike parasite.

John E. Wallner, president of the Vancouver Island Nurserymen Association and Allied Trades, said today thousands of ornamentals normally destined for the mainland can't be moved out of Saanich because of the embargo.

The Victoria market can't absorb the surplus, he said.

HARDSHIPS

He said nurserymen expected regulations affecting ornamental trees and shrubs to be relaxed this fall, but as yet nothing has been done to relieve the situation.

"Some nurserymen are now suffering hardships," he said. "They depended on mainland and U.S. sales for their livelihood."

One grower is caught with 40,000 ornamentals on his hands. They were being grown for sale on the B.C. mainland and prairie provinces.

Ed Lohbrunner, chairman of the association's quarantine committee, said he is hopeful that the government will compensate growers in the near future.

Local Plan For Hospitals First In B.C.

The proposed hospital partnership of local municipalities and unorganized areas would be a first in British Columbia, a Municipal Affairs spokesman said today.

His statement clarifies a situation clouded by several speakers in the hospital tax controversy which goes to the voters Saturday.

Many speakers on the subject have stated that 38 other community groups have already endorsed the cost-sharing formula now presented locally.

The assumption has been that Victoria and district, if it turns down the referendum, will be flying in the face of precedents set by most of the province.

The spokesman explained that the Hospital Improvement Districts which have been set up on a co-operative basis generally have taken in unorganized territories only, although some villages have been included.

VOLUNTARY

In many instances large centres adjoining the Hospital Improvement Districts have voluntarily passed their own money bylaws to make the hospital planning more effective.

The nearest hospital district to Victoria takes in unorganized territories in the Duncan, Lake Cowichan area. But Duncan and North Cowichan municipalities are not included.

They have, on their own, passed money bylaws to assume their responsibility to the Duncan hospital which will serve the whole area on an equal sharing basis.

Neither Vancouver nor New Westminster is involved in a hospital improvement district nor a joint regional board (minimetro), such as is proposed here.

PASSED BY EACH

But they differ from Victoria in that they have each passed money bylaws as required to maintain their hospitals. In this area required funds have depended upon generosity of municipal councils, through grants and private citizens.

If the same system that applies elsewhere in the province was applied in this area, Sooke, Metchosin, Langford, Colwood and View Royal would be joined in a hospital improvement district.

And the municipalities of Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Sidney, Central Saanich and North Saanich would hold money bylaws on an individual basis to raise hospital funds.

Federal and provincial participation would be the same as now, $2,000 a bed from Ottawa and 50 per cent from the province toward capital costs.

In Victoria area, however, money bylaws have not been held and donations to hospitals have been at the discretion of local councils instead of a direct demand on ratepayers.

Bigger Pay Boost Seen for Servants

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Provincial civil servants likely will receive word of their fifth annual wage raise next week and this time it may go over an average of 5 per cent.

Premier Bennett is expected to announce a hike Tuesday at the annual luncheon the cabinet tenders to civil servants who join the ranks of the 25-year-service club.

He has used the same occasion each year since 1961 to announce inclusion of wage boosts in his forthcoming budgets. In 1961 he announced selective increases for professional and hourly-rated employees but every year since it has been an across-the-board increase averaging 5 per cent.

Reasons for speculation that there will be an even bigger boost this time for the 18,000-strong provincial employees are:

The huge surplus building up in the provincial treasury; announcement this morning by Ottawa of a major increase for federal employees; relatively larger hike in cost of living index over the past year; and possibility of a provincial election in 1966.

INDIAN BANDS WILL BENEFIT

Clothing Drive by Santa

Sidney's Santa will ride again this year.

The Santa in working clothes is logger John Fraser, of 11050 Heather Road, Sidney.

For the second year in a row he is collecting used clothing for distribution among Vancouver Island Indian bands.

Main drive will be next week when Mr. Fraser opens a temporary collection booth at 709 Johnson Street.

A similar drive last year collected over 6,000 pounds of clothing for Gulf Islands Indians.

This year the clothing will be taken to Tofino and Ucluelet.

Said Mr. Fraser, who got the idea for a clothing drive after reading a story in the Times about the plight of Indian children:

"I hear that many Indians on the west coast have had a bad year fishing. They'll presumably not have much cash to spare for winter clothing.

"If people can just sort out some of their unwanted stuff it will be a real blessing to these people."

The collection booth will be open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

UNUSUALLY LARGE flock of wild swans was captured by the camera today on the Saanich farm of Bud and Ralph Michell. The swans have been at the farm several days now, presumably resting before continuing on their long flight south. Seven adults and five young, they will spend the winter in southern California. In the spring they will return to B.C. They differ from the tamer variety of swans to be found in Beacon Hill Park, in that they migrate annually. Usually they are found in smaller flocks of three or four. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

'Tight Money' Shows in City Debenture Bids

The tight-money picture was seen at city hall today as $50,000 debenture bids were opened in the mayor's office.

Investment houses bid from 95.14 to 96.14 for the serial bonds, which was interpreted as 6 per cent money.

The equivalent serials were sold last year at a cost of 5.5 per cent.

High bidder was the combination of Pemberton Securities and Bank of Nova Scotia, with 96.14.

Six other firms or syndicates submitted bids.

The series is to finance local improvement projects.

SORAYA

Princess Hires Top Agent

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The film colony is getting a taste of royalty this season—first, Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon; now, Princess Soraya.

The former wife of the Shah of Iran has been here to visit old friends—it's her sixth visit—and, incidentally, to stimulate her acting career. She made her debut in an Italian-made film, Three Faces of a Woman, which turned out to be a hard-earned education.

Soraya has hired as agent the man who piloted Elizabeth Taylor's career, Kurt Frings. The princess' favorite star is Shirley MacLaine, though she doesn't necessarily mean to emulate her. "You can't copy anyone else's career."

Soraya now lives in Munich, where her father retired after his diplomatic service. He was Iranian ambassador to Bonn.

She has not returned to Iran since her divorce by the shah after a childless marriage.

"I would like to go back," said Soaya. "I spent the first 13 years of my life there, and I have many pleasant memories. Perhaps I will return next year."

At the Movies

With

Norman Cribbens

BAMBOLE
Adult Comedy
Royal Theatre

Four screen beauties with little on their minds and less on their bodies wriggle through this quartet of sex stories.

The general result could be described as Art Through the Keyhole—but this wouldn't be quite fair to Gianni Lucari, who produced the four stories in Italy.

While the sex appeal is flagrant, there are moments when camera and cast combine to produce something close to art—with some humanity added.

This, you'll remember, was the film which scandalized the Vatican, provoked a near crisis over movie censorship in the Italian government and brought the lovely Gina Lollobrigida into a Roman court of law.

The stories, reduced to crude essentials, are as follows:

The Telephone Call — Virna Lisi gets a long-winded call from her mother about social status, family problems and the bikini-clad trollop who lives opposite. She is so busy talking to Mom, she doesn't notice her husband has left her for the trollop over the way.

Treatise in Eugenics — Elke Sommer is a free-thinking Swiss Miss who tours Rome seeking a perfect specimen of Latin manhood to sire an illegitimate child. She winds up married with lots of children.

The Soup—Monica Vitti is an impoverished young wife who yearns to be rid of her sloppy husband. She hires professional assassins to get him out of the way.

Monsignor Cupid—Gina Lollobrigida is the sex-starved wife of a hotel keeper. She is attracted to Jean Sorel, the secretary to Monsignor Akim Tamiroff, who is attending the Vatican Council in Rome, and tricks the Monsignor into enticing the young innocent into her bed.

LOOKS AT SPORTS

When I go to the racetrack, I never solicit opinions from horses. Nor from owners, trainers, grooms, or passing seagulls. I do not arrive with enough form charts to wallpaper Memorial Arena. I make it a point to turn off my hearing aid when I stand in a betting lineup so that I won't hear what the fellow in front likes.

I'm what you call a free-lance loser.

It has taken considerable effort and time to achieve this status and I have given every drop of blood to the task.

Some day, something may go wrong with my lose-it-yourself technique and I'll end up like John Turner.

John is a 37-year-old junk dealer (an appropriate occupation for a horse-player) who has British bookmakers perched on the edge of their sanity, ready to fall off.

Eighteen months ago Turner came up with a system to beat the races. As you and I know, there is no such thing. Essondale is full of people who thought they were more clever than horses.

You Name It . . . I've Tried It . . .

But Turner, it develops, is smarter than people.

He and 120 colleagues pulled off a major coup at an obscure London grey hound track.

Their system, simply, was to flood the mutuel windows, betting freely on two beasts that had clogged carburetors. This played havoc with the odds. Then Turner and friends, in isolated bets with bookies, coupled four other animals in "forecasts," the British equivalent of the Quinella.

When Buckwheat (2-1) and Handsome Lass (9-2) tiptoed in at $3,170 for a 30-cent bet, all hell broke loose. Turner alone estimated his winnings at $900,000. The bookies nearly choked on their pencils; accounting showed they could be dry-cleaned for as much as $28,000,000. You can buy some underprivileged countries for less.

The bookies immediately ran to the British courts, citing the Magna Carta and crying foul. Just this week a cadi ruled that the Turner system was sleek but not sinful, cunning but not clandestine.

I do not begrudge Turner his success. But I wonder how in the name of Man o' War I have never been able to score with every system known to man.

I have tried the Chinese system, the close-your-eyes-and-use-a-pin system. I have used astrology, tea leaves and potent beverages. I have added up weights and divided by the number of horses and the only thing that happened was that I was divided from my money.

He Was Right—It Was Beautiful

One time I was privy to the jockey system. This was in the era when race tracks had less cameras than a Hollywood TV lot and stewards had weak eyes.

A group of riders, in need of change to buy essentials like food and clothing, decided in Vancouver to hold a benefit race. Only a few selected friends and the parties involved would benefit.

My informant, a gnome with a fiendish mind, outlined the plan: "There's one guy in the jock's room who won't go along with anything. Swell. We've decided he's going to win the sixth. He may get a little, er—help along the way, but it'll be so beautiful even the FBI wouldn't catch on. Bet your dough."

Research showed that the good thing would need more than a little help. But why not, I thought, sticking my hands into my wife's purse?

In the race in question, my informant had a steed who was brought to its knees, gasping, by four furlongs of exercise. The other splendid animals had no early speed, no middle speed or no late speed.

Exceptions to the rule were to be rigidly disciplined by their navigators. The "mark" had only to keep from falling off to reap the benefit of his diligence and other people's dedicated skullduggery. On the parade to the post I caught seven winks out of eight. You can't do better than that.

Wrong Equipment, Tangles, Gosh!

When the bell rang, the speed horse and my informant, whom I shall call "George," drove to the front. The "good thing" was away slowly as usual but he still had excellent position. The others were in a terrible tangle, the result of breaking poorly for some strange reason.

On the first turn, George's horse, having trouble changing his stride, ran quite wide. But George, working furiously, managed to get him back to the rail after losing only about six lengths.

Back in the pack, the good thing was fifth, under a hold, full of schmaultz. The horses in front of him appeared to be lugging in or bearing out, no doubt the result of wrong equipment.

On the last turn, George's horse again drifted like an outgoing tide. Back in the pack the "good thing" was starting to move. Out of consideration for their fellow man, other riders had left a hole big enough for Kate Smith to get through. But our hero, who had an evil mind, reasoned that this was a trap. So he took the outside, the long way. Railbirds with good ears claimed that cries of "No! No! You fool! Go on the rail!" could be heard in Chilliwack, but that is only hearsay.

Some Owners Are Very Discerning

Meanwhile, George and friend were scraping paint off the outside fence. There was still time for the ah—best horse to prevail.

Down the stretch came the good thing, his rider lathering him and making up great gobs of ground. George put on a tremendous show, calculated to win him a card from Actors' Equity.

He whipped like crazy with his right hand. With his left he had a firm grip to keep from falling off. Firm, you say? His horse's mouth was open wide enough to swallow a pail of oats.

Then they hung George's number.

He was paraded into the winner's circle for the customary picture. When he dismounted, the owner pumped his hand.

"Son," he said, "that was the greatest ride my horse ever had. To overcome all that bad luck and still win . . Wow!"

George didn't say a word. Neither did I.

SMILE, NANCY, THEY'LL WEAKEN

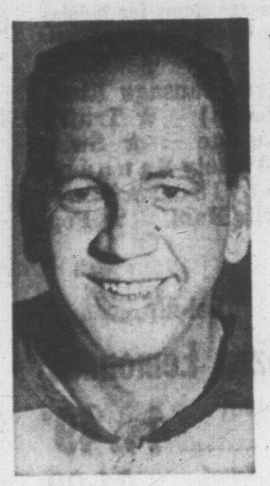
Everybody loves an athlete — except certain employers. Nancy McCredie, member of Canada's 1964 Olympic team, winner of two gold medals in the '63 Pan-American Games, says she is having difficulty getting a job because businessmen fear she will want time off for track meets.

Labrosse Joins Amerks As Punch Calls Arbour



CLAUDE LABROSSE
. . . he'll be back

Bobby Baun is nursing an injured knee in Toronto but the battered hinge is also hurting Victoria Maple Leafs.

Baun, the veteran defenceman with Toronto Maple Leafs, is expected to be out of National Hockey League action for about six weeks.

As expected, Baun's injury has resulted in personnel shifts in the Toronto system and defenceman Claude Labrosse of the Victoria Leafs has been caught in the shuffle.

Toronto will call up a defenceman from their Rochester farm club and Labrosse headed east today to bolster the Americans. He is scheduled to return by the end of the month.

At Rochester, he will replace Al Arbour. Toronto coach Punch Imlach was undecided between Arbour and Larry Hillman today but finally selected the rugged Arbour to fill Baun's position.

TORONTO (UPI)—Defenceman Al Arbour has been recalled from Rochester of the American Hockey League by the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Arbour, 33, has previous National Hockey League experience with Chicago and Detroit as well as Toronto.

With Don Cherry on the injured list, the Americans would have been left with three defencemen. Now both the American League club and the Victoria Leafs will have four healthy rearguards.

LITZ LEAVING

Victoria is also expected to lose another player to Rochester within a few days. Veteran centre Eddie Litzenberger will probably head east Monday, according to an earlier agreement.

Litzenberger was sent to Victoria with the understanding he would return to his former club when Larry Keenan was ready to play with Victoria.

Keenan, a 35-goal man for the Victoria Leafs last season, underwent a knee operation in September, may step into the lineup when the Leafs meet Hershey Bears of the AHL in an interlocking game Saturday at Memorial Arena. If he is fit, Litz will soon be on his way.

BOYER CALLED UP

Coach Frank Mario had planned to give Keenan his first start next Tuesday, but the 25-year-old centre has been skating freely in scrimmages this week and Mario was to decide today if he would be in the lineup Saturday.

SOUTH AMERICAN FAN KILLED IN SOCCER RIOT

BUENOS ARIES (AP)—One spectator was killed and 15 others injured when rock-throwing broke out during a soccer game won by Boca Juniors over River Plate 2-1 Wednesday night.

The victim was Rumulo Augustin Chaves.

Referee Luis Ventre suffered a deep cut over his left eye when hit by a rock in the first period and wore a bandage the rest of the game.

Sports Barrier Falls in Germany

BERLIN (AP)—The way apparently has been cleared for the resumption of sports competition between East and West Germany.

The official East German news agency ADN said Wednesday that Rudi Reichert, vice-president of the East German Sports Federation, has written the West German Sports Federation that East Germany "has undertaken the necessary measures to develop sports relations between the two German states."

Such competition had been dropped by the West Germans after the East Germans built the wall dividing Berlin in 1961.

The West German government said Nov. 16 it welcomed a decision by the West German Sports Federation to resume sport competitions with athletes from East Germany.

The West German decision to approve the resumption of such meets came after the International Olympic Committee in October, for the first time, recognized West Berlin as part of West Germany.

The two states will continue to compete under the same flag and the same anthem, the Hymn to Joy from Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, as combined East-West German teams have done in previous Olympics since 1952.

U.S. Netter Suspended

NEW YORK (AP) — Karen Hantze Susman, the fourth-ranking U.S. woman player from San Diego, Calif., was suspended until April 1, 1966, by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association.

The USLTA's administrative committee, making the announcement, said the action was taken because of Mrs. Susman's withdrawal from the national championships in September at Forest Hills.

Mrs. Susman, 22, a three-time member of the Wightman Cup team, pulled out of the tournament before playing her first-round match against Margaret Smith of Australia, the ultimate winner.

Griffith Has Plan To Make Foe Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Welterweight champion Emile Griffith has a simple plan to beat challenger Manny Gonzalez in their 15-round title fight at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

"I'm going to keep after him and make him fight," the champion said today.

"He likes to stick and move. He doesn't make any kind of a fight. If he makes any kind of fight, he'll fall.

"This time I'm going to make sure of winning. I can't take any chances."

Griffith, 26, was referring to his split-decision defeat in a non-title 10-rounder with Gonzalez in Houston, Tex., Jan. 26.

"I beat him but he got a hometown decision," said Griffith. "I thought I won at least seven rounds. All he does is jab, run and hold."

Bookies have made Griffith a 14-to-5 choice to square accounts with Gonzalez, 26, who has a 37-16-2 record and is undefeated as a welterweight. Griffith's record is 47-7.

Canadiens Enjoy Boston's Charity

Marshall Takes Some Heat Off Rangers' Emile

By The Canadian Press

Boston Bruins continued their campaign of charity to the other teams in the National Hockey League Wednesday night by dropping an 8-3 decision to Montreal Canadiens, and at the same time gave up their claim to having the Indian sign on the Habs.

In their last six games, the Bruins have managed only one tie while giving up 41 goals and scoring only 15.

But, while playing doormat to the rest of the league, the Bruins had managed two wins and a 4-4 tie against the Canadiens in their last four meetings.

In the only other league game Wednesday night, New York Rangers made general - manager Emile Francis' debut as a coach partially successful by battling Chicago Black Hawks to a 2-2 tie, allowing Montreal to climb back into a leadership tie in the league with the Hawks.

The Canadiens poured in five goals in the second period to smother the Bruins in a wide-open but loosely-played game.

BRUINS START FAST

Johnny Bucyk and Murray Oliver scored for Boston in the first period while Montreal managed a goal by Dick Duff.

Dean Prentice gave the Bruins a 3-1 lead early in the second period, but then the roof fell on them.

Claude Larose, John Ferguson, Henri Richard, Duff and Bobby Rousseau banged in second-period goals for Montreal. Ralph Backstrom and Rousseau finished the onslaught in the third period.

A short-lived fight blew up in the third period when Boston's Reg Fleming and Duff started throwing punches. Duff was given a double minor penalty as the aggressor and Fleming a single minor.

Don Marshall's goal midway in the final period enabled the Rangers to tie the Black Hawks in a sloppy game.

Bob Nevin scored the other New York goal while Bill Hay and Dennis Hull scored for Chicago.

FIRST MOVE WORKS

Francis' first move since replacing Red Sullivan as coach Monday worked well.

He replaced rookie netminder Ed Giacomin in the nets for the first time this season and used veteran Don Simmons, who had worked only a total of seven minutes prior to Wednesday night's action.

Simmons was a superlative operator on several occasions, stopping scoring star Bobby Hull once on a breakaway and halting Doug Mohns' solo effort late in the final period.

The Rangers meet Detroit Red Wings in Detroit tonight in the only scheduled game.

'Togetherness' Spells Success For Hershey

Frank Mathers, dean of American Hockey League coaches and an outstanding AHL defenceman during his playing days, credits small-town togetherness for much of his success as pilot of the Hershey Bears.

Now in his 10th season behind the Hershey bench, the silver-haired coach has missed steering the Bears into playoffs only once. His club has finished second in its division each of the past five years and Mathers has guided them into the AHL final in three of those five seasons.

Hershey opened a string of interlocking games in Western League territory Wednesday by nipping the Seals 5-4 at San Francisco.

The battle was rugged with 11 minor penalties and a misconduct called before the first period was over.

Trailing 1-0 with less than five minutes remaining in the opening period, the Bears lowered the boom with four quick goals by Roger Dejordy, Gary Dornhoefer, Bob Leiter and Pete Conacher.

Nick Polano scored the winner for Hershey in the third period.

Bears will continue their AHL invasion with games at Vancouver Friday and against Victoria Maple Leafs Saturday night in Memorial Arena.

Although the Bears are currenily struggling for third place in the AHL's eastern division, Mathers expects they'll again be in the playoffs. And if they make it, Frank will again give a lot of the credit to Hershey, a small Pennsylvania community between Harrisburg and Philadelphia.

More Fans Than Population . . .

"Playing hockey in a small town is the real reason we've been successful," Mathers has often said. "We work out for a couple of hours and the players stay together instead of scattering in various directions as they do in a large city. Hershey is so small they are together all the time.

"Hockey is not an individual game, it's a team game. And that's what we've been able to make by playing in Hershey. We're able to have a team, not a group of individuals."

The entire Hershey story is a fabulous one.

Imagine, if you can, a community with a population of about 6,000 regularly drawing 7,000 and 8,000 fans to hockey games. That's the situation in Hershey.

Fans regularly travel as far 100 miles to watch the Bears in action and this kind of support has enabled them to be among the attendance leaders despite competition from big cities like Baltimore, Buffalo and Cleveland.

It was all started by M. S. Hershey who was born in 1857 in a farmhouse that is now part of a school to which he left more than $84,000,000 for the education of orphan boys of the U.S.

At the age of 40, after two business failures, Hershey became interested in making chocolate. That was the beginning of the Hershey Chocolate Company and, ultimately, the Hershey Bears.

Besides the Bears, Hershey has four golf courses, the famous Hershey Hotel, rose gardens, one of the largest amusement parks in eastern U.S. and a football stadium that is used by the Philadelphia Eagles for training.

Nykoluk Triggers the Action

Typical of Hershey hockey is Mike Nykoluk.

Nykoluk isn't the kind of player who sets scoring records or hogs the spotlight, yet his name is mentioned more than any other when other clubs try to make trades with the Bears.

Game after game, Nykoluk is the solid, winning type not only Mathers, but every coach covets. Now in his eighth season with the Bears, Mike has yet to score 15 goals in any season, but he sets up scoring plays and he is their key forward.

Always centering Hershey's top scoring line, the 190-pounder is considered one of the strongest players in the AHL. He is also one of the league's best penalty-killers and when he loses a faceoff it almost makes headlines.

Of course, as Mathers preaches, one or two men don't make a hockey team. The Bears have balance and togetherness.

They have Claude Dufour and Andre Gill to share goaltending duties and a solid defensive corps in Ralph Keller, Nick Polano, Mike Mahoney and Howie Yanosik.

Along with Nykoluk up front, Mathers has proven performers like Gary Dornhoefer, who played with Boston and San Francisco last season; Myron Stankiewicz, Pete Conacher, Wayne Rivers, colorful Gene Ubriaco, Bruce Draper, Jeannot Gilbert and Bruce Cline.

It's the kind of a club that could give the Leafs a peck of trouble on Saturday night.

BOWLER OF WEEK

Former soccer and basketball player George Wagg was right on target in ninth week of Times Bowler - of - the - Week contest. George captured men's tenpin award by rolling three-game scratch series of 659. Wagg hit winning total on games of 225, 242 and 192 in Thursday Mixed League at Mayfair Lanes.

LONDON (CP)—Brentwood College rugby touring team of Victoria dropped a 12-9 decision to King's College school of Wimbledon Wednesday, in the first game of a five-match, pre-Christmas schedule in Britain.

The Victorians, somewhat off form after 36 hours of travel that got them to London Tuesday night, trailed 9-3 after the first half, then 12-3 when Wimbledon scored a penalty early in the second half.

The Canadians stormed back against the heavier Wimbledon pack, scoring two tries and parking in the enemy end for the last 20 minutes. Dai Williams, Dean Sawyer and Mike Ohman each scored a try for the visitors.

The 22-strong Brentwood team moves to the Sussex resort of Eastbourne Friday for a game and then travels to Scotland for three games next week.

Mid-Term Exams Here For Canadian Puckmen

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

WINNIPEG (CP) — Mid-term examination time has arrived for Canada's young national hockey team.

Skills developed in 75 hours of practice and an undefeated sweep through 17 exhibition games will be tested in the crucible of 13 matches against top-flight international opponents.

The first is Friday night in London, Ont., against the world champion Russian Nationals, a team that hasn't lost to a Canadian unit since 1961. Other dates are with Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Finland and the United States.

Coach Jackie McLeod has been looking forward to these clashes and says the international contests will show how much more homework is necessary before the 1966 world championships in Ljubljana, Yugoslavia, March 3-13.

"We must do well in the championships," he said—to regain prestige lost through fourth-place finishes in 1964 and 1965.

The Nationals came up with a pair of third-period goals in Winnipeg Wednesday night to tie St. Louis Braves of the Central Pro League 3-3.

McLeod's preliminary assessment of the Canadian team: "Strong defence, good forechecking, good goaltending, four good centres—erratic passing and shooting, poor positional play, short on experience on the wings."

AMASSED 16 WINS

The club's scoring leaders in a romp of 16 victories and two ties through intermediate, senior, intercollegiate and minor professional foes were centres —Roger Bourbonnais, Fran Huck and Rick McCann.

Huck, who dazzled Saskatchewan Junior League crowds with 86- and 77-goal seasons in 1963-64 and 1964-65, scored 14 goals.

Bourbonnais, 23-year-old veteran of Canada's first national team formed by Rev. David Bauer in 1963-64, is one goal behind.

McCann, 21-year-old native of Hamilton, Ont., contributed nine goals to give the trio 33 per cent of the Nationals' scoring punch to date.

McLeod said one of his early problems was a "surprising lack of knowledge of fundamentals" by some of the 10 new players recruited for the team by Father Bauer, who fills the role of special adviser.

"But they've come a long way," said McLeod, praising the forechecking of Morris Mott, the SJHL's most gentlemanly player in 1964-65, and Billy MacMillan, 22 - year - old left winger from Charlottetown.

A BRIGHT SPOT

McLeod is "disappointed" with his power play but is a little more cheerful with the arrival of George Faulkner, 31-year-old defenceman from Harbor Grace, Nfld. "I think he'll be the key in the power play."

"One thing the Russians will run into this time is some offensive forechecking in their own end," said McLeod. ". . . I'm impressed with the Russians but I don't think they're unbeatable."

Though weaknesses are visible, McLeod said "90 days can mean a world of difference" to a club with an average age of 22 years. "You have to be patient."

Newcomers such as Ted Hargreaves, SJHL scoring champion in 1962-63 converted to wing from centre; Mott and Harvey Schmidt, a defenceman from the SJHL's Weyburn Red Wings, "are coming along wonderfully." Wayne Stephenson, 20 - year - old goaltender from Winnipeg Monarchs of the Manitoba Junior League, "looks real good."

The biggest task is to set them in tempo with such veterans of international competition as defenceman Terry O'Malley, Paul Conlin, Gary Begg and Barry MacKenzie and forwards Bourbonnais, Marshall Johnston and Al McLean.

'Not Interested In Putting Kids In Pro Leagues'

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—John Metras, who claims more graduates in professional football than any other Canadian university coach, said Wednesday universities in this country are "not interested in putting kids in pro leagues."

On that point, the coach of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs agreed with a Tuesday statement by Pat Mahoney, president of the Canadian Football League.

But Metras, who has spent 31 years in Canadian college football, took exception to Mahoney's suggestion that scholarships would be an answer to indifference toward the game.

"Our universities want to have as good football leagues as possible and we want to develop good football teams and talent," Metras said in an interview.

"But our prime purpose is to develop men to help Canada grow, not football players to help the Canadian Football League grow."

Mahoney suggested in Calgary that Canadian universities show an acute lack of interest in pro football by their indifference in promoting it among their players. He added that colleges in Canada do not particularly care how many of their players play professionally.

He suggested scholarships for Canadian universities.

THAT'S NOT IT

Said Metras, "It's not the lack of scholarships that is keeping football players away from university in Canada. It's lack of academic standing.

"I don't think he (Mahoney) knows what goes on in Canadian universities. There is lots of money in the form of bursaries if the boy has academic ability."

"We don't want to wind up a football school.

"I'd love to see the names of all the Canadian football players at American universities. I bet 50 per cent of them weren't able to get into Canadian universities.

"I'd like to know what they (the CFL) have put back into Canadian football to develop Canadian talent that doesn't get a chance to go to university."

VANCOUVER SITE OF '66 GREY CUP

VANCOUVER (CP) — The 1966 Grey Cup football game will be played in Vancouver, Capt. Harry Terry, president of the Pacific National Exhibition, said Wednesday.

He also said there was a good chance of the 1967 Grey Cup classic being played here.

Terry told PNE directors that whether or not Vancouver gets the 1967 game will depend on how large a stadium is built at Ottawa. If the proposed Ottawa stadium is too small to meet Canadian Football League standards, the game could move west again.

In Winnipeg, CFL commissioner Sydney Halter said the site for the 1967 game "hasn't even been discussed and won't be decided until the annual meeting."

"As far as I know, Vancouver has made no application for the 1967 game, formal applications haven't even been made."

He confirmed that the 1966 game will be played in Vancouver.

Quinn, Stothard To Miss Action

A pair of fullbacks will be among the missing Saturday when Victoria United renews its Pacific Coast Soccer League campaign.

Fullback Tony Quinn and halfback-fullback Daye Stothard are scheduled to write university examinations just about the time United is due to step on the Royal Athletic Park field for a match with North Shore.

That means Don McIntosh and Len Anderson will be forced to go all the way at fullback.

Coach Frank Grealy is undecided about who will replace Stothard, who has been playing regularly on the half-line this season. Regular centre half Bill Hamilton will be flanked by George Paul and either Peter Gooding or Bert Soutar.

SADLER IN GOAL

Goalkeeper Al Davies also is scheduled to be unavailable because of work, but Grealy has no problems there with the capable Barry Sadler available for duty.

In addition to the match at Royal Athletic Park, New Westminster and Firefighters are due to tangle in another league game at Vancouver's Callister Park.

CURLING VICTORY

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Peter McCartney's rink from Peterborough, Ont., won the annual Malcolmson women's invitational bonspiel Wednesday night Columbus will face St. Andrew's in a Sunday game at Callister.

Golf Biggies Sit In Nickel Seats

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—The pace was nine under par Wednesday and it left the big names of golf in the nickel seats in the opening round of the $125,000 PGA national four-ball championship.

The team of Paul Bondeson and Larry Mowry and a brother act, Jacky and Buster Cupit, posted identical scores of 63 to lead after the first round of the 72-hole tournament.

One stroke behind was a team of club professionals, Ross Coon Jr. and Bob Crowley, who fired two rounds of 32.

The Cupit brothers birdied seven of the last nine holes in carding 34-29—63 over the 6,548-yard course.

Bondeson, 25, and Mowry, 28, put together rounds of 32 and 31 with seven birdies and Mowry's 10-foot eagle putt on the 497-yard 10th hole.

Back in a six-way tie for third at 65 were the first of golf's big names—the teams of Billy Casper and rookie Homero Blancas—and the brother team of Jay and Lionel Hebert.

Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, the big drawing cards of the tournament, scored a first-round 67 in their first PGA appearance as a team.

Nicklaus said he and Arnie "just weren't concentrating."

Bombers Unable To Lure Homebrew

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Football Conference are having problems keeping homebrew players at home—mainly because of the money.

St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League have signed Gordon Brown, 23, of Winnipeg, a star end of Oklahoma Sooners in the Big Eight Conference.

"We just couldn't match what the Cardinals offered him," Bomber coach Bud Grant said Wednesday.

Grant said he was keenly disappointed that the Winnipeg club failed in its bid to obtain Brown, but added:

"We went as far as we could go for a rookie of his calibre."

Brown, attending Oklahoma University on an athletic scholarship, is reported to have received a $6,000 bonus for signing with the Cardinals.

If Brown makes the grade with St. Louis, he will be the first Manitoba-born player to play in the NFL. Les Lear, who grew up in Winnipeg but was born in North Dakota, played with Cleveland Rams several years ago. Lear learned his football here.

MANY BIDDERS

The 220-pound Brown also had offers from New York Jets, Miami, Dallas and Minnesota. Grant made an undisclosed offer to him in a long-distance telephone call Tuesday.

Brown, who stands six feet, four inches, played high school football in Winnipeg while attending St. Paul's College and St. James Collegiate.

Brumel Makes Plans To Resume Training

BUDAPEST (AP) — Valery Brumel, the Soviet Union's world record-holding high jumper, told the Hungarian news agency MTI's Moscow correspondent he expects to start serious training toward the end of next year. This means he will miss the 1966 European championships.

Brumel, a 23-year-old student, suffered a compound fracture of his right leg Oct. 7 while driving a motorcycle and has been in hospital since. He will have to spend at least two more months in hospital.

In July, 1963, he set the present world high jump record of seven feet 5¾ inches. He won the Olympic title at Tokyo last year with a jump of seven feet, 1½ inches, a Games record.

Racing Days Are Over For King of Trotters

TIME OUT By JEFF KEATE

"Cleverest stick handler in the league!"

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Su Mac Lad, greatest money-winning harness horse of all time, retired from racing in special ceremonies at the winner's circle Tuesday night at Roosevelt Raceway, scene of some of his greatest triumphs.

The 11-year-old trotting gelding was driven once around the track to the cheers of 14,017 fans and then stripped of his racing gear.

His shoes were removed and distributed to his owner, Irving Berkemeyer of New Milford, N.J., Alvin Weil, president of Roosevelt Raceway, Ed Binneweg, representing the Trotting Hall of Fame at Goshen, N.Y., and to his driver-trainer, Stanley Dancer of New Egypt, N.J.

After the ceremonies, Su Mac Lad was loaded on a horse van for shipment to the Dancer farm at New Egypt, where he will spend the rest of his days.

Su Mac Lad, purchased by Berkemeyer for $35,000 in 1959, retired with total earnings of $884,368. He set track records of two minutes at both Roosevelt and Yonkers and won the Roosevelt International classic twice among his many stakes triumphs.

Toronto Aids Baseball Club

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Maple Leaf baseball team will be operating in the International League for another year at least with the help of a $30,000 grant approved Wednesday night by city council.

Club representatives said they had losses of about $232,000 in the last two years and could not continue without the grant.

Mayor Philip Givens, who voted in favor of the grant, said the club probably will need similar grants for another two or three years.

USE OF UW STADIUM SUPPORTED

Seattle Eyes NFL Berth

SEATTLE (AP) — Six Seattle legislators gave bipartisan support today to proposals for use of the University of Washington Stadium for professional major league football.

Three said they would back action by the legislature to make the stadium available for pro football if the university regents won't do so.

The regents have said they have not taken a position on the issue because no firm proposal has been put before them.

Sports interests here believe a National Football League franchise could be obtained in 1967 if a pro team had an adequate place to play.

The university stadium, with a capacity of 55,000 and expansion plans for another 20,000 in the works, is the only place that could be available that soon.

BREAK-IN SENDS MAN BACK TO JAIL

Five Days of Freedom

A man who feels jail "leaves a lot to be desired" was sentenced to return for a two-year stretch Wednesday in central court.

Stephen Cassidy, 627 Bay St., pleaded guilty to breaking into Shirley McAree Florists, 2043 Cadboro Bay, Oct. 31.

Court was told he had been freed from jail only five days before he committed the break-in.

DIVED THROUGH WINDOW

Cassidy dived through a plate glass window in an unsuccessful effort to escape when police caught him in a routine check of the premises.

Court was told Cassidy had a record for theft, assault, break-ins, keeping liquor for sale and indecent exposure.

"One would think you like being in jail," said Magistrate William Ostler in passing sentence.

"It leaves a lot to be desired," replied Cassidy.

Also charged in connection with the break-ins is William Astrope, also of 627 Bay Street. He pleaded not guilty.

Constable Robert Smirl testified in Astrope's trial he saw a man running toward him with his head down from behind the store.

He identified him as the accused.

"He looked at me. His eyes were wild. He looked scared. He said 'There's a guy behind the store . . . he wants to fight me'," Const. Smirl testified.

Astrope told him Cassidy had been trying to fight him and he ran to the constable for help.

Under cross-examination, Const. Smirl stated his investigation gave no indication Astrope was on the premises.

800 DOCTORS ON STRIKE

NEW DELHI (AP)—Physicians employed by the capital's government-run health service went on strike today to enforce demands for improved pay and working conditions.

The strike leaders claimed nearly all the service's 800 physicians walked off the job except some on emergency duty at six hospitals.

A 24-hour strike is planned but strike leaders say they will keep the doctors off the job indefinitely if their demands are not met.

Crystallized Ether Exploded

Several containers of crystallized ether were exploded by demolition experts at the University of Victoria this week.

The ether which is normally used in liquid form had been stored in the basement of the Elliott Building on the Gordon Head campus.

Chemistry department safety officer Dr. Frank Robinson discovered on a routine check that the ether had crystallized because of frequent exposure to air.

A similar situation occurred at the University of B.C. recently when several large containers of crystallized ether were found in a seldom-used portion of the basement of a building.

The Uvic explosion was handled by the Navy's demolition team headed by Lt.-Cmdr. Ward Palmer, head of Pacific Command operational diving.

Social Crediters Alerted by Bonner

VANCOUVER (CP)—Attorney-General Bonner has alerted Social Crediters to be prepared for a provincial — and even another federal — election next year.

Mr. Bonner told the Vancouver Point-Grey Social Credit Association Wednesday night that the provincial government, now in the third year of its five-year term, habitually calls an election before the start of its last year in office.

He siad association members should start immediately canvassing for new party members.

The attorney-general termed the result of the Nov. 8 federal election a complete stalemate — "the public registered an enormous negative reaction to all national party programs."

Because of this he said, the Social Credit movement should be ready for a federal election at short notice, and ready to make a strong contribution to another national campaign.

Kennedy, under a 20-year sentence in Illinois for bank robbery, was awaiting trial on armed robbery charges.

Alsbury Back In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Alderman Halford Wilson, veteran of Vancouver civic politics, topped the poll as he returned to city hall for his 24th year in the city elections Wednesday.

Incumbents Tom Campbell and Aeneas Bell-Irving were also re-elected.

Former mayor Tom Alsbury and Reg Atherton took the other two seats, beating out incumbents Phillip Lipp and Bert Emery in the 14-man race for five council seats. Alsbury was off council one year after being defeated in a bid for mayor by William Rathie in 1964.

Wilson polled more than 32,000 votes, followed by Alsbury with more than 30,000 and Campbell, Bell-Irving and Atherton in that order. Wilson, Bell-Irving and Atherton had Non-Partisan Association sponsorship. The others ran as independents.

Vancouver voters, turning out in fair numbers, also endorsed by a narrow majority, a $10,500,000 referendum for schools—half of which will be paid by the provincial government—and passed a bylaw to buy the old Langara Golf Course from the CPR for park purposes.

Re-elected school trustees were incumbents Roy Bell, Betsy McDonald, Fred Rowell and Eva New, all with NPA support for the four one-year term seats on the school board. NPA candidates Grace McCarthy, Everett Crowley and Andy Livingstone won the three one-year seats open on the park board.

OAK BAY VOTE

60% NEEDED

Spotlight on Fluoridation

By RON SUDLOW

Oak Bay ratepayers on Saturday will elect three councillors, one school trustee and vote on three referendums.

Two of the referendums, hospitals and fluoridation of the municipality's water supply, have been controversial.

The Greater Victoria School Board is asking property owners' approval of a $1.7 million money bylaw to complete building projects.

A 60 per cent yes vote is needed.

The fluoridation vote will be open to all electors and also requires a 60 per cent majority to pass.

Only property owners vote on schools.

In 1959, an area-wide vote on fluoridation in Greater Victoria revealed only 37 per cent of those who voted were in favor.

But because Oak Bay had the highest percentage of "yes" votes, council was prompted to go it alone this year.

The proposal has been protested by Greater Victoria Individual Rights Association.

But it has been endorsed by the Metropolitan Board of Health and medical and dental associations.

It will cost $10,000 to install the equipment to inject fluorine into the water supply.

If ratepayers approve, this will be done at the two pumphouses where water enters the municipality.

Cost each year for maintenance, depreciation and chemicals will be $3,600.

All Greater Victoria municipalities except Sidney are voting on the hospital question.

TWO-MILL LEVY

Hospital needs would be financed by a two-mill levy on property to replace the present system of municipal grants and individual donations.

On council, Reeve Allan Cox was re-elected for his second two-year term by acclamation.

And Councillors Dr. Harold Carter, Douglas Watts and Fred Hawes still have another year to go in their terms.

Incumbents Mrs. Frances Elford, Bill Wade and Walter Dodsworth are being opposed by Hubert Cashman, a newcomer to Oak Bay politics.

Oak Bay School Trustee Peter Bunn is being challenged by Mrs. Dorothy May Ellinor.

Here are the candidates and their comments on the issues:

HUBERT CASHMAN, chartered accountant who lives at 454 Newport Ave.

If elected his chief interest will be planned growth of Oak Bay with efficiency and economy.

He asks ratepayers to vote on hospitals "whether you think it better to accept this increased tax and argue later or to refuse to take on this liability before strong efforts are made to persuade federal and provincial governments to pay the cost."

"The property owner and rent payer should not be unjustly burdened."

He has taken no stand on fluoridation.

MRS. FRANCES ELFORD, housewife, 3045 Larkdowne, is seeking her second two year term on council.

She advocates extending Victoria Public Library services and has helped draft a proposed intermunicipal agreement which would change distribution of library costs and include Oak Bay in library board voting.

She favors fluoridation but calls the hospital scheme "a duplication of taxation on homeowners."

"The provincial government in the two per cent sales tax collected $44 million over and above what has been spent on hospitals.

WALTER DODSWORTH, 1550 Yale, manager of Butchart Gardens, is seeking his third consecutive term.

He favors supporting hospitals but is confused by the provincial government's haste in putting it before ratepayers.

"It would be much better if it could be voted upon in three or four months," he said.

"Hospitals shouldn't become an election issue but the present method of financing needs clarification."

He takes no stand on fluoridation.

BILL WADE, 2357 Pacific, is also seeking his third straight council term.

He has served on all council committees except fire and was chairman of the juvenile detention home committee when the home was planned.

The hospital scheme is necessary for financing, he says, but the burden shouldn't be placed on the ratepayer.

"Other forms of taxation or sharing need to be worked out," he said.

He advocates a "yes" vote on fluoridation for the "general welfare of the populace."

"All health officials advocate it," he said.

Playhouse Bustles Along Despite All Controversy

McPherson Theatre in Centennial Square is a busy place despite the controversy which has surrounded it since the February opening, Ald. A. W. Toone said Wednesday.

The chairman of the square committee, in a final report to citizens, said:

"In spite of much conflicting comment the theatre has experienced relatively few dark nights and on the average has enjoyed reasonably good attendance considering the short period it has been functioning."

He noted McPherson Playhouse has been put to a variety of uses, including conventions, amateur and professional theatrical and musical productions, travelogues, receptions and fashion shows.

Ald. Toone said all components of the $3.5 million square project begun in 1963 are in use or need only finishing touchs.

FINISHING TOUCHES

The chairman envisaged the old folks' activity centre as headquarters of an activity program for all of Greater Victoria.

"It is to be hoped that satellite centres will be developed in various neighborhoods as required, with the downtown building serving as administrative headquarters Ald. Toone said.

This building was one of six square projects completed this year. The others were the theatre and connected restaurant, soon to be put into use.

The police building and magistrate's courts; landscaping; carpark and shopping arcade.

Finished in 1964 were city hall restoration and annex, and Centennial Foutain, the gift of Greater Victoria municipalities.

Ald. Toone notes the square has "pulled up by its bootstraps" a depressed commercial area where real estate values have increased 75-250 per cent.

It has provided a cultural centre for citizens and an attraction for tourism.

MAYOR CREDITTED

The report gives credit to Mayor R. B. Wilson for proposing the square, and to former architectural consultant Roderick Clack for committing it to paper.

An architectural team was involved in the feasibility study, cost estimates and design of the individual projects.

Centennial Square is a memorial to the 100th anniversary of civic government inaugurated Aug. 2, 1862.

Shoplifting Admitted By Prairie Girls

Two 18-year-old girls who came here from Saskatchewan three months ago pleaded guilty Wednesday to stealing drapes, suits and pyjamas from two downtown stores Tuesday.

Sharon Brown and Mary Carol Douglas, both staying at a Princess Avenue address, were remanded to Dec. 15 for sentence and pre-sentence report.

Policewoman Kay Althouse said they went into one store and took two suits to a rest room. They put on the jackets and walked out of the store carrying the skirts in a bag, picking up the pyjamas on the way.

They were caught later in another store after stealing drapes and two pairs of nylon stockings. Total value of the stolen goods was just under $100.

Halt Asked on New Building For Hard Core Prisoners

MONTREAL (CP) — A group of experts in handling of prisoners Tuesday agreed to urge the federal government to halt construction of a $2,500,000 building for hard core inmates of St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary.

The request was sent to Ottawa on behalf of lawyers, psychologists, criminologists and psychiatrists who attended a meeting at the University of Montreal which was jointly sponsored by the John Howard Society, the Civil Liberties Union and the Quebec Society of Criminology.

Speaking at the meeting, Dr. Bruno Cormier, who became the penitentiary's first psychiatrist 10 years ago, said the new building would only increase the problems of hard core prisoners by cutting them off from prison society.

OPPOSES ISOLATION

"We cannot live in a completely cloistered environment. In war time people existed for long periods under such conditions. But they were well adjusted to begin with and were fighting for a cause, something most prisoners don't have."

Other speakers complained that the new building at Ste. Anne des Plains, Que., would be 20 miles from psychiatric services and that "certain sections" of the federal justice department had demonstrated "bad faith" in deciding on the new building.

CHAMPION For Saanich

(Inserted by Champion Committee)

Dear Victoria Voters:

It has been my good fortune to serve as Alderman in one of the most exciting periods of the City's history. Under the leadership of Mayor R. B. Wilson we have made advances, during this time, which would have seemed almost unbelievable a few short years ago. For most of this time it has been my privilege to be closely associated with many of these developments. As Chairman of the Committees dealing with City Beautification, Downtown Improvement and Urban Renewal, I have dedicated many hundreds of hours to the resolve to make our City the finest capital in Canada. Above all, I have derived the keenest pleasure from my Chairmanship of the Centennial Square Committee which has resulted in a civic complex acclaimed across Canada. I believe that planning, both regional and local, is the key to our ability to assure for our Capital City and its residents an ever more prosperous future. We here are endowed with the most beautiful natural environment that has ever been bestowed upon a city. Such a heritage demands from those in positions of responsibility the utmost of their wisdom and forethought as to how such riches are administered.

Now after much thought, and consultation with those whose opinions I respect, I am standing for election as Mayor of Victoria. It is my belief that the Office of Mayor is a full-time responsibility, demanding from the holder of this office his complete and undivided allegiance. It is my intention, if elected, to resign from my present position and to work full time as your Mayor.

I am grateful of the opportunity that you have given me for the last five years to serve you as one of your Aldermen. The trust you have placed in me has, I believe, been justified and now I earnestly ask for your support again so that I may continue to serve you, this time as Mayor.

Yours sincerely,

Alfred W. Toone

IN ABDUCTION

Court Orders Mental Tests

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police Wednesday laid three charges under the abduction section of the Criminal Code against a 58-year-old Vancouver man in connection with the 24-hour disappearance of a sick eight-year-old girl.

Donald McKay was charged with abduction, with possessing and with harboring Lori Taylor, eight, a cerebral palsy and epilepsy victim who must take medicine three times a day.

The girl, who suffered brain damage as a child, was located late Tuesday and said she had spent the night with a man who had taken her to his room promising her a kitten.

McKay appeared briefly in police court Wednesday and was remanded without plea to Dec. 15 pending a psychiatric examination ordered by the magistrate.

'FAT MAN'

The search began when Lori's young brother, Chris, four, came home with a dime in his hand. He said a "fat man" had given it to him, sent him home and led Lori away by the hand. The house where she was eventually found 24 hours later was just six blocks from her home.

Lori, examined at hospital, was found to be apparently unharmed and not ill despite the fact she had gone without medication she is prescribed three times a day.

She told her frantic mother, Mrs. Irene Taylor, in a tearful reunion that she had gone with "the man" because he promised her a kitten. She had given the kitten some milk from a "teeny fridge" in the man's room.

Roomers in the house said they heard the girl crying a bit during the night, but did not know she was the missing child.

Lori's father, RCAF Corporal Don Taylor, rushed here from Comox to aid in the search for his daughter who has suffered seizures since she was 18 months old and has been left with brain damage.

Miner Killed

HOPE (CP) — Miner Wilfred Cluff, 24, was killed Wednesday when hit by a slab of rock at the Giant Mascot nickel mine, seven miles northwest of this Fraser Valley centre.

Pirates Seize Freighter

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — Black-suited pirates have taken over the copra-laden Greek freighter Aeakos, aground on a reef in the South China Sea, and driven off a salvage ship.

About 100 men swarmed aboard the 5,084-ton Aeakos Sunday, said Capt. A. K. Sundah of Singapore freighter Basongo, which returned here Wednesday night from the scene.

The Basonga was sent to the Aeakos early last month and took off only a small part of the grounded freighter's cargo of copra when the pirates arrived.

Capt. Sundah said the pirates came in six vessels, one about 60 feet long.

"The men were mostly dressed in black and the boats were covered with bamboo poles to make them look like fishing vessels," the captain said.

MANY WERE IN RED

Three-Man Board Gets Pay Dispute

A three-man arbitration board will decide the salary scale for Greater Victoria teachers beginning next Tuesday.

Dec. 31 is the deadline for hearings and awards.

The teacher's arbitrator is Dr. I. D. Pal, associate professor of economics at the University of Victoria, and lawyer Kenneth Murphy will represent the school board.

Chairman of the board is insurance agent William McColl.

Mr. Murphy will also act for the Sooke School board in their salary dispute with District 63 teachers.

Chairman of the Sooke arbitration board is Vancouver lawyer Ernest A. Alexander.

Dr. Walter Young, professor of economics and political science at the University of B.C. will represent the teachers.

Saanich teachers settled with the school board last month for a 5.7 per cent increase.

Voting Bar Quashed

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A three-judge federal court declared unconstitutional Wednesday a New York State law requiring that a voter must have at least a sixth-grade education in an English-language school. The decision affected approximately 500,000 Spanish-educated Puerto Ricans.

1,000 to Lose Jobs

LUTON, England (Reuters) — Nearly 1,000 skilled aircraft designers and production workers will lose their jobs when the British Aircraft Corporation's factory here is closed in July, it was announced Wednesday.

The closure is part of a reorganization scheme following cancellation by the government of the TSR-2 aircraft project.

FREE MAIL DENIED GIBBS

SALISBURY (AP) — Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith seems resolved that the Christmas spirit will not extend to Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs.

A mailbag contaning several hundred Christmas cards posted by the governor has been returned to him as the Rhodesian government has withdrawn his privilege of sending mail in envelopes marked "Official free."

A post office spokesman said the mail was returned so the governor's staff could put postage stamps on all the envelopes.

Earlier, Smith's government, which maintains Gibbs no longer is the lawful governor, cut off his telephone and withdrew his servants, official cars and secretarial help in an effort to get him to quit Government House.

Only One Candidate Favors Levy

The three candidates for Esquimalt reeve and four out of the five candidates for council oppose meeting the increasing costs for hospitals through property taxation.

Coun. Art Mebs, up for re-election on Saturday, is the only candidate to dissent with the view that hospital capital costs should be met through the sales tax.

Says Mr. Mebs: "Because the proportion of hospital costs paid by the municipalities in Greater Victoria has been very small in the past, and to maintain local autonomy in hospital demands, we should assume greater financial responsibility."

The candidates' statements came in answer to a series of five questions put to them by the Association of Women Electors of Greater Victoria.

DIVIDED

On the question "are you satisfied with the present system of meeting school costs," the eight candidates are equally divided.

Reeveship candidates Ray Bryant and Bert Nelson are satisfied with the present system. Mr. Bryant can see no other "practical alternative."

Mr. Nelson qualifies his statement, commenting that "the percentage the property owner pays should be controlled, or at least discussed, at the municipal level."

Rejecting the present system, reeve-candidate George Argyle suggests "two ways to meet our school costs more directly—appoint the school board from the various councils (which I favor) or have the province take 100 per cent control and responsibility."

Coun. Mebs recommends revising the present tables and formulas used to compute the shareable costs of each school district.

Council candidate Russel Atkinson proposes meeting the school costs through a social service tax on luxury items or through the income tax.

Council candidate Art Fields would like to see "greater participation by the federal government."

The three other questions to the candidates dealt with the Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria's Juvenile Delinquency Survey, municipal assistance towards scholarships and facilities for the arts and a proposal to deal with Work Point Barracks should the camp close and the land revert to the municipality.

Upset in New Zealand

WELLINGTON (Reuters) — The Labor party today ousted its parliamentary leader, Arnold Nordmeyer, 64, in the biggest political surprise in New Zealand for many years. The parliamentary Labor group of 35 Opposition members elected Norman Kirk, 42, member for the South Island seat of Lyttelton and a comparitive newcomer in national politics, to the party leadership.

ELDERLY FEEL PINCH OF POVERTY

OTTAWA (CP) — Poverty among the aged is particularly intense, a report to a federal-provincial conference on poverty says.

As they get older, their incomes decrease. Costly illnesses destroy savings. The special needs of the elderly who lived alone aren't met.

The Canada pension plan will improve the situation, a special report to the conference says, but it leaves two holes.

"Many of those already aged or who will become so in the next five to 10 years will receive either partial benefits or none at all, it says.

Then there would be the aged who had never been a part of the labor force and thus were ineligible for benefits.

Women's Canadian Club

MAMMOTH PARTY AT THE EMPRESS

One of the largest holiday parties in Victoria took place in the Crystal Ballroom of the Empress Hotel, Wednesday afternoon, when 425 members of the Women's Canadian Club gathered for the group's annual Christmas tea.

Members of the executive, led by social convener Mrs. Leslie Macdonell and her committee members, Mrs. Dal MacLeod, Mrs. T. C. Evans and Mrs. Fred Corbett, had spent the previous evening decorating the ballroom. Their efforts turned the huge room into a feast of color.

The stage was banked with a winter garden of huge silver leaves, scarlet poinsettias and pine boughs while a gigantic Christmas tree glittered a brilliant welcome at one side.

Festoons of holly, offset with steamers of red satin ribbon, formed the base of the table decorations. Add to this, golden urns filled with scarlet poinsettias and pine boughs, some with touches of gold and silver, and the colorful scene was set. In addition, an attractive arrangement of scarlet carnations and white chrysanthemums gave a final touch of Christmas to the head table.

Women guests added their own touches of color, too. Mrs. George R. Pearkes, honorary president, attended. She honored the holiday season by wearing a green dress, given the Christmas spirit with a berry-red brooch and matching bowed whimsie.

Dresses and hats of other guests gave the ballroom the look of a kaleidoscope picture. Every texture and color was to be seen, blending in a mosaic to flatter any garden.

John Dunbar was guest soloist and his rich baritone voice wooed the guests with a range of songs—Irish, Dutch, English, Scottish—with a warm sincerity that none could resist. And, when he led them in the time-honored carols, "Silent Night" and "Come, All Ye Faithful," the high ballroom ceiling echoed with the sound of hundreds of voices. Mr. Dunbar was accompanied by the accomplished pianist, Mrs. Grace Timp.

Guests were welcomed by president Mrs. Elizabeth Forbes and the program was arranged by Mrs. H. H. Youson, first vice-president.

Seated with them at the head table were Mrs. Pearkes, Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar, Mrs. Timp, Mrs. F. M. Corbett, Mrs. Macdonell, Miss Ethel Bruce, Miss Kathleen Agnew, Miss Jessie Gordon, Miss Mary Ashworth, Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. Percy Scurrah, Mrs. R. T. Wallace, Mrs. Frank Mack, Mrs. A. B. Young, Mrs. Dorothy Wrotnowski and Mrs. Pat Dufour. Presiding at the head table were Mrs. Scurrah and Mrs. Macdonell.

Presiding at the long tables that filled the remainder of the ballroom was a veritable "army." Helping to keep tea cups filled for the many guests were Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, Mrs. H. L. Smith, Mrs. T. H. Johns, Mrs. F. G. Aldous, Mrs. Kenneth Drury, Mrs. W. M. Wilson, Mrs. Gordon Wismer, Dr. Olga Jardine, Mrs. H. L. Campbell, Mrs. A. B. Young, Mrs. T. C. Evans, Mrs. Dal MacLeod, Mrs. C. L. Smith, Mrs. A. S. Stringer, Mrs. T. C. Hamilton, Mrs. Howard Damaske, Mrs. P. J. Sinnott, Mrs. Archibald Oswald and Mrs. Douglas Leechman.

Also helping to "keep the supply lines coming" at the mammoth tea party were Mrs. A. T. C. Cowley, Mrs. W. G. Flett, Mrs. Bruce Hutchison, Mrs. C. W. Paulin, Mrs. W. Redford, Mrs. W. F. Pinfold, Mrs. R. M. McDougall, Mrs. H. H. Henderson, Mrs. R. A. Lipsey, Mrs. R. R. Jeffels, Mrs. P. J. Mulcahy, Mrs. George Ewart, Mrs. H. A. Powell, Mrs. H. B. Elworthy, Mrs. Norman Featherstone, Miss Margaret Sanson, Mrs. J. R. Howard, Mrs. Malcolm Taylor, Miss Margaret Clay, Mrs. K. O. Wright and Mrs. A. H. Sheard.

Realize $1,200

The combination of a variety of stalls and the added attraction of selections sung by Christ Church Cathedral's Boys' Choir realized the sum of $1,200 at the recent bazaar and tea of the Cathedral's Women's Guild. Dean Brian Whitlow opened the affair and Mrs. Whitlow greeted guests. Mrs. F. Cowley was general convener.

SHARE HONORS WITH HORSE

LONDON (UPI) — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and Queen Elizabeth shared honors with a horse Wednesday in a published list of "the 12 most glamorous people in the world."

The horse was Arkle, Britain's champion steeplechaser, and the author of the list was Angus McGill, men's columnist of the London Evening Standard. As for the horse McGill commented "anyone misguided enough to complain that horses aren't people is not a true born Englishman."

Your Child Will Fall For Suggestive Doll

— By Penny Saver

My little niece is quite restless when bedtime rolls around. Like most two-year-olds, she doesn't like to go to bed, especially if there is company. I have tried all sorts of methods to make her sleepy, such as walking her around the house, playing with her until I am exhausted, having a "cat nap" with her, and even singing lullabies. The latter, I'm afraid, was more of a stimulant than anything.

I thought of inventing a toy that would suggest sleep. However, somebody thought of it before I did.

This toy is a musical sleeping doll. When it is wound up, it plays Brahm's "Lullaby," its head rolls around lazily, and it changes position as one does while sleeping.

This doll is practically unbreakable, as it is a rag-doll, amply stuffed. Selling for $4.88, it comes in blue and pink.

One toy for the very chatty child is a play phone. An authentic scale model wall phone sells for $1.59. Made of soft, safe polyethelene, it comes in shades of blue and pink. Suction cups on the back allow it to cling to any smooth surface.

Other scale-model phones of the same material, which ring just like a real phone, are the French phone, selling for $1.49, and the princess style, which sells for $1.39.

There are so many crafts on the market for children, but an appalling few for the adult who, like me, possesses no manual dexterity whatsoever. In this shop, I found one that I would like to try my hand at—making leather moccasins.

The materials come in a kit. Leather pieces are already cut and have the holes punched in them. All you have to do is stitch the pieces together with the leather cord provided in the kit.

The leather is very thick, so the finished shoe will have a long life. Kits are available for all sizes and prices range from $2.50 for the children's shoe to $3.25 for men's and women's sizes.

Give Penny a call at 382-3131. She'll tell you where to shop for these items.

Watch Those Frills!

BOSTON (AP)—Okay, girls, if you're going to court, throw out that ostrich-feather hat, tone down the lipstick, lower the high heels and take off those fancy black stockings. Many of you just haven't the right idea about how to win a court case.

Edward M. Dangel, a trial lawyer, offers some suggestions.

First, he says, don't be cute and coy.

And if there is any question of honor or innuendo of unchastity, meet it with a "showing of spirited resentment, rather than attempt at smiling wit or smirking repartee."

"A woman witness at all times must display her personality as a lady."

Dangel gave the advice in the current issue of the Legalite, a publication of the Massachusetts Trial Lawyers Association.

In general, he said, too little attention is given to the conduct of a witness in the courtroom and in the vicinity of the courtroom as well as in the witness box.

Women in divorce cases, for example, are advised to be modest and sedate rather than flashy and flamboyant. "... Rouge and lipstick, if used, should be at a minimum, jewelry, except a few simple trinkets, ought not to be used ... fancy stockings are to be avoided," Dangel said.

He said if a witness is falsely accused of a wrongful act, falseness or affectation in dress, speech and behavior tend to support the credibility of the accusation.

THE BETTER HALF — By Bob Barnes

"I'll take it up with Santa Claus, but personally I don't think you've been good enough."

The perfect finale for a holiday table is fragrant spicy chocolate souffle. Blend the base of evaporated milk and chocolate chips and a whiff of spice ahead and fold into airy egg whites at the last minute. Serve with brandy hard sauce.

Do Most of This Souffle Ahead And Keep Your Guests Wondering

When the holiday occasion calls for a dramatic dessert, try this old idea with a new and festive touch. It's Spicy Chocolate Souffle highlighted with brandy hard sauce. The subtle difference is a fragrant touch of spice and bits of nuts throughout. Brought to the holiday table with a flourish, this light and airy dessert will be a welcome ending to what is often a heavy holiday dinner.

A souffle needn't awe you. True, it is a can't-wait dessert. But to make Spicy Chocolate Souffle you can cook the chocolate mixture ahead and let it stand until finishing time. The base of the souffle is a blend of "go-togethers for easy cooking"—evaporated milk and chocolate chips. No need to worry about the mixture getting to the proper thickness. As the chocolate chips melt into evaporated milk, you'll get the just-right sauce consistency for the souffle. At the decided "into the oven" time, beat the egg whites and gently fold in the chocolate sauce. Bake in your most festive baking dish.

A perfect holiday partner for the spicy souffle is hard sauce flavored with a nip of brandy. Mellow the flavor of the hard sauce by making it early.

And, remember any dessert is more spectacular if the hostess serves it at the table. Spicy Chocolate Souffle is a perfect show-off dinner finale. Try it and see.

SPICY CHOCOLATE SOUFFLE

Half cup evaporated milk, one-half 6-oz. pkg. (⅓ cup) chocolate chips, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 eggs (separated), ½ cup cut-up nuts, ⅓ cup sugar.

Turn on oven and set at 350 (moderate). Stir evaporated milk, chocolate chips, cinnamon and salt in a 1-quart saucepan over low heat until chocolate chips melt completely. Cool. Stir in 3 egg yolks, slightly beaten, and nuts. Beat 3 egg whites in small bowl or electric mixer (of 1½-quart bowl) until fluffy. Add sugar gradually and continue to beat until stiff peaks form.

Fold chocolate mixture into beaten egg whites.

Pour into ungreased 1-quart round souffle or baking dish.

Set dish in shallow pan holding an inch of hot water. Bake about 60 minutes or until no imprint remains when touched lightly in centre with finger.

Serve hot with Brandy Hard Sauce. Serves six.

BRANDY HARD SAUCE

Three tablespoons evaporated milk, 2 tablespoons soft butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons brandy, 2½ cups sifted powdered sugar.

Put evaporated milk, butter or margarine and brandy in a small bowl. Gradually stir in powdered sugar until smooth. Serve with Spicy Chocolate Souffle.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Not long ago I asked my readers to tell me what they think about the highly controversial subject, "is man or woman the more romantic?" Health and beauty are so dramatically and literally affected by happiness and unhappiness that this is a subject worth thinking about. My readers have shown great interest in expressing themselves and in hearing what others have written to me.

Lowman

I am sorry that I cannot print all the letters but only excerpts from a few of them. The first is from a man.

"Your article this morning is mine. I should be on the road, but I just had to jot down this note. The male is definitely the romanticist in our society, but after marriage even he becomes passive far too often. Why?

BECOME CARELESS

"Oftentimes after the newness of marriage has worn off women demand less and less of the small courtesies and become careless in their attention to their man. Although romantic by nature, men often need to be reminded by the woman waiting to be seated, waiting at the car door, using her curlers in private, that she deserves (and we want to give her) special care and thoughtfulness. Women of the world — unite! You have nothing to lose but your curlers. Men of the world —unite! When was the last time you took your woman just one rose?"

This comes from a woman: "Your article in tonight's paper titled 'Men More Romantic?' interested me very much and also made me a little sad. I hope my husband is an exception. We have been married several years and he has never once told me he loves me nor has he ever brought me a present even on my birthday or at Christmas. Occasionally he has done the little things you mention but rarely.

USED TO IT

"I've gotten used to it and love him just the same, but sometimes I wish he would realize how much it would mean to me if he were just a little bit romantic."

This is from a woman: "My belief is that the average man and woman are equally romantic, but I firmly contend that the woman must take the lead by setting aside certain times from her everyday routine to work at being as attractive as possible. Most men are very appreciative also of little thoughtfulnesses on the woman's part and respond to them wholeheartedly."

From a woman: "I believe men are truly romantic. In the business world they must of necessity be realistic, but in the company of an appreciative woman they can be wonderfully romantic.

"I have been married eight years to a wonderful man. We have three children all under school age. Yet he is no less romantic than when we were first married. The little things I do to make him happy don't require much effort and pay dividends unequalled."

DEAR ABBY . . .

Don't Blame Me

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You have certainly caused me a lot of trouble. Ever since Debbie, my 15-year-old daughter read in your column that YOU, personally had your ears pierced so you wouldn't lose your earrings, she has been after me to let her have her ears pierced. You should realize, Abby, that a lot of young people read your column and hold you up as an example, and for you to put stuff like that in your column which is contrary to a mother's way of thinking, only stirs up trouble. In the future, please be a little more thoughtful.

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Unfair! I never have had my ears pierced, nor do I intend to. Your daughter did not read that in MY column. Besides, if there's anything I DON'T need, it's two more holes in my head.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 but am very mature for my age. I am going with a real cool guy. He is 23, but I told my parents he was only 18 because if they knew how old he was they'd never let me go out with him. I am not ashamed of this guy, and there isn't anything wrong with him. Don't tell me to talk it over with my parents because they're not the kind you can talk to. What should I do?

MATURE AT 15

DEAR "MATURE": There's something wrong with YOU, if you can't see what is wrong with HIM. He is old enough to know WHY the parents of a 15-year-old girl do not want her going with a 23-year-old man. And if he were as "cool" as you think he is, he wouldn't be helping you deceive your parents. I say either tell your parents the truth or quit seeing him.

DEAR ABBY: After three years of an impossible marriage, Margaret and I were finally divorced. She remarried soon after. That lasted one year, and she divorced Number Two. Soon as the law allowed she got herself married to Number Three. As you can probably guess, Margaret is now in the process of divorcing Number Three. In the meantime, I have remarried, and what gripes me is that Margaret has now gone back to using MY name! My present wife is MRS. JOHN DOE, and I am not a bigamist. Can my first wife do this? I mean legally? Why doesn't she use one of her other ex-husbands' names? Or even take her maiden name back as long as she's not married? How dare she?

NO BIGAMIST

DEAR NO: If you and your first wife have children who bear your name, perhaps that's the reason she prefers to retain it. Or she could be motivated by mischief or meanness. However, a divorcee is properly MRS. Smith (her maiden name) DOE. She never uses her former husband's Christian name. She dares because she has the nerve. Whether she "may"—legally, is a good question for your lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: I liked your answer to HEARTSICK MOTHER, who discovered through some letters she shouldn't have read that her 22-year-old daughter was having pre-marital relations with her boy friend. She said, "She has repeatedly condemned girls who have had to get married, but her sin is worse because we are Catholics and do not believe in birth control, which she apparently has been practicing."

Abby, I wish you would clarify that one sentence to your readers. Catholics ARE allowed to practice birth control, but not by artificial methods. It requires sacrifice on the part of both partners, but isn't that what love is based on?

STEALS SPRING COLLECTION

Thief Stumps French Designer

PARIS (AP) — The fashion house of Carven may have no clothes for its showing of spring fashions next month.

The whole spring collection was stolen when someone made off with a van in which the suits, dresses and coats had been loaded for the trip from the workshop to the Carven showroom on the Champs Elysees.

"It's frightful," said Mme. Carven. "In 20 years in this business, nothing like this has ever happened to me."

Police said the thief was probably just after the truck and might abandon the clothes. If he doesn't, said Mme. Carven, she will have to show buyers the press drawings of the collection when the Paris houses unveil their spring line in mid-January. She said there isn't time to duplicate the missing garments.

Jury Denounces—Mayor Promises

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Vice in San Francisco is again under fire this time in a grand jury denunciation of sin, sex and "moral decay."

But the bright lights didn't even flicker in a city whose Barbary Coast past makes "amateur topless night" a humdrum event and where neons flash "Nude. Model Strip Poker."

Even the Salvation Army gave up after an attempted revival and announced it wouldn't try that again on the North gbeach night club strip.

The grand jury, which makes reports of city activities one of its traditional functions, noted Tuesday what it called a marked increase in pornographic literature and "open and notorious solicitation for prostitution."

Jurors also took a new swing at the city's topless waitresses and showgirls.

"THERE'S NO CASE"

Police arrested several bare-bosomed performers in raids on North Beach clubs last summer. But municipal court judges said they failed to make a case under existing decency laws.

At any rate, officials debated among themselves who should be officially concerned now with the grand jury's finding of "the rising crime rate and the apparent decay of the moral standards of the community."

The mayor's office thought the jury's findings fell under the district attorney's office. The DA's office said the report was a police matter. Police said the report was addressed to the mayor.

Mayor John Shelley, who once punned "the topless bathing suit is at the bottom of it all," issued a statement promising "never to allow wantonness, vulgarity or sexual promiscuity to take over."

Triple Slaying

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A savage triple slaying which caused police inspectors to recoil in horror at the bloody scene ended in the arrest Tuesday of a 28-year-old hotel employee on suspicion of murder. Police said Jose de Trinidad killed his two-year-old son, the woman with whom he had been living and her mother with a paring knife and broken bottle, slept Monday night in the family flat with the bodies nearby, then summoned police.

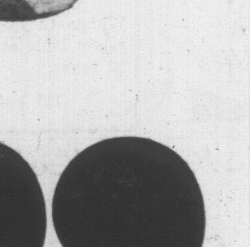
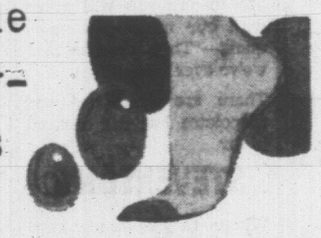
"When the saleslady held up Cameo "Little Nothing" in new Cantrece nylon, I almost laughed. What a funny, crinkly stocking. But when I stretched it on, "Little Nothing" was suddenly made-to-measure. Not a wrinkle or sag. Just fit, fit, fit, with no let-down. (And me, the original baggy-stocking girl.) Soft matte finish. And sheer like crazy. Now I have a complete "Little Nothing" wardrobe. Plainstitch. Mesh. And a wicked nude heel. (The baggy-stocking girl is gone for good.)





Honestly, Cameo, where have you been all my life?"

Baby Booster Criticized

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—A South African official who urged all white married couples between 20 and 25 to have a baby to celebrate the Republic Day anniversary next year is running into criticism.

Michiel Botha, deputy minister for Bantu (Negro) administration said white couples should "give a white child to this wonderful country of ours" to celebrate South Africa's fifth anniversary as a republic May 31.

Commented Mrs. Jean Sinclair, president of Black Sash, a women's anti-apartheid organization:

"This call of the master race to give a white child to the republic next year has an unpleasantly familiar ring for those who remember the exhortations to the German people during the years immediately preceding the last war.

"We ask the minister why he has singled out 25 per cent of the population to produce babies to celebrate the fifth anniversary of the republic."

South Africa has about 3,500,000 whites in its total population of 17,000,000. The rest are Negroes, coloreds (mixed blood) and Asiatics.

Botha, father of seven, said if 427,000 white couples have babies in 1966, there will be an average of 1,145 babies born each day.

"I will leave town," muttered one obstetrician.

He edited more than 3,000 movie scripts a year.

Folk Singers Get Organized

Local folk singers have recently formed their own organization for employment and publicity purposes.

The Victoria Folk Association, formed last week, has already 30 members on its list who meet Wednesday at the A Go-Go club.

The association will help members find jobs in the Greater Victoria area, and send publicity briefs about local talent to Vancouver night spots.

At weekly meetings the members exchange songs, give poetry readings, and later plan to establish a coffeehouse on Wednesdays at the A Go-Go.

Idea for the organization arose at a hootenanny held by Victoria Social Credit candidate Frank Hunter during the last federal election campaign.

NEW MUNICIPALITY

N. Saanich Sets First Council Election

North Saanich residents will hold their first council eelction Saturday.

Since the district was incorporated this summer, a 10-man interim council appointed by Municipal Affairs Dan Campbell has been running the affairs of the municipality.

The new council taking over in the New Year will be composed of seven members — a reeve, three two-year councillors and three one-year councillors.

The elected councillors will have as their reeve J. B. Cumming, a retired contractor who was elected by acclamation in November.

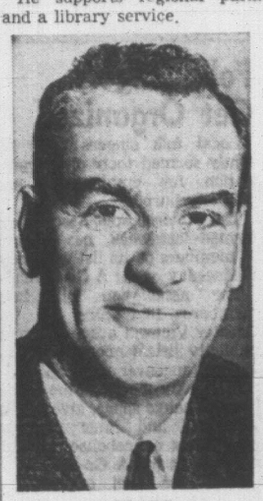
He will succeed Dr. Arthur B. Nash.

Ten candidates are contesting the six seats—five for a two-year term and five for a one-year term. Two are women.

These are the candidates:

George R. Aylard, 32, 1435 Wains Road, farmer, is a University of British Columbia graduate of science in agriculture. He is president of the Sidney Kinsmen Club, a past director and vice-president of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society, past president of the B.C. Jersey Breeders Association and a B.C. director of the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club.

He supports regional parks and a library service.



AYLARD

James I. (Peter) Burchett, 49, 903 Bradley-Dyne, merchant, was born in Victoria and has lived in North Saanich for eight years. He is a member of the pro-tem council, the joint council of property owners and on the executive of the Northwest Mount Newton Property Owners' Association. He is also a member of the advisory planning commission for North Saanich.

He is opposed to the two-mill levy for hospital because he disagrees with the tax formula. He supports regional parks.

BURCHETT

John S. Clark, 46, 618 Lands End, teacher at Claremont Senior Secondary School and a former principal at Royal Oak High School, is on the executive of the Capital Region Community Planning Association and a member of the Deep Cove Property Owners' Association.

He strongly supports regional parks because he feels land soon will be difficult to obtain. He is also in favor of library service.

CLARK

Douglas R. Cook, 47, a civil servant employed in the research branch of the Dominion Experimental Farm, Saanichton. He is serving on the interim council.

He has lived 16 years in North Saanich and is vice-president of the Deans Park Property Owners' Association.

He feels council should give much thought to rezoning and planning for the future. He wants regional parks and a library service.

COOK

Trevor C. M. Davis, 48, 9080 Ardmore, consulting chemical engineer, was born in Victoria and has lived in North Saanich for eight years. He is a member of the pro-tem council and on the executive of the Northwest Mount Newton Property Owners Association.

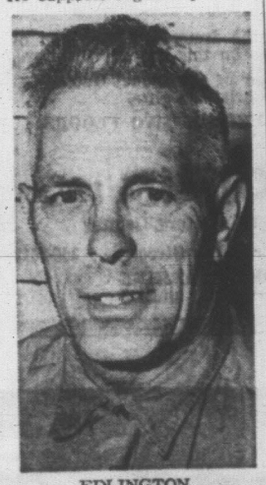
He is against the two-mill levy for hospitals and doesn't oppose acquiring land for park development, but is lukewarm to North Saanich joining the regional parks board.

DAVIS

Frank Edlington, 9393 West Saanich Road, civil servant, immediate past president of the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch No. 37, is president of the Pat Bay local, Civil Service Association of Canada.

He is also a member of the Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce, a director of Sanscha, director of the Saanich Plowing Association, member of the North Saanich-Sidney Centennial Committee and the Northwest Mount Newton Property Owners Association.

He supports regional parks.



EDLINGTON

Eva Hinton, housewife, is a member of the Deep Cove Property Owners Association, supports long-range planning and strict zoning to preserve the amenities of the municipality.

She is opposed to establishing a library service at this time—at least until the matter has been further explored by the incoming council. She supports regional parks and disagrees with the formula for raising money for hospital construction.

HINTON

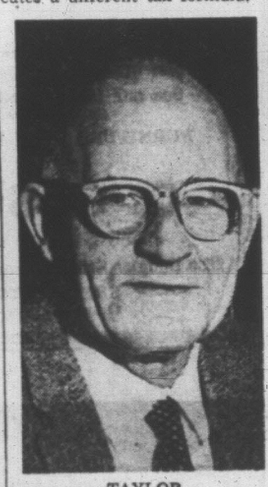
Mrs. H. G. (Nell) Horth, Deep Cove, realtor, is a member of the Community Planning Association of Canada, a charter member and past president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, and a charter member and first president of Ladies' Auxiliary to the Royal Canadian Legion, No. 37.

She favors regional parks and a library service and wants to preserve the rural aspects of North Saanich.

HORTH

Harry A. Taylor, 8650 Aldous Terrace, formerly of Alberta, is a retired registered professional engineer specializing in petroleum.

He strongly supports regional parks because, he says, its good business to buy land now. He is opposed to imposing a two-mill levy on property owners for hospital construction. He advocates a different tax formula.



TAYLOR

J. Harold Wilson, 909 Towner Park, retail merchant, is a member of a well-known Victoria family who has lived in North Saanich for 15 years.

He wants to see North Saanich civic administration established on sound business lines.

GIVEABLE FOAMTREADS

3 good reasons for giving Foamtreads this Christmas

We've seen shoe salesmen stomp on the heel counter of a Foamtread slipper to show how it snaps back to shape.

We've also seen mothers take Foamtread slippers out of the wash as good as new.

In other words, Foamtreads are made to last for a very long time. For example, we have a guarantee against sole separation.

Other reasons for giving Foamtreads this Christmas include: sensible prices; quiet leather out-soles; non-rolling heels; and handsome styling.

Children's $2.98—$3.98, Women's $3.98—$4.98, Men's $3.98—$5.98.

Canadian Base, Super-Fast Jet Doomed by U.S. Defence Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Pentagon decision to thin out U.S. air defences may have doomed any air force hopes for a new, super-fast interceptor jet.

A leading candidate for the role of "improved manned interceptor" has been the 2,000-mile-an-hour YF-12A, unveiled by President Johnson with great fanfare in 1964.

Several prototypes have been built but the YF-12A has not been ordered into production.

Defence Secretary Robert McNamara told Congress early this year it would cost about $4,000,000,000 to produce a force of YF-12A-type interceptors and operate them for five years.

In view of the budget-boosting pressures of the Viet Nam War and the claimed easing of the Russian bomber threat, any such investment now would appear unlikely.

McNamara has said Russia could, with difficulty, "place over this country on two-way missions slightly more than 100 heavy bombers."

With the same difficulty, McNamara said, the Russians might be able to get 150 medium bombers over only the northwestern corner of the United States and Canada.

McNamara has decided to disband 17 squadrons of jet fighter interceptors—F-100, F-102 and some F-104.

This will leave 20 air force interceptor squadrons in operation to defend the U.S. The squadrons are equipped mainly with F-106 jets.

As part of the slimming down of the air defences, 18 batteries of Nike-Hercules anti-aircraft missiles will be removed. These 18 batteries currently are protecting bases of the Strategic Air Command.

Some of these bomber bases are being closed as the U.S. force of 680 long-range jet bombers is to be reduced by about two-thirds during the next five fiscal years.

Defence officials said that under present conditions "SAC bases are not considered profitable targets for bomber attack."

Even after these 18 batteries are dismantled, there will remain more than 110 Nike-Hercules batteries arrayed to protect about 25 metropolitan areas and industrial complexes.

(The U.S. embassy in Ottawa said Harmon Air Force Base at Stephenville, Nfld., where 900 Canadian civilians are employed, will be closed by Dec. 31, 1966.)

STEPHANIE ON BRINK OF DEATH 10 TIMES

'Just a Kid, But I Was Just Too Stubborn to Die'

SMITH
. . . home for holidays

By ROBERT HOLTON

NEW YORK (AP) — When Stephanie Smith announced recently that she would be well enough to go home for Christmas, no one at Rockefeller University Hospital doubted her.

They've learned that Stephanie usually gets what she wants.

Since 1958, the pretty, 22-year-old blonde has had her mind set on one thing—staying alive. A rare blood disease has carried her to the brink of death at least 10 times.

"I guess I'm just too stubborn to die," she says. "When my case was first diagnosed as fatal, I was just a 15-year-old kid and I was terrified.

"But soon the shock wore off and I said to myself: 'Stephanie, you're not going to die no matter what they say.'"

Stephanie has been in and out of hospitals 26 times.

"Six times I was given the last rites of the Catholic Church. And at least a dozen other times I was put on the critical list."

She is recovering from an emergency operation to correct an infection brought about by her condition.

FASTER AND STRONGER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tests show today's youngsters are faster, stronger and more agile than their counterparts of seven years ago.

Today's average 12-year-old boys, for instance, can run the 50-yard dash two-tenths of a second faster, throw a football 10 feet farther, broad jump five inches farther and do 19 more situps.

These facts were reported today by the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

AFL-CIO PARLEY

Big Shakeup Due In Labor's Top Echelon

By NEIL GILBRIDE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The AFL-CIO convened its big biennial convention today, exhorting its 13,000,000 members to work harder for organized labor's goals in Congress and at the bargaining table.

There was politics on the outside and politics on the inside as 1,000 delegates assembled in San Francisco's Civic Auditorium to map the big labor federation's plans for the next two years.

Johnson administration officials lined up to woo labor's vote, which the Democrats need in 1966 to help keep their majority in Congress.

AFL - CIO President George Meany says Democrats must push labor's legislative demands harder if they expect union leaders to continue shelling out money and manpower at election time.

On the inside, there was considerable manoeuvring among many of the federation's 130 union presidents to fill eight seats expected to be vacated on the AFL-CIO executive council.

The internal political fight won't come to a climax until next Tuesday when delegates vote on council candidates.

BIGGEST CHANGE YET

The expected replacement of eight council members will be the biggest change in the top echelon in the history of the AFL-CIO, holding its 10th anniversary convention, and will give the federation a more youthful look.

The eight outgoing members are all retired or ousted presidents of their unions.

There is no guarantee in the AFL-CIO constitution that the same unions will retain places on the 29-man top policy-making body.

But, a federation source said, I. W. Abel is a shoo-in to replace David J. McDonald, whom he ousted as president of the United Steelworkers Union in the midst of the recent steel bargaining crisis. McDonald resigned from the executive council Wednesday.

Paul Jennings, who replaced James B. Carey as president of the International Union of Electrical Workers after the labor department declared Carey's announced re-election as fraudulent, likewise will replace Carey on the council, the source said.

Roy Siemiller, newly-elected president of the International Association of Machinists, is expected to retain the Machinists' spot on the council being vacated by the retired president, A. J. Hayes.

N.Z. Opposes Tests

WELLINGTON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Keith Holyoake said Wednesday he welcomes all the support New Zealand can get to prevent next year's French nuclear tests in the Pacific. Holyoake was commenting on a meeting in Sydney, Australia, of trade union members from Australia, New Zealand and the Pacific Islands to consider ways to prevent the planned tests.

'TREMENDOUS CHALLENGE FOR ONE SO YOUNG'

Worldly Prince to Guide Destinies of Million-Plus Refugees

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A worldly young prince from an ancient Moslem line has been chosen by the United Nations to guide the destinies of more than 1,000,000 refugees.

Prince Sadruddin Aga Khan, 32, son of the late Aga Khan III, is a little awed but undaunted at his selection by Secretary-General U Thant for the post of UN high commissioner of refugees.

"It is a tremendous challenge for one of my age but I feel I have the background for the job," he told an interviewer in a clipped British accent.

"After all, I served under two refugee commissioners and travelled all over Africa and Asia dealing with the problems of thousands of refugees."

It will be Sadruddin's third UN assignment since he graduated from Harvard in 1957. He has served as special consultant to the head of the UN educational, scientific and cultural organization and has been deputy refugee commissioner since 1962.

Sadruddin will look after more than 1,200,000 refugees under UN protection as political exiles, persons displaced by war or made homeless by government changes.

In serving the world forum, the handsome six-foot prince is carrying on a family tradition. His father represented India in the old League of Nations and served as president of the League. His half-brother, the late Prince Aly Khan, headed the Pakistani delegation to the UN until his death in Paris in 1960.

"We were brought up with a sense of responsibility to the Moslem community as a whole," said the prince. "More than that, father raised us in an international atmosphere, sending us to Western schools."

Aly Khan's son—and Sadruddin's nephew—is the Aga Khan IV (Prince Karim), who heads the Ismaili Moslem community estimated to total about 20,000,000 people in Asia and Africa.

Empty Seats On Airlift From Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The refugee airlift, expected to fly between 800 and 900 Cubans here weekly, brought only 504 during the first week. There were 31 empty seats on Wednesday's plane.

A state department spokesman attributed this to "administrative problems at the Cuban end. "Cuba simply isn't producing the passengers in time for the flights."

Refugees say they are hesitant to leave after being told that one of their family cannot come because he is of militant age or falls in another restricted category.

One of the newly arrived refugees, Roberto L. Garcia, 44, said a Cuban Army major was executed and about 100 persons arrested after a plot to assassinate Premier Fidel Castro was uncovered. He said the arrests were made in Pinar del Rio province.

B.C. Lawyer Jailed In Portland

PORTLAND (CP)—A British Columbia lawyer wanted by the RCMP on a theft charge is in jail here for defrauding an innkeeper.

Christopher C. Ryan of Penticton was fined $200 in municipal court Monday and is serving the fine at the rate of $5 a day in Multnomah County jail.

Ryan disappeared from his home in late August. Police said more than $12,000 was missing from his law firm.

A charge of theft over $50 was laid against him by Penticton RCMP.

Alfred Urbano, immigration officer here, said Wednesday Ryan was arrested Saturday on a defrauding charge and also on a fugitive warrant.

He said Ryan is wanted in Moses Lake, Wash., to face a charge of grand larceny.

He said the immigration service has a hearing scheduled for Ryan Dec. 22—provided he is not still in jail.

Urbano said Ryan eventually would be turned over to the RCMP.

Riel Rebellion Survivor Dies at 90

Funeral services were held in McCall Brothers chapel Wednesday for Mrs. Blanche Askey, believed to be the last survivor of the 1885 Riel Rebellion.

She died in Mount St. Mary's Hospital Saturday at the age of 90.

Mrs. Askey was 10 years old when she and her family were captured by the Cree tribe on the prairies. The 32 prisoners were kept two-and-a-half months by the Indians.

When starvation set in, the Indians realized the hopelessness of the situation and released the prisoners.

Mrs. Askey spoke the Cree language and was a telegrapher at various places where her father was agent. Born at Bowmanville, Ont., she came to Victoria 40 years ago.

Mrs. Askey is survived by two nieces, Mrs. Peggy Nash and Miss Betty West, both of Victoria.

Dry Ice Seeding To Attack Fog

SEATTLE (AP) — Efforts to disperse fog by seeding it with powdered dry ice will begin at Seattle-Tacoma airport next month, Airport Manager Don Shay announced Monday.

The technique is already used at Spokane, Portland, Pendleton and Medford, Ore., Boise, Idaho, Salt Lake City, Reno and other cities.

Shay said the port of Seattle, which operates the airport, made arrangements with Seattle Flight Service Inc. to do the fog seeding.

Jack M. Conrad, President of Seattle Flight Service, said seeding would get under way with the first heavy fog next month, during which temperatures are near or below freezing.

CLEAR CORRIDOR

The seeding plane will fly 100 feet above the fog, probably at an altitude of 800 to 1,000 feet, Conrad said. He said he expects to clear a corridor about 9,000 feet long and a quarter of a mile wide over the runway and approach. The corridor should remain clear of fog for 20 to 40 minutes, he said.

If the seeding is to be most successful, the fog must be at a freezing temperature or below. Some results can be obtained up to 38 degrees, Conrad said.

"When dry ice pellets are dropped into the super-cooled fog, a chemical reaction changes water particles into ice crystals," said Shay. "These literally start a very fine snowfall, releasing the moisture and dissipating the fog."

The fog-seeding wil cost the port of Seattle $40.50 an hour of actual flight time.

Three Admit Vagrancy

Three persons pleaded guilty to vagrancy when they appeared in central court Wednesday.

Robert Birdgenaw was picked up at Johnson and Wharf in an intoxicated condition and with only six cents in his pocket. He was remanded to today for sentence.

Henry Smith, who was arrested at Johnson and Government, was also intoxicated and had no money at all. He was sent to jail for two months when court was told he has a record for breaking and entering and theft.

Stanley Lien, picked up in an alley behind the Harbor Light with only $1 in his pocket, was remanded to Dec. 16 for a pre-sentence report.

RUSSIANS LIKE FANTASY

More than 500 science fiction novels and stories have been published in Russia since 1958.

He Baits the Royal Family

LONDON (AP) — William Hamilton won a seat in Parliament in 1950 by beating veteran Scottish Communist Willie Gallagher.

Since then, Hamilton has been baiting the Royal Family on royal expenditures — with Princess Margaret his favorite target.

"I get accused of being a republican and a crypto-Communist," says the tall, fair-haired son of a coal miner. "I am neither."

In fact, the 48-year-old Labor MP who represents the Scottish coal-mining district of West Fife says quietly he is in favor of the monarchy.

"It is accepted that countries have to have a head of state, and as we have a queen there is not much point in switching to a president who would perform the same functions.

"What I want is for the institution of the monarchy to become less expensive."

Hamilton, former army officer and history teacher, says he is sure many MPs share his views on royalty but are afraid to speak out.

HALF DON'T CARE

"In fact, I think the country is divided into about 30 per cent of royalty worshippers, 20 per cent of active opponents, with those in between really indifferent to the doings of royalty."

The government has tended to brush aside Hamilton's barbs at the Royal Family over the years but recently the criticism has brought livelier headlines.

The Wilson government Tuesday night dismissed Hamilton's complaint about the expense of Princess Margaret's recent tour of the United States by saying it would cost British taxpayers about $90,000.

James Callaghan, chancellor of the exchequer, gave the figure in a written statement so there was no opportunity for debate in the House of Commons.

Hamilton says the tradition that members of the Royal Family do not answer criticism is outmoded.

"I would be delighted if Princess Margaret decided to answer my criticism of her."

They Passed (Survived) Safety Course

The first graduates of two new Red Cross survival courses have been announced—and they must be wondering how they survived the training.

The courses, part of the Red Cross Water Safety Program sponsored by the Victoria Chinatown Lions Club, are meant to "train the individual for unusual situations," said an official.

These include:

- How to get out of a sunken automobile.
- How to abandon a ship or pleasure craft.
- How to swim through burning oil.

Practical application is used for only some of these tests. Other situations are simulated, said the official.

The survival courses, divided into basic and advanced classes, are being taught as a pilot project in Victoria.

Borrowed from the American Red Cross Society, the idea has not yet been tried elsewhere in B.C., said the official.

The basic survival course requires 17 hours of instruction, and the advanced course requires 21, plus practice time for both.

Eight graduates have also been announced from the Royal Life Saving Society's Bronze Medallion class, also part of the Red Cross water safety program.

Others successful in the program include 60 in the beginners' class, 55 pre-juniors, 46 juniors, 35 intermediates and 19 seniors.

About 400 students take part in the program, taught by 24 qualified Red Cross instructors.

The new session beginning in January, still has some registration openings left.

Survival course graduates are:

Advanced—Jean Chan, Judy Tuttle, Bunty Barber, Gail Gordon, John Ferguson, Bea Sharock, John Torjek.

12 SEEK CITY COUNCIL SEATS

Here Are Your Candidates

By AB KENT

The first contested mayoralty in four years . . . with three candidates . . . is expected on Saturday to give Victoria its most interesting election of the past six years.

A total of 12 candidates are running for city council seats; the mayoralty, four two-year aldermanic terms and a single one-year term.

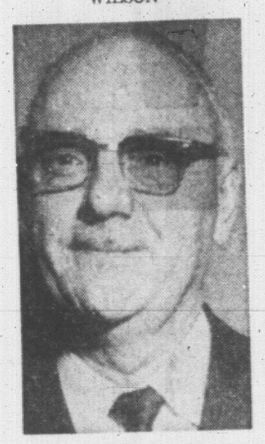
More than 20,000 persons are eligible to vote.

A referendum on whether to enter into a regional hospital plan at an annual cost of up to two mills on the tax rate, is expected to bring out the voters.

Only the 18,410 owner-electors are elegible to vote on this matter.

In the running for chief magistrate are:

WILSON



BAIRD

FRAMPTON

★

Veteran alderman Millard Henry Mooney, 58, 1647 Hollywood, a retired business owner with 13 years on council. In that time he has served on most committees, often as chairman.

Irish-born, he farmed with his father in Saskatchewan before coming here some 25 years ago, during which he set up and operated an auto body repair shop until retirement last year.

He has a wife, daughter and two sons, and devotes spare time to painting.

Mr. Mooney is pledging a strict policy of holding the line on property assessments and to let natural growth provide increased revenues required for an expanding community.

Other planks in the Mooney platform are support for a civic convention hall, urban renewal, keeping the downtown core active, civic beautification, more old folks' activity centres, implementation of the capital region sewer survey, redevelopment of Royal Athletic Park.

★

Second man on the mayoralty ballot is Rev. Anthony Roberts, 49, of 1393 Rockland, a recent aspirant for the federal Conservative nomination, with no previous council experience.

He was born in Toronto, attended university there and graduated in theology in 1939. His student ministry was spent in Saskatchewan, where he was ordained in 1940.

He served as chaplain and schoolmaster at Brentwood College, and held church posts at Alert Bay from 1942-47, at Lammerton Mission, Alta., and at Blyth, Ont., between 1947 and 1951, and since 1952 he has been rector at St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Anglican Church, Esquimalt.

He has been active in United Appeal, as chairman of public meetings and as member of Esquimalt Sports Commission.

His wife is the former Florence Mary Kenmuir, a Royal Jubilee Hospital nursing graduate, and they have four children between 14 and 21 years of age.

Mr. Roberts stands for "progress certainly, but within our means;" a fair deal from the provincial government with a greater share of taxes; more air pollution control; better tourist promotion; a sports commission to set up junior sports programs, and extended old folks' facilities.

★

Third man in quest of the mayor's chain is Ald. Alfred Walter Toone, 49, of 1003 Moss, who has had five years council experience. He has served most public works committees and has chaired those dealing with urban renewal, downtown improvements, beautification, recreation and community services, Centennial Square and Greater Victoria industrial development and research commission.

Ald. Toone has lived in Victoria 25 years, except for four years army service overseas. He and his wife have a married son living here and a daughter attending Victoria High School.

He is secretary-treasurer of Victoria Labour Conucil, president of the Community Welfare Council, an executive director of the United Appeal, a member of the Three Universities Capital Fund and winter employment advisory committee.

Ald. Toone said he welcomes a chance to play a role in developing the future Victoria, and would devote himself to the mayoralty as a full-time job, meaning his resignation from VLC.

He is opposed to politics or partisanship at city hall and is a firm believer in local and regional planning, including new and redeveloped areas in the urban core.

In the aldermanic contest:

Robert Baird, 59, of 1310 May, seeks re-election as alderman after two years on council. He has been a chairman of three committtees and served as acting finance chairman.

His outside activities include being a Royal Jubilee Hospital director, member of session at Fairfield United, and president of St. Andrew's and Caledonia Society.

Scottish-born, Mr. Baird has been in Canada since 1913. He served in the RCAF during the Second World War. The candidate has a wife, son and daughter and his occupation is investment counsellor.

It is his policy that Victoria should enter a period of "financial convalescence" to concentrate on cost-sharing and careful spending.

He supports urban renewal, capital region planning, high-rise development atop Rockland summit, better access to downtown, keeping Beaver-Elk Lakes green and limited Inner Harbor development.

★

John Wesley Dickie, of 250 Douglas, seeks one of the two-year aldermanic terms. He was a candidate in the August by-election and at the annual election a year ago.

Mr. Dickie is president of two real estate investment companies and a member of the professional division of B.C. Real Estate Institute.

During the Second World War and until 1947 he was in the RCAF.

Mr. Dickie calls for a reversal in the trend toward higher spending, mill rates and assessed values: "This unwise and reckless policy must be stopped. We must aim for lower taxes."

★

Geoffrey Innes Edgelow, 54, of 50 Highland Road, is a publisher with 12 years' council experience. He has served all committees.

Apart from war service overseas, he has lived in Victoria 35 years, is married with a son and two daughters, and is associated with Victoria Visitors' Bureau, the Legion, Corps of Commissionaires' governors, and many social clubs.

Mr. Edgelow stands for re-election on a policy of "progress with economy." His most firm attitude is toward greater senior government participation in a regional hospital plan, although he agrees that all levels of government should share costs without penalizing the homeowning taxpayer.

He feels education costs are enough fixed expenses beyond control of the council without adding undetermined hospital costs.

★

Charles Emil Kingsfield, 53, of 80 Dallas, stood in the August byelection and now seeks a two-year term as alderman.

He operates a retail business downtown and is convinced "we need action now on the one-way streets" in order to restore parking along both sides of Government. This would also include measures to relieve traffic on Government and Douglas.

As a practical businessman, Mr. Kingsfield states, "we need an immediate stepped up program to save the downtown business core."

He feels the mill rate is too high and too much is spent for the ratio of population to metropolitan area.

Mr. Kingsfield is married with a son and two daughters.

★

Hugh Roulston Stephen, 52, of 602 Newport, is a retired businessman who has been active in several community endeavors and is making his first bid for council.

Former owner of a laundry business which he bought in 1946, he sold it a year ago to a mainland chain. He was born and educated in England, came to Victoria prior to the Second World War and served in the Canadian army overseas six years.

STEPHEN

Some of his associations include presidency of the Chamber of Commerce in 1957, Victoria Art Gallery in 1961, and chairman of Oak Bay advisory planning committee. He was vice-chairman of Victoria advisory planning commision for eight years to 1958 and wrote a plan that led to creation of a regional parks board.

Recently he was chairman of a $1.2 million YM-YWCA building fund and is connected with community arts council, historic building foundation, Canada Trust, Rotary Club and Uplands Golf Club. He is married with three children.

Mr. Stephen's principal objective is to have the entire area of municipal-provincial relations appraised with a view to re-apportioning revenue sources. Future challenges are beyond the capacity of property taxes, he feels.

★

Mrs. Lily Christie Wilson, 80 Howe Street, is ending her fifth term as alderman, giving her 10 years' council experience. She seeks re-election to a further two-year term.

She is widow of a former school principal and a former teacher herself. Mrs. Wilson's interests lie in the field of welfare and social services and she has served juvenile detention home and family court committees, as a member of the library board, Gorge Road Hospital committee, Community Welfare Council and Metro Health.

Her associations include Women's Canadian Club and Citizenship Council, for both of which she has been president. She is a citizenship and English teacher for new Canadians enrolled in school board evening division.

About the hospital issue she feels all of the people must pay equitably toward capital costs, and agrees that a hospital district is required.

★

Percy Jack Frampton, 55, of 112 Montreal, is making his second bid for a one-year term, having run in the August byelection.

President of an accounting firm here since 1948, he is English-born, married and has two sons and three daughters. He belongs to a variety of community and professional organizations and was president of James Bay Community Association.

He served the former Victoria Arena Commission four years, three as vice-chairman.

The hospital matter is too acute for delay, he feels, and supports the two-mill plan for capital costs. He favors any plan that will bring a civic centre to the city, primarily to get Victoria revenue-producing conventions.

★

Mrs. Evelyn MacKenzie, 121 Menzies, seeks the one-year seat. She has been a council candidate three times previously.

B.C.-born, Mrs. MacKenzie has lived in Victoria about 25 years. She is widowed and active in Local Council of Women, Goodwill Enterprises auxiliary and Association of Women Electors.

The hospital plan would be unfair to heavily-taxed property owners and should find revenues elsewhere, she feels.

★

William Henry Williams, 50, of 2912 Quadra, is a general contractor who seeks the half-term vacancy. He has been a council and school board candidate several times previously.

Victoria-born, Mr. Williams is married and has three sons here. He has been active in sporting circles and was a vice-president of Victoria Amateur Baseball Association.

He stands for more parks and park reserves, a university stadium, minor sports at Topaz Park, children's ring at Memorial Arena, more senior government aid for arterial roads, reduction of downtown heavy traffic and regional hospitals regardless of additional tax.

Hearing Set In Yale Vote Dispute

A petition to void the 1963 provincial election results in Yale riding will be heard by the B.C. Supreme Court Dec. 13, it was announced Wednesday.

The action was launched by defeated Social Credit incumbent Irvine Corbett who lost by six votes in a judicial recount to Bill Hartley of the New Democratic Party.

Mr. Corbett, who previously explained he delayed launching the suit for lack of funds, alleges there were ballot irregularities in the riding.

Mr. Hartley, who has attended two sessions of the legislature as the elected MLA, informed his party's headquarters of the date of the action. He added it would be held in Merritt and is believed to be the first time the court will have been convened in the Nicola Valley.

Bargain for U.S. Markets Hinted in Water Sharing

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada may bargain for trade concessions in United States markets if it ever decides to share its vast supplies of water, John Turner, parliamentary secretary to Resources Minister Arthur Laing, said today.

Mr. Turner told a national water conference sponsored by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce that no decision about exporting water will be made until Canada decides its water needs are met and a surplus is available.

"We want to protect our potential for growth into the reasonably foreseeable future. This growth will depend on water. We don't want to export our water now only to find later that we have imported your problems."

But, he said later, "if some day we can agree to the sharing of this continent's water by offering some of our water for export, we might want at that time to insist that if water is to be considered as a continental resource, markets should also be considered on the same basis."

"We might wish to export water not for money (as we sold power under the Columbia River Treaty) but in return for access to your markets."

Discussing recent U.S. drought problems and proposals for diverting Canadian water to the U.S., Mr. Turner said "You may be spawning a myth that you are running out of water.

"The problem may be not so much that you have too little water, but that you may not be husbanding or distributing the water you have. We in Canada are just as guilty. The issue may be as much the management of water as a shortage of water."

He said industries in both countries must tackle water pollution problems or the public will pressure governments to step in.

Judgment in Fraud Trial Reserved Until Dec. 20

One of the longest trials in the history of Victoria Law Courts was adjourned Wednesday afternoon.

After 22 days of evidence and argument, Judge Montague Drake reserved judgment in the case of two men charged in County Court with defrauding the Royal Canadian Navy.

He will give judgment on Monday, Dec. 20, at 10 a.m.

Since the trial opened Nov. 3, Judge Drake has heard evidence from more than 40 witnesses and 102 exhibits have been entered.

Lieut. Eric Haywood, former head of the photographic section at HMCS Naden, and Charles Whyte, a civilian employee, pleaded not guilty to four charges of fraud and one of theft.

In his closing address, Crown Prosecutor Kenneth Murphy alleged that the evidence showed the two men had operated "a system" whereby they benefitted themselves at the expense of the Royal Canadian Navy.

The "system," he claimed, was that the men obtained items from Victoria firms for their own use, either by presenting petty cash vouchers from Naden, or giving them photographic material in part payment.

Two of the charges allege that the navy paid sums of $294 and $139 to Victoria Photo Supply Ltd. for a still camera and a movie camera which the defendants obtained for their own use.

The men were also charged with defrauding the navy of $43 paid to Victoria Photo Supply Ltd. for "fictitious" repairs to a Graflex camera, and with stealing seven boxes of photographic paper worth more than $50.

The charges were laid following a large-scale naval inquiry into reports that photographic supplies were being sold to Victoria firms.

Lieut. Haywood and Mr. Whyte denied selling to these firms, but admitted loaning them material.

Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre, appearing for Lieut. Haywood, said the allegations of a system of frauds at HMCS Naden had been met by "reasonable explanations."

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

The producers of CBC-TV's hockey telecasts from Toronto should be looking for a new camera angle rather than the one which tried to follow the play of the last two hectic minutes of the game between the Leafs and Detroit Saturday.

Stephen

The camera work was suitable but the location is definitely a detriment. All that could be seen was some fan's head in front of the lens.

If head-watching was all that Canadian hockey fans wanted, then they would direct their attention to the nearest tonsorial parlor where the selection is varied and choice can be had.

But it's hockey action the home fan craves. He can't do it by trying to look through the mass between the ears in front of the camera.

It's not the first time it has happened. Last year, during the crucial playdowns, the topic of conversation in this town was not about the Leafs' play but about the guy whose head blocked visage of play. Why can't the producers get a better or higher camera angle? The question was on the lips of the fan and more than ordinary language was used to make the point.

Luckily, William Hewitt was calling the play as quickly as his tongue could get around the name of Stemkowski, Mahovlich and Shack.

His work, by the way, was a complete reversal of form from the views of the elder Hewitt broadcaster, Foster by name. The veteran has certain thoughts of the relative merits of TV versus radio broadcasting of hockey games.

"On television," he says, "you hold back on the talk because it's often superfluous, but on radio you can go the limit on this kind of descriptive broadcasting."

You bet you can. The sportscaster can make a dull game sound like the greatest thing to happen to the sport on radio. Take a portable radio to the Memorial Arena some Saturday night and listen to Chuck Mudrack when the play is dull.

On television the man calling the game has to be on his toes because there are a lot of know-it-alls out across the country. Also the game must be called like a radio broadcast because many times the camera can't keep up with the swift-flowing play and it's up to the sportscaster to carry the ball.

Chuck Mudrack, by the way, is a much-underestimated young sportscaster. Why he's polling records when he should be out carving a sports future in this city where sports is an important element of life is beyond me.

The last talent to escape this town was Phil Reimer. He was a local all-night disc jockey because no one could recognize his gifts.

Today he's the CBC Winnipeg radio sports voice on loan to the Canadian National Hockey Team until after the Winter Olympics in Prague next spring.

He's also interviewed about his job on a special report Saturday night, Dec. 11, at 11:10 on Channel 6.

Rescue Tugs Battling Big Storm

MANILA, (AP) — Two tugs battled a storm in the South China Sea Wednesday in a continuing effort to save two sections of a giant oil drilling platform that broke up and capsized last week with the loss of 13 men.

The only survivor of the capsizing was Ernest James McKeever, 25, of Calgary, an engineer with the Southeast Drilling Co. of Brunei. Also aboard the rig was Terry Ursulak, 25, of Edmonton.

A spokesman for the Shell Co., said the storm was blowing the tugs away from the Philippines. The tug Willem Barrendsz had one section of the drilling platform under tow while the Tai Koo out of Hong Kong was watching the second section, but unable to get a line aboard.

The giant platform capsized last Wednesday while being towed by the Willem Barrendsz. The superstructures and living quarters sank, leaving the two pontoon sections.

The two rescue tugs had been expected to reach Poro Point, 156 miles south of Manila on the west coast of Luzon Tuesday. But because of the storm, the Shell spokesman said, the vessels now have been ordered to head for Manila where there are superior facilities for salvage operations.

The Willem Barrendsz radioed that it expected to reach here in four days.

The source discounted reports from Brunei that some bodies of the 13 seamen have been washed ashore in the Philippines, pointing out that the storm was blowing away from the country.

If successfully towed ashore, the two pontoons will be examined by engineers to determine cause of the accident.

Suit Filed Against Five 'Agents'

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Two students opposed to United States involvement in Viet Nam filed damage suits totalling $1,055,000 Wednesday against five unidentified secret service agents.

The students said they were roughed up last Saturday when ejected from a luncheon for Vice-president Hubert Humphrey on the campus of the University of Santa Clara. They said they had passes to the lunch.

Phil Whitten, 24, and Dave Hanna, 21, who attend nearby San Jose State College, edit an off-campus newspaper, the New Student, which takes a strong stand against the U.S. in Viet Nam.

The secret service agent who refused to allow the two students into the lunch "viciously, maliciously and intentionally attacked plaintiff (Whitten) from the rear, grabbing plaintiff and striking plaintiff with his fist," said the suit filed in court by lawyer John E. Thorne.

Some Africans Take Second Look at Break

By Reuters

Some independent African countries appeared to be having second thoughts Wednesday about a joint weekend decision to break off diplomatic relations with Britain if Ian Smith's Rhodesian regime is not crushed by Dec. 15.

They were also taking a deeper look at their second major decision: The formation of an all-African military force to smash the white regime in Rhodesia.

But in French-speaking Africa, President Maurice Yameogo of Upper Volta said Wednesday the Organization of African Unity conference had no authority to make a decision on such an important matter as Rhodesia.

In Tunisia, pro-government newspapers said the Addis Ababa conference went too far in its ultimatum to London.

President William Tubman of Liberia said Britain should be given time to handle the Rhodesian crisis, "since Rhodesia is still a British colony."

Reliable informants in Lusaka said Wednesday the Zambian president, Kenneth Kaunda, is warning other African leaders about the difficulties involved in a diplomatic rupture with Britain.

DANCE HALL GIRLS Lynda Gower and Lois Donaldson pose in the costumes they will wear at the Victoria Flying Club's "Klondike Night" on Saturday. Proceeds are for the building fund. "Klondike Night" starts at 8. "Old-timers" looking on are pianist Larry Landy and Clif Madill with the accordion. Gambling (with paper money), dancing, bean supper and the usual Klondike fare will be featured.

GUARD FOR DAM

Kaunda Alters Troop Request

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — President Kaunda of Zambia has renewed his request for British troops to guard the Kariba Dam, potential flash point of the Rhodesia crisis, political sources said today.

He had insisted earlier that British forces guard both sides of the dam which straddles the Zambian-Rhodesian frontier.

Now he would be satisfied with a British force on the Zambian side if it would move into Rhodesia at the first sign of a threat to the dam.

The dam, which supplies power to Zambia's copper belt, is jointly controlled by Rhodesia and Zambia, but the generating plant is on the Rhodesian side.

Britain already has placed aircraft and men of the RAF Regiment — infantrymen in air force uniforms — in Zambia but has been reluctant to provide ground troops on Kaunda's terms.

By some accounts Kaunda told Prime Minister Wilson that without British military support he will be obliged by more extreme members of his cabinet to accept an African force intent on invading Rhodesia.

USE WHITE FORCE?

The Financial Times says the British government is considering a plan to guard both sides of the dam with a "white Commonwealth" force.

It says this plan would be put to Kaunda and Rhodesia's rebel Premier Ian Smith by Sir Robert Menzies, the Australian prime minister who is the Commonwealth's elder statesman.

Government officials declined to confirm the report.

The Financial Times says the force would be intended to reassure Smith against any possibility of Zambia calling in African troops and provoking a racial clash across the Zambesi River.

Reuters news agency quoted British sources as saying Britain would welcome any moves for a "white Commonwealth" force to guard the dam, though it had no plans to make such a move itself and had not approached other countries to do so.

All 36 member nations of the Organization of African Unity voted in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, last week to break off relations with Britain unless it crushes the Rhodesian rebellion by Dec. 15.

The Congolese government, which had to hire white soldiers in South Africa to quell the rebellion in the northern Congo, told the OAU it is prepared to contribute troops and make its airports and military bases available for any action by the OAU against Rhodesia. In return, Zambia, Tanzania, Uganda, Kenya and Sudan have agreed not to give assistance to the Congolese rebels, a government announcement said.

The British government has ruled out military action against Rhodesia and is still relying on eceonomic sanctions to bring the rebellious colony to terms.

The theory is that as sanctions begin to bite more moderate elements will come forward in Rhodesia to form an alternative government.

POVERTY REPORT

Disability Hits Many Canadians

OTTAWA (CP)—Some 1,300,000 Candians have a permanent physical disability and have to be poverty-stricken to get government aid, a report to the federal-provincial conference on poverty suggests.

The profile on disability said 51,671 persons qualified in January this year under the disabled persons act for an average $69.48 a month.

"Last year, nearly 10,000 persons were turned away because their disability was not assessed as total or permanent though many were severely handicapped," a report by the federal government's special planning secretariat on poverty said.

Another 567 applicants were "not quite poor enough," to qualify for the maximum aid of $900 a year.

DIED WITHOUT AID

The report said 223 died before a decision was made on their applications.

The act sets the maximum allowable income in families where disability assistance is paid at $2,220 a year. For a single person the figure is $1,260.

The report said 8,581 blind persons received an average $68.12 a month in payments last year.

"Of the applicants, 304 were not blind enough and 68 were not poor enough to qualify."

The report said a substantial number of disabled probably never bothered to apply for aid for various reasons, among them the feeling they wouldn't qualify.

Nevertheless, indications were that 1,300,000 Canadians had a permanent physical disability. This excluded mental illness and retardation.

SOFT LANDING

Moon Dust Cause Of Space Failure?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. space officials think Moon dust may have been the cause of Russia's latest failure to make a soft landing on the lunar surface?

The Luna 8, carrying scientific instruments, crashed and died on the moon late Monday after what had seemed to be a perfect flight from a Soviet launching pad. It was the fourth Russian failure to land working instruments on the Moon this year.

The United States will begin trying to do the same thing next May or June. It will launch several surveyor spacecraft in an effort to find out if the Moon's surface is firm enough to support a landing by Apollo astronauts before 1970.

The trick to a soft landing is the correct firing of braking rockets to slow down the spacecraft. The right time to fire is determined by radar altimeters. U.S. experts believe the Russians have the latest thing in radar height gauges and feel sure Luna 8 was equipped with them.

Then why did it crash? The theory of many scientists is that the Moon's surface is covered by dust or porous rock that could be inches to yards in depth.

Some experts said Wednesday the Russian craft's "radar eyes" may have penetrated the dust clear through to the hard rock. The difference in heights could have triggered the braking rockets seconds too late. As a result, Luna 8 could be buried in dust.

If dust is the Russian problem, it could be blamed for only three of the four failures. One attempt missed the Moon altogether.

"The Russian experience points up the extreme difficulty of throwing spacecraft to the Moon and then braking them to a safe landing," one U.S. official said. "U.S. engineers can only sympathize with the Russians."

The first U.S. surveyor is designed to slow down its descent toward the Moon from 8,600 feet per second at 1,000 miles to 5 feet per second at 13 feet above the surface. On the Moon, that 13-foot drop is equivalent to jumping off a table on Earth.

Accused Discussed Torture And Boasted of Killings'

HYDE, England (AP)—One of the defendants in the Pennine moors murder case studied the ideas of the Marquis de Sade on murder and later boasted he had killed three or four people, a witness testified today.

Passages from the works of the French nobleman who gave his name to the word sadism were read out at a magistrate's hearing on three murder charges against Ian Brady, 27, a clerk. Two of the victims were children, the third a teenager. Brady's girl-friend, Myra Hindley, is charged with two of the killings.

David Smith, 17, Miss Hindley's brother-in-law and a friend of Brady's, was handed a work of Sade's by prosecutor William Mars-Jones and told to find a passage that Brady had once read out to him. The passage recounts the story of Louis XV and Charolais, who had killed a man for his own amusement.

"I pardon you," said the king, "but I also pardon him who will kill you."

Sade commented:

"All the basis of law aginst murderers is contained in that sublime sentence. In a word, murder is a horror but a horror often necessary, never criminal, and essential to tolerate in public. Above all, it should never be punished by murder."

When Brady read that passage to Smith, "he wanted to discuss the idea of torturing and things . . . torture, sadism as a whole, the whole idea," Smith testified.

Smith also said that on another occasion he was talking to Brady while they were drinking wine.

"He (Brady) went on to ask whether I was capable of murder. I just gave him a blank look and he then said 'I have done it.' He said he had done three or four. He was so drunk I didn't pay much attention."

Cong Slaughter Troops of South

QUANG NGAI, South Viet Nam (Reuters)—South Vietnamese troops suffered hundreds of casualties in a bloody battle with Viet Cong guerrillas entrenched near here, radio reports reaching here said tonight.

Several hundred South Vietnamese rangers Wednesday ran into a wall of fire from well-prepared Viet Cong bunkers and fortifications about 50 miles north of this garrison town, suffering heavy casualties, the reports said.

Other infantry battalions that joined the battle were battered and broken up into small units this afternoon under the Viet Cong onslaught, the reports said.

The Viet Cong, blasted by artillery and more than 100 air strikes, were believed to have suffered heavy casualties as well.

---

SAIGON (Reuters) — About 140 aircraft today completed the most savage U.S. air onslaught on North Viet Nam in a 24-hour period, a military spokesman said today.

The air force and navy planes bombed military buildings, highways and bridges with 500-pound to 3,000 - pound bombs and cut communications routes in at least 117 places, he said.

An official statement said the attacks were concentrated on areas to the north and west of Hanoi and around the former French battlefield of Dien Bien Phu, near the Laotian border.

Bombs blasted holes in highways, destroyed four bridges and damaged one. A barracks and a military storage depot were destroyed, another barracks and depot were left ablaze and six barges were sunk.

Independence Stamps Snapped Up

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Thousands of Rhodesian independence stamps went on sale for the first time Wednesday and were snapped up within minutes of the opening of post offices.

The two - shilling, six-pence (37½-cent) purple stamps — the first to be printed in Rhodesia — bear the Queen's head, the Rhodesian coat of arms and the words "Independence—11th Nov. 1965."

Britain has said it will not recognize the stamps.

With Rhodesians being warned to tighten their belts in the face of economic curbs by the outside world, a forecast of stiffer taxes came today from the Rhodesian Herald.

The paper's financial editor predicts a rise in sales tax and gasoline duty.

Rhodesia's position after nearly a month of self-proclaimed independence will be outlined tonight in a broadcast by Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Long Wait Forecast For Sidney Overpass

A Sidney council candidate says there will be a long wait yet for the Mills Road overpass.

Arthur Freeman Wednesday said that his opponent in Saturday's election, Andries Boas had given voters to understand the overpass crossing the highway would be built immediately.

But Mr. Freeman maintains it cannot be started until the highway is reconstructed to four lanes.

He added, "The chief engineer's department of the provincial government tells me they have no immediate indication of when the second highway section will be started as plans have to be ratified and money allocated."

He said he asumed this could not take place before the 1966 provincial budget. He urged Sidney residents to press the government for earliest possible action.

NDP Warns Liberals On 'Apathy'

VANCOUVER (CP) — T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, said Wednesday the Pearson government has done nothing since the Nov. 8 federal election and has shown no indication it plans to do anything.

"This apathy had better not extend into the general conduct of the government's affairs," he told a press conference here.

Mr. Douglas said the minority liberal government must be active, dynamic and aggressive if it wants the support of his 21 members of Parliament.

"They asked for a majority because they wanted to do a lot of things.

"One would have expected they would have plans all ready . . . but everyone is sitting around waiting for the Prime Minister to make up his mind about a simple thing like reorganizing the cabinet."

Mr. Douglas said the NDP will expect to see in the speech from the throne outlining this year's government program indications of action on medicare, higher old age pensions, a Canada Redevelopment Corporation, collective bargaining for civil servants, and manpower training.

"We don't think the Canadian people want an election. But we're warning the government that the fact that Canadians don't want an election should not be used as a refuge behind which to do nothing."

400 PERFORMANCES

Ice Capades Plays To 2 Million Annually

Ice Capades reportedly outdraws all other live entertainment in the world.

The shows gives about 400 performances a year to an estimated 2,000,000 spectators. Tens of thousands are perennial visitors who return year after year.

The 1966 edition of Ice Capades, in its 26th year of production, has a new producer—television producer Sid Smith—the first change in executive production in the show's history.

The man who ran the show for a quarter of a century was John H. Harris, one of the original founders of Ice Capades.

The show started on Valentine's Day, 1939, when a group of arena owners decided to form an ice show to play their arenas.

The first rehearsal was held in the Philadelphia Arena in May, 1940, and first played in New Orleans. From there the show travelled to Atlantic City for the summer and prepared for its first full season in 1941.

The first show was billed as "Toast of the Coast." In 1963, Ice Capades was acquired by Metromedia, Inc., one of the major radio and television corporations in the U.S.

Each year Ice Capades conquers new regions of the world. Last summer, following an engagement in Honolulu, the entire troupe and 40,000 tons of equipment flew to Australia.

So far the show has performed in six countries, the United States, Canada, England, Mexico, Russia and Australia.

Nine countries are represented in the cast of Ice Capades. The travelling United Nations on skates come from the United States, Canada, England, Germany, Scotland, Sweden, Switzerland, Norway and Austria. There are 15 stars, performers and staff from Canada, on the show.

The show travels with 110 persons, including performers and key personnel. In each town where a performance is given, 50 local people are hired, including electricians, stage hands, etc.

Seamstress and tailors totalling 250 people work for six months to prepare the costumes for each new season. Fifty propmen work many weeks building the sets.

Planning the productions takes 20 people more than 3,200 man-hours to round out. In all, more than 1,000 people are involved, directly and indirectly, in "getting the show on the road."

The finished product of all this work will be presented Dec. 15 to 18 at Memorial Arena.

Commission Finds Non-Confidence Mover Guilty

VANCOUVER (CP)—The police commission has found a constable who moved a vote of non-confidence in the chief constable at a union meeting guilty of a breach of discipline.

The office of Mayor Rathie issued a statement Tuesday which said the commission will meet Thursday to determine what punishment will be meted out to Constable Ron Magill, president of the police union and a member of the city jail staff.

On Nov. 2 Constable Magill moved his vote of non-confidence in Chief Ralph Booth and Deputy Chief John Fisk at a union meeting. Vote on the motion was cancelled at a Dec. 1 union meeting.

The mayor's statement said the commission was not trying the police union or prying into regular business or constitution affairs of the union. The commission had tried a duly sworn police constable and the fact that he was president of the union was incidental.

'WE HAVE BRAINWASHED OUR YOUTH'

Showcase for Canadian Talent Aim of Former Ink Spot Star

By AL FORREST

Bill Kenny deals in memories.

But at 49, the former Ink Spot singer isn't too old to dream about the future.

After rehearsing for his show at Oak Bay Marina restaurant he excitedly outlined plans for his CBC-TV network program which will be on at 7 p.m. every Sunday, starting April 6.

"It is a showcase for young Canadian talent," he said. "I sing. But as far as I'm concerned the important thing is that young performers will have a place to develop so they won't have to go to the United States like Robert Goulet and Sammy Davis, Jr.

"When singers like Frank Sinatra and myself were growing up there were places to sing. But there are few places now where youngsters can develop, especially in Canada."

Bill Kenny, himself, did a lot of his developing on his own.

TALENT CONTEST

Born in Philadelphia, he sang in church choirs, won a talent contest in New York's Harlem and later moved to New York to live.

He sang the high part in the original Ink Spots until he left the group to sing solo in 1952.

During a visit to Vancouver in 1949 the Ink Spots posed with some Miss Vancouver beauty contestants. Bill started up a conversation with their chaperone, a Vancouver girls' physical education teacher and three months later he married her.

They lived in New York between tours and in 1962 they moved to Vancouver where Mrs. Kenny has relatives and where Bill "loves the people and the scenery."

BIG HITS

In Victoria for two weeks, Bill is reviving memories of the 1940s and 1950s with his big hits: If I Didn't Care, Whispering Grass, It Is No Secret and I'm Going To Sit Right Down And Write Myself a Letter.

But he sings the new ones, too.

He thrilled local audiences with his version of Moon River and San Francisco.

Bill Kenny makes a point of keeping in top physical condition. He avoids alcohol but smokes a pipe. He golfs regularly, shooting in the 70s.

Tall and crew cut, he swings energetically into each song and he alternates between crackling emotion and sweet, high notes.

His voice is unique; as high and delicate as a violin.

During rehearsal, he sang and led the two-piece piano-organ and drum accompaniment at the same time.

THAT'S IT!

When he heard something he liked he shouted: "God love you, that's it. How sweet it is!"

Offstage he continued his rapid fire delivery. He joked and heckled everyone in sight.

But in serious moments he reflected on what he saw as an appalling youth worship in 20th Century North America. As he discussed it he talked as a combination preacher and poet.

"We have all helped to bring on the decadence of today's young people," he said.

"We have brainwashed young people into thinking that youth is something special.

"We give them more attention than they deserve. They can't cope with the responsibilities that we thrust upon them."

BUNCH OF JUNK

Bill Kenny as a singer of ballads confesses that he feels much of today's rock 'n' roll and twist music is "a bunch of junk."

"The sad thing is that they will have nothing to remember when they get older. If a song is worth singing it should bring pleasure and leave pleasant memories.

"All they can remember about some of these new songs is they tapped their feet, shook their hips and yelled 'yeah, yeah, yeah'."

Counselling Offered Addicts

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Narcotics Addiction Foundation of British Columbia will open a counselling office for drug addicts on Friday in the heart of Vancouver's drug district.

Bert Hoskins, foundation executive, said there will be no treatment provided, only counselling.

"We are hoping to get in touch with addicts who need immediate help," he said.

Mr. Hoskins said there are between 1,200 and 1,700 known addicts in Vancouver at any given time.

The new office, at Main and Hastings, is only one block from the city's main drug-passing intersection of Hastings and Columbia, known among addicts as "The Corner."

Tax Boost Defeated

Nobodies Vs. Sex

By JACK HUTTON

A friend of mine is midway through his formal education as an artist and I asked him the other day how he intends to make a name for himself in the Canadian art world.

"I'm going to be as controversial as I can—right from the start," he said.

How many classmates, I asked, felt the same way? "All of them that matter," he replied candidly. "The rest will wind up as happily-married nobodies working 9 to 5 in commercial studios."

Happily - married nobodies! What's wrong with that, I asked. And what wife is going to object to a regular pay envelope from a 9 to 5 job?

As we talked I suddenly realized what the goal of my friend was: to get a picture banned! The picture, its quality, didn't matter. It was the principle of the thing, or perhaps, the publicity.

"You saw what happened in Toronto last week," he said. "A magistrate ruled that several pictures in the Dorothy Cameron Gallery were obscene. That was a terrible violation of artistic integrity. Why don't you write about that?"

I'm doing just that—and I'm addressing it directly to friends like my neophyte artist who hope to crash the Canadian art world.

Lone Voice

This may shock you, friends, but I happen to agree with Magistrate Fred Hayes, the man who ruled that the seven pictures by Robert Markle, Lawrence Chaplin and Fred Ross were obscene.

This makes me possibly the only person in Canada to publicly come to the defence of the magistrate. In the week after the decision I read editorial after editorial claiming that this should be appealed to a higher court.

Did you see the exhibition? Well, I did. And, although I have the highest respect for the gallery owner, Dorothy Cameron, I couldn't help feeling that the display was organized for shock value.

One of the pictures would have been jarring in any single exhibition. When they were grouped together, you felt that somebody had just stepped over a boundary of taste.

The people I saw looked at the controversial pictures, then looked quickly away. I felt embarrassed for the women passing through.

Am I a prude? I don't think so. I've visited art galleries in Paris and London, and enjoyed pictures that have been the centre of controversies over the centuries.

Several days after Magistrate Hayes became the centre of a growing storm I sat down with his written judgment (it took 40 minutes to read in court), and followed him through all his arguments.

And I'd suggest that anyone who wants to knock the written decision in coffee house chatter (how do you knock with sandals?) should do the same thing first.

The 'In' Thing

The same thing goes for art students or instructors who want to sound off on Magistrate Hayes' reasoning. I believe that every art college in Canada should get a copy and make it a debating point.

It's a strange commentary on Canadian life that the safe thing to do right now is to defend the seven pictures which have now been legally declared obscene. Do that and you'll be considered "in," an advanced thinker.

The "out" thing, which I'm doing, is to suggest that the magistrate was speaking for a community interest which may be of greater importance than the so-called integrity of artists who want to dwell on sexual themes.

The day after Magistrate Hayes spoke against the display, we saw thousands of words expressing the opposition of many people. Who were they? Art gallery owners, artists or art critics.

Well, here's one fellow supporting you, Magistrate Hayes. Maybe we'll be the two most unpopular people in Canada for this—but I suspect a great many other Canadians agree with us.

Rope is Often Short In Angina Pectoris

By Dr. WALTER ALVAREZ

As most people know, angina pectoris is a pain in the chest which arises in a heart which is not receiving enough blood through the big coronary (crown-like) arteries which run around the upper part of the organ. Angeion, from which we get the word angina, in Greek means a vessel, which in this case, is an artery.

Alvarez

Often a physician can be almost certain that a chest pain is an angina because it is severe and "strangling"—so severe that the person may break out in a "cold sweat," and go into a state of shock. Usually the patient is a man over the age of 50.

Typically, the pain comes when the man is walking, perhaps uphill or into a cold wind, and especially after eating. Often the pain extends into the left arm or up into the lower jaw. Soon after the man stops walking and perhaps leans against a building, his pain is likely to go away, because whe.: his body is at rest, the amount of blood that reaches the heart muscle is enough for its needs.

The pain of angina is steady, and is uninfluenced by taking a deep breath, swallowing, or moving the body from side to side. Usually, after the man has once felt the pain, he knows what it is the minute he gets it again.

★ ★ ★

Some men who have no demonstrable damage of the heart muscle, and a normal electrocardiogram, will get their angina when they become very angry, or much annoyed or worried. Some get the pain after a meal—perhaps to the changes in circulation that are produced by a meal. A few men get the pain even when lying down.

A diagnostic point is that usually the pain is quickly relieved by dissolving under the tongue a tablet of nitroglycerin. This drug dilates the arteries, and a dilated artery carries more blood into the heart. Some persons complain of a "tightness" in the chest. Occasionally, it will be almost impossible to say whether a pain in the lower part of the right side of the chest is due to angina or to a gallstone colic.

It is important to note how much exercise the man can stand without getting his pain. Sometimes his "rope is short," and then he will have to stop and rest after walking a few yards. It is well to note, perhaps by just looking at the man and the way he breathes as he sits in the doctor's office or in a hospital bed, if he is comfortable and at ease. In that case, his condition is much more hopeful than if he were struggling for air.

Years ago, I used to hear even an occasional heart specialist telling a patient with severe and obvious angina pectoris that it could not be that because several electrocardiograms had been normal. Actually, all that the normal electric record indicated was that the man had a narrow coronary artery or an artery that could be thrown into spasm by strong emotion. When this happened, and the artery could carry but little blood, the heart muscle suffered, and the pain came.

But as yet no bit of muscle had died, and hence the electrocardiogram was normal. It was normal because the impulse to the heart-beat — which shoots in a moment from the top of the heart down to the apex — did not have to go around a bit of dead muscle.

This explanation can answer an objection I have heard from many a layman — that the electrocardiogram is of little value, because "My brother had a record made, he was told by doctors that it was normal, and the next day he dropped dead." Obviously, the heart muscle was normal the day the man was examined, but probably one of his coronary arteries was so markedly narrowed by disease that the blood could easily clot in it and plug it up.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to David Thompson, age 9, of Anderson, S.C., for his question:

What does water pollution mean?

We borrowed our big word pollution from the Romans of old who spoke Latin. Their word was borrowed from the Greeks who came before them. The olden words meant to make something dirty or unclean. Our word pollution is the act of making something dirty or unclean.

Polluted water is unfit for human use and is most likely unfit for animals. Some polluted water is harmful even to plants. The purest water in the world can become polluted and useless. Pollution occurs when decaying plants and animals or filth and sewage wastes are added to clean water. It also happens when strong acids and other dangerous chemicals are dumped into our seas and streams.

Water pollution is a big problem of our times, and there are reasons why. Our population is growing and more people need pure water. More new things are invented and more factories are needed to make them. The factories find new and still newer ways to do their work. These operations often use strong chemicals or produce troublesome waste materials. This overflow of dangerous factory wastes may cause water pollution. Dirty water from the bathtub and the laundry, toilet wastes and some of the garbage from our homes are sent down the drains. Factory waste materials are also carried away in streams of drain water. This used water is called sewage, and every wide awake city has a well-run sewage system to dispose of the sewage from homes and factories. The government has laws to see that the job is well done.

Factories Use Tons of Water

Most sewage water must be drained away to a nearby lake or river or to the sea, but first it must be cleaned and treated. The chunky lumps are sifted out by screens. Sometimes chemicals are added to make them settle on the bottom. Filters, sprinklers and sludge tanks are used to help bacteria break up dusty fragments and decay. Chlorine is added to kill the germs. This sewage treatment removes most of the danger.

Some of our streams become frothy with detergents dumped by the sewage system. Experts watch for such chemicals and make plans to stop them from polluting our water supplies. In time, nature purifies our dirty water, but her work is too slow to keep pace with us. So we enforce strict rules and regulations to stop our sewage from polluting nature's water supplies.

Life in our world would end without a plentiful supply of clean water. The plant world thrives on water, and if you weigh 90 pounds, 30 pounds of your body is made from water. Nature uses a half-ton of water to create 1 pound of food. You may use 50 gallons for your daily washing, drinking and cooking, and the factories may use more than 50,000 tons of water to make the family car.

FROM RUSSIA WITH LOVE

Colwood Man Finally Reunited With Mother

Nina Khrushchev, Russia's former first lady, has helped reunite a Victoria man with his mother.

After seven long years in a bureaucratic tangle, Alex Horbatuk's mother, 59-year-old Mrs. Uljan Stolan, thought her case for a Russian exit visa was dead.

Alex, operator of a Colwood shoe store, located his mother in the Ukraine town of Tschisowka in 1958. He wrote to her telling her to go "to the top."

"I told her to write to the Praesidium, the premier, and the premier's wife. And it turned out to be Nina Khrushchev who got her out of the country."

She arrived here Tuesday.

NOT ALL LUCKY

"Not every would-be emigrant from Russia is as lucky as my mother was," Alex said.

"When she was begging the local council to let her out of the country for all those years, even though she was past work age and alone, she never thought she'd make it.

Someone told her the day she got out of Russia and saw her son, he would put his head on the chopping block.

"But here she is. My mother."

When she arrived at Vancouver International Airport Alex and his mother cried for 10 minutes.

"We took the ferry to Victoria," he said "and she didn't look at the boat, the water or the islands—just my face. She can't believe she's finally here."

GERMAN PRISONER

Mrs. Stojan last saw her son in 1940 when he was taken prisoner by invading Germans.

He was liberated three years later and joined a U.S. tank unit, serving until 1946. The following two years he worked with the International Refugee Organization in Germany, coming to Canada in 1948 and to Victoria in 1954.

For Victor Horbatuk, 9, and brother Thomas 11, and their mother, the new grandmother is a gift out of the blue. They had waited too.

She will live with the family in their home at 105 Kingham Place. They may have trouble communicating with each other for awhile. Only Alex knows Ukrainian. But the boys and their mother will use sign language—with love.

Wiring Was Poor On 'Death Ship'

MIAMI (UPI)—A ship's electrician testified before a coast guard board of inquiry Tuesday the wiring on the death ship Yarmouth Castle was in poor shape and had caused one fire previous to the fatal blaze on Nov. 13.

Theodor Sakaleros said he put out a small fire in the promenade deck with an extinguisher several weeks before the cruise liner cleared Miami on its fatal voyage.

He said the fire was caused by a faulty cable and did little damage. He replaced the wiring with new lead-coated cable.

CHINA CUTS INDONESIAN AID LINKS

LONDON (Reuters) — China's economic aid to Indonesia has virtually stopped and Chinese technicians are being recalled, Western diplomatic sources here report.

They described relation between the two countries as at a low ebb after the abortive coup against the Indonesian government two months ago, for which Indonesian Communists were widely blamed.

Trade between the two countries, never large, has practically stopped, the sources said.

Russia seems to be maintaining friendly relations with Indonesia, and continuing aid, they said.

Indonesia's official Antara news agency said Saturday that China had pulled out of an important cotton spinning mill project at Bamdjaran in west Java. This was the first report of China stopping major aid to Indonesia since the abortive coup.

Protests Rain Down On Society

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Leaflets protesting agents' fees and the closing of a factory rained down on the jewelled heads of society women Tuesday night at the opening of La Scala's opera season.

A white-tie and high-fashion crowd of 3,200 had filled the house and was listening to the opening act of Verdi's La Forza Del Destino when a clamor broke out in the upper balcony.

Leaflets sailed down. Police and theatre attendants raced up and order was restored.

Minutes later, at the close of the act, another commotion erupted in the upper galleries and more leaflets fell.

Police made another trip to the galleries and restored order.

Eight spectators were ejected, including baritone Giuseppe Zecchillo.

The leaflets were a mixture of labor protests. Some demanded an end to the practice of hiring singers through agents, charging agents take too much of their clients' earnings. Others protested the closing of a textile factory that went bankrupt last summer, throwing 7,800 persons out of work.

No Money In Krebiozen, Says Suspect

CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, on trial on fraud charges in connection with his work with krebiozen, said Monday he received no compensation during his experiments with the drug taken by some cancer sufferers.

He also denied ever serving as a registered agent for krebiozen, as alleged by the U.S. government in its 42-count indictment against him and three others.

Dr. Ivy, 72, former vice-president of the University of Illinois, said the drug had been called Substance X before it was named krebiozen in January, 1951. In March, 1951, he added, the Krebiozen Research Foundation was established in Chicago and he served as its president from April to December, 1951.

In the group that established the foundation, Dr. Ivy said, were Dr. Stevan Durovic, discoverer of the drug, his brother and financial backer, Marko Durovic, a lawyer, and John S. Boyle, now chief judge of the circuit court in Chicago.

The Durovic brothers and a general practitioner, Dr. William F. P. Phillips, are codefendants with Ivy in the trial that has been in progress since April.

He was managing director of Macmillan Company Ltd. from 1936 to 1963, and chairman of Macmillan Holdings Ltd. for the last two years. He was the eldest of three brothers. The other is Arthur Macmillan, a lawyer.

SECRET DOCUMENTS RELEASED BY VATICAN

Pope Pius Pleaded With Mussolini in 1940 to Keep Italy Out of War

MESSAGE FROM ROOSEVELT

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Secret documents released by the Vatican Tuesday say the United States asked Pope Pius XII to plead with Benito Mussolini to stay out of the Second World War.

The Pope is quoted as saying, when told of the Italian government's anger over one papal intervention, that he had "no fear of ending up . . . in concentration camp or in hostile hands."

These are among the developments described in the documents as taking place in the tense days of early 1940 when Hitler was overrunning Europe and Italy's position was yet to be decided.

The documents state that after the U.S. appeal, Pope Pius wrote Mussolini asking him to spare Europe from further sorrow.

The Fascist dictator is reported as replying he wanted to avoid war but could not guarantee Italy would be neutral.

The disclosures are made in the first volume of a series of documents from Vatican archives described as a "white paper" on the Second World War and Pope Pius' role.

The Vatican set aside a rule that its documents must be held in secret at least 50 years and began issuing the papers in an apparent answer to the controversy stirred by West German writer Rolf Hochhuth's play the Deputy. The play questions whether Pope Pius did everything he could to stop Nazi extermination of Jews.

The Vatican has always insisted he did.

The first volume does not take up the Jewish issue in detail.

That will be done in the second volume, still in preparation, covering 1940-45.

The reported Pope-Mussolini conflict took place shortly before Italy entered the war on Germany's side June 10, 1940.

The white paper says the message from the United States came through President Franklin D. Roosevelt's personal envoy to the Vatican, Myron Taylor, in April, 1940.

Taylor said the White House and the Vatican should act jointly in trying to dissuade Mussolini from declaring war.

The next month, three days after the Nazis invaded Belgium, Pope Pius sent messages of solidarity to the rulers of Belgium, Holland, and Luxembourg.

VIET NAM PEACE PLAN

12-Nation Appeal Sought by Britain

LONDON (AP)—Britain today proposed a 12-nation appeal to North Viet Nam to quit fighting and negotiate a peace.

The British move was contained in a draft message sent to the Soviet government. It called upon the Russians to join in signing and circulating the message among the nine countries which attended the 1954 Indochinese peace parley and the Indian, Canadian and Polish governments, which form the Viet Nam control commission.

Represented in the peace parley were the United States, France, Britain, Russia, China, Cambodia, Laos, the Viet Minh regime that fought the French and South Viet Nam. The United States never signed the general armistice agreement on Indochina, but made a unilateral declaration defining its position.

In the message, the British government accused the North Vietnamese of stepping up intervention in South Viet Nam.

The British government said North Viet Nam also has been speeding and increasing the flow of military equipment and men southward to aid the Viet Cong forces.

The message also said North Vietnamese forces, "on a constantly expanding scale, are violating the neutrality and territorial integrity of Laos."

MAKE COUNTER-PLEA

Britain and the Soviet Union were co-chairmen of the 1954 conference in Geneva and the British message was sent to the Russians as a counter-proposal to a parallel Moscow move aimed against the United States.

Soviet agreement seemed improbable.

Small groups of Russians are flooding the U.S. embassy in Moscow with resolutions protesting the war in Viet Nam. An embassy spokesman said more than 100 resolutions have been presented since last Friday. Others still were showing up.

The Russians three days ago had formulated a message which they wanted the British to sign ad circulate among the Geneva nations. In it, the Russians called for international condemnation of American action in Viet Nam.

This proposed message was rejected by the British government, which then sent along its own version.

'TAKE AWAY CN RIGHT' ON JOB CUTS

Jurist Backs Labor On Automation Bid

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal inquiry report today recommended that the CNR should be denied the right to introduce controversial crew run-throughs without first negotiating them with its labor unions.

Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman of Winnipeg, reporting on his year-long study of CNR run-throughs at Nakina, Ont., and Wainwright, Alta., gave his backing to a revolutionary labor principle that the introduction of job-slashing technological changes should no longer be the exclusive right of management.

His report says the run-throughs, which reduce freight train stops by working their crew over longer runs, are a justifiable improvement in railway operations. But he is sharply critical of the way the CNR introduced them against mounting employee resistance.

When the CNR began its run-throughs at Nakina and Wainwright on the weekend of Oct. 25, 1964, more than 2,800 engineers, conductors, trainmen and firemen "booked sick" in what Mr. Justice Freedman described as an illegal strike.

OPERATIONS HINDERED

The work stoppage, which nearly crippled CNR operations across the country, ended after Labor Minister MacEachen agreed with a CNR proposal that a full inquiry be set up. The railway cancelled the run-throughs pending the inquiry report.

Mr. Justice Freedman's 65,000-word report was made public today by Mr. MacEachen who said the judge "had to struggle with one of the key

U.S.-GERMAN TEAM

New Energy Source Found

HAMBURG (Reuters)—West German and American scientists, joining forces in a major experiment here, have found a new way of creating a source of energy which could be many times greater than normal nuclear power, it was announced today.

Working through Wednesday night, the team for the first time created anti-protons from light.

A proton is a particle of the nucleus, which in turn is the central core of the atom.

An anti-proton is a particle with an opposite electrical charge to the proton.

A collision between proton and anti-proton means the annihilation of both, with a consequent release of energy.

Until now the only way to create the elusive anti-proton has been the method achieved in the United States of shooting protons against protons.

Scientists believe that distant milky ways—luminous bands in the universe—may consist of anti-matter such as the scientists created Wednesday night.

TAKE REST

Exultant members of the 11-man team slept today after the success of their experiment. It took place at West Germany's electron synchroton research unit, which can accelerate particles of matter to 6,500,000,000 volts of energy.

Prof. Peter Staehelin of the institute said his team produced 18 such particles — negatively charged helium nuclei—which "explode," releasing enormous energy when brought into contact with their normal counterparts.

Staehelin said a stream of photons, or light particles, was directed at a target of liquid helium in the experiment, which also used an 80-feet-long chain of various types of electro-magnet and particle-counters, coupled to a computer.

The anti-protons were separated from other particles, so-called pi-mesons, which are 2,000 times as frequent, in a Cherenkow counter, where they lag behind the faster pi-mesons.

The professor said that three young American scientists took part in the experiment, but declined to name any of the scientists involved because this was "a genuine team effort."

He was cautious about possible applications of the discovery, stressing that only a few anti-protons could be created in the experiment.

'PROLONG BOOM' WITHOUT INFLATION

By JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Federal and provincial finance ministers today discussed prospects for prolonging Canada's expansion boom without allowing it to deteriorate into inflation.

Acting Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp expressed some concern over the possible threat of inflation and stressed it was not merely the responsibility of one level of government.

"This is a community problem and must be attacked from all sides," he said.

The outlook for 1966 is one of continuing pressure on Canadian resources which is the main factor which should be taken into account by all governments, he said.

"We are now expanding without any slack in the economy and our resources are being used fully," Sharp continued.

"This emphasizes the importance of stretching out, particularly in construction projects, so this expansion can be prolonged."

He said that provincial finance ministers who had spoken at the start of the two-day meeting had been in general agreement with these views.

There was considerable discussion of the effect of recent United States measures on the development of the capital market in Canada.

Professional CS Get Pay Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government today announced salary increases for some 19,300 professional employees that will cost the federal treasury some $8,600,000 annually.

The increases range from four to six per cent and are retroactive to July 1, 1965. The average increase is $446 a year.

Revenue Minister Benson, who made the announcement, said the "interim adjustments" were aimed at current problems of recruitment and retention of professional employees in the public service.

However, Leslie Barnes, executive director of the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada, branded the increases "too little, too late."

"They won't keep the best people in the civil service. They won't do the job they were intended to do—halt the drain of professionals from the government service."

WILL EXPLORE FURTHER

The pay announcement said the government will examine further recommendations on the group a professional category in the new year to consider whether further increases, effective July 1, 1966, would be warranted. Next July is the mid-point in the two-year pay cycle.

The increases amount to four per cent for classes with a pay maximum of $6,060 a year or less, five per cent for classes between $6,060 and $7,900, and six per cent for those above $7,900.

LBJ Speeds India Wheat

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson ordered a speedup today in shipment of 1,500,000 tons of wheat to India "to help meet the immediate food crisis" there.

He also authorized a $50,000,000 loan for Indian purchases of fertilizer.

Johnson decided upon the aid measures after conferences with Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman.

The decisions were announced by White House press secretary, Bill D. Moyer, who said the $50,000,000 loan for purchases of fertilizer for India's spring rice crop would be matched by the Indian government and $100,000,000 worth of fertilizer would be bought.

Ship Officers Strike

MONTREAL (UPI)—Some 500 officers walked off their ships on Canada's inland waterway today, idling at least 24 vessels from here to Fort William.

Strike May Isolate Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI)— — A 24-hour "general strike" of government workers, officially denounced as subversive, threatened today to isolate Uruguay from the rest of the world.

If all of the 200,000 unionists concerned heed the strike call, the walkout could paralyze long-distance telephone and telegraph lines, all banks, the docks, the customhouse and other government offices.

Minh Hedges On China Aid

TOKYO (UPI)— President Ho Chi Minh, in an interview broadcast today, said President Johnson "wants neither peace nor peace negotiations."

The interview was conducted recently in Hanoi by Felix Greene, a British journalist. It was broadcast by the official North Vietnamese news agency, monitored here.

Ho declined to answer directly when asked if Communist China was supplying North Viet Nam with great supplies of military aid.

"China, like the Soviet Union and the other socialist countries, fully agrees with the line of struggle of the government of the Democratic Republic of (North) Viet Nam and the South Viet Nam National Front for Liberation (the Viet Cong)," Ho said.

"They wholeheartedly support the Vietnamese people's fight against the U.S. imperialist aggressors."

Ho said the Vietnamese people "eagerly want peace to build up their country but genuine independence must be achieved if there is to be real peace.

"The question is very clear," Ho said. "U.S. imperialism is the aggressor. It must stop its air attacks on the north, put an end to its aggression in the south, withdraw its troops from South Viet Nam and let the Vietnamese people settle by themselves their own affairs as provided for in the Geneva agreements.

"Peace will then be immediately restored."

As for the relationship between Hanoi and Peking, Ho said "all U.S. attempts to divide Viet Nam and China are doomed to ignominious failure."

'All Aspects Of Viet Nam On Agenda'

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson said today he would discuss "all aspects of the Viet Nam" problem when he meets President Johnson in Washington Dec. 17.

Wilson, answering questions in Parliament, said Washington had sent no request to Britain to send troops to South Viet Nam. But he said a medical representative was in South Viet Nam to see what Britain could do to provide "humanitarian assistance" such as an ambulance unit.

Details of Wilson's trip next week were announced today. He will leave London Wednesday, address the UN assembly the following day and see Johnson on Friday. The talks will probably be completed in one day, but, if necessary they will continue on Saturday.

Afterwards Wilson will go to Ottawa for talks with Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson and members of his government.

Indonesia Offers to Negotiate Islands Dispute With Malaysia

JAKARTA (Reuters) — Indonesia is willing to negotiate its dispute with Malaysia, Foreign Minister Subandrio said today.

Negotiations would be held with representatives of the federation of Malaysia — Malaya, Sabah (North Borneo) and Sarawak—and with Singapore and Brunei, the official Antara news agency quoted Subandrio as saying.

He declined to say when talks would be held or at what level.

Indonesian military operations in the meantime would continue, Subandrio said.

He said the aim of the talks would be a solution to the dispute leading to self-determination for Sabah, Sarawak and British-protected Brunei.

Subandrio's statement, made to the news agency at President Sukarno's palace, came as a surprise to most observers.

Indonesia has been pursuing an economic blockade and sporadic guerrilla campaign against Malaysia for the last two years on the grounds that the federation was formed improperly and against the wishes of its people.

Only Wednesday Subandrio's deputy, Suwito Kusumowidagdo, threw cold water on a report from Malaysia that Malaysian Premier Tunku Abdul Rahman was still willing to attend peace talks with Indonesia.

11 More Railroaders Join PGE Walkout

VANCOUVER (CP)—Another 11 men joined the Pacific Great Eastern railway walk-off today, bringing to 123 the number of trainmen who have reported sick since last Friday.

A spokesman for the B.C. government-owned line said the 11 all are from the Lillooet division.

He said passenger and freight trains are still running, although the dayliner passenger service is running only to Clinton, instead of Prince George.

The trainmen, members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, booked off sick because of what they said were long-standing grievances. The immediate incident was reported to be the dismissal of a trainman at Prince George four days before his six-month probationary period was to end.

Meanwhile, the PGE today turned down a request by the union for new talks to discuss the dispute.

Regional manager J. A. Deptford said in a wire to the union that PGE officials have repeatedly asked for an explanation of what the union wants to discuss and to date have received no answer.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen has offered to refer the whole dispute to a compulsory arbitration board but this has been rejected by the PGE.

The union had no comment today on Mr. Deptford's telegram rejecting the request for new talks.

Suicide Only Way Until USC Came to Rescue

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

The baby was found in the waiting room of the Unitarian Service Committee hospital in Mokpo, Korea.

That night the mother, whose heart was breaking over having deserted her child, tried to kill herself.

She failed, and her tragic case came to the attention of USC workers who had her baby in their care.

Why did this woman take such drastic steps? What drove her to it?

Her despair stemmed directly from the poverty which afflicts her family, as it does thousands of others in Korea.

Her husband was unemployed, they had five underclad children, winter was coming and there was no food or fuel in their shack.

After her attempt at suicide, the mother was admitted to the Seoul Mental Institution with her expenses paid by the USC.

USC workers also helped her husband get a job, and cared for her baby while the woman was in hospital.

Now recovered, she is back with her family and the future looks a little brighter for all of them, thanks to USC help.

The husband works as a laborer at Seoul harbor, earning 70 cents a day.

From this they are gradually paying off a debt of $100, still owing from their time of trouble.

In the meantime, they receive food and milk from USC workers.

They eat well now, rice and barley twice a day, and as special treat once a month they have some fish.

But without USC help, there would have been a different ending to the story.

Through contributions to the Times-sponsored Children of Asia Fund, the USC is able to continue their work with needy people in Korea, India and Hong Kong.

Donations may be sent care of this newspaper, and cheques should be made payable to the Children of Asia Fund.

Contributions are also being received at the main branch of the Bank of Montreal, Douglas and Yates.

A list of donors is published daily in the Times.

Arthur Mayse

One day this week, I happened to be idly coiling a long brown plush boa constrictor around my arm in the Bay's toyland when a nearby customer glanced, squeaked, and stepped backward into a trim brunette clerk who later identified herself as Mrs. Robert A. Slater of 4414 Patricia Bay Highway.

Mrs. Slater, a part-time hand, was functioning as house mother for the doll department, with which she is thoroughly familiar.

She flipped a chubby little creature over her shoulder, where it burped convincingly, shortened a shapely swinger's auburn mane by twisting a key in its back, then undertook to guide me among the moppets and poppets bears, tigers and poodles in her care.

Of the "plushes," which is what the trade calls stuffed animals of every sort, this year's top number is the well-publicized tiger. However the teddybear—washable, but otherwise the same orangy-yellow and lovable character little kids have been taking to bed since Teddy Roosevelt lent his name to the breed—remains the basic.

★ ★ ★

"Tradition," said busy Mrs. Slater as she relieved me of the boa, "figures heavily in this business. Those snakes sold very briskly, and so did our monsters. But not among the grand-parents."

We paused to hobnob with a flap-eared hound dog which is billed as a puppet. Mrs. Slater pulled a ring in his back, and he said gruffly, "If dolls can talk so can I." Then she let me tug the ring, and from his eleven-sentence vocabuluary the dog said — very sensibly, we agreed — "I want a bone."

Getting back to the importance of tradition in doll biz, I learned that granny and gramps are hard to sell on dolls that walk, chatter, cry, and offer other spectacular manifestations of babyhood.

When doll-shopping, they usually head straight for the fluffily-dressed bisque babies that content themselves with just an oldfashioned opening and closing of their eyes.

"If they can find one that says 'mama'," Mrs. Slater amplified "they're delighted. And they're our best customers for rag dolls, too."

We took the time out to accommodate a mannish and slightly embarrassed young fellow who wanted a cuddly pink pup for his baby sister. The plush range starts away down there, flourishes more expensively in the teens with carnival-sized pandas, tigers and such for girls' rooms; and where it ends, Mrs. Slater can only guess.

"More than once," she told me, "I've had a husband buy one of our plushes for his wife."

★ ★ ★

We were kept busy for a while demonstrating plastic fibre hair in several shades, and flexible joints as fitted to the more talented and expensive models. Then we looked in on the fashion set which is credited with extending doll-age for girls from a previous high of about eight years to 12 or even beyond.

These smart young sophisticates, which stand 11 inches tall in the senior sizes, were led upon the scene a couple of years ago by Barby, her boy friend, Ken, and her girl friend Midge.

Makers both American and Canadian have enormously increased the tribe, which frolics in a climate of luxury only matchable in Beverly Hills or New York's flossier bedroom suburbs. You name it, and, with the exception of their own cocktail lounge, these glamour-dolls have it to a degree that scandalizes the occasional senior shopper.

Mrs. Slater, however, has a good word to say for them. Since no girl can possibly wheedle or buy all the outfits cunningly made available for the fashion set, out comes the sewing basket and in go the stitches as well-styled miniature garments are copied with painstaking exactitude.

I learned further that tiny girls like large, huggable babies, that most European dolls have dished-in faces, and this final fact which should comfort hard-squeezed parents:

Whatever doll greets Snooksie on Christmas morning, you can be 99.9 per cent sure she's going to love it.

FINE FISHIN' TIME

Ships aren't the only sea-travellers to enter Esquimalt graving dock these busy days, and in the pictures two dockyard hands demonstrate their version of shooting fish in a basket.

Protected by hip boots and armed with pike-poles, they splash into the enormous rectangle as receding water leaves a freighter high and dry on the blocks.

In the top left picture, a spring salmon trapped in the dock section churns up foam as a well-directed thrust drives home. Top right, the successful fisherman hoists his eight-pound catch aloft; then, right, he and his companion wade toward the work scow with the makings of a baked-salmon dinner. ## Students Sing To Assist Elderly Group

A festival of Christmas carols, presented by Greater Victoria secondary schools Wednesday night, raised $160 for the Silver Threads Service for the Elderly.

Sponsored by Victoria Lions Club, the festival was held in Metropolitan United Church. A collection was taken and the proceeds were presented to Mrs. May Campbell, a director of Silver Threads, by R. H. Spilsbury, president of the Lions Club.

Pay All Chronic Costs, NDP to Urge Cabinet

PIANO WISH COMES TRUE FOR CHANT

Works Minister W. N. Chant got his wish today although not from the fountain.

He said about $700 has been raised to provide a piano for the Senior Citizens Recreation Centre in Centennial Square and it should be installed by Christmas or New Year.

Mr. Chant last Friday tossed a coin into the fountain behind the Parliament Buildings in the hopes other people would follow suit that day to provide enough money to reach the target.

About $500 had been collected this way towards the piano in past years.

"But the weather was not very good Friday so we set out donation boxes among the civil service offices and the fund has been built up sufficiently now," he said this morning.

Caucus Adopts Leftist Stance

The B.C. New Democratic Party today moved further leftward in its policies on chronic care, pushed apparently by last week's government announcement of dollar-a-day coverage for medically ill persons in non-profit nursing homes.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan announced the party's council has endorsed a proposal by the caucus of NDP members of the legislature advocating the provincial government undertake 100 per cent of construction costs for chronic care institutions.

This was a slam at the Social Credit cabinet's stand that it will extend normal 50 per cent construction grants to any non-profit group that builds or buys appropriate nursing homes. The offer specifically included municipal councils.

The NDP policy also repeated its previous position that the government should extend BCHIS coverage to all persons labelled as chronic care patients, including custodial cases who have no specific malady but need supervision. The last group still is outside the government program.

The NDP party previously made no particular policy declaration on construction of such facilities but last weekend in Vancouver it agreed on the 100 per cent provincial responsibility.

THREE REGIONS

Mr. Strachan said it was unfair to three regions of the province to require the communities ot raise half of the capital cost.

The regions are Vancouver Island, particularly Greater Victoria, the Lower Mainland and the Okanagan Valley where the bulk of senior citizens—main group requiring the facilities—have retired.

"Some places in the province will never have to build a chronic hospital at any time so why should some municipalities have to accept the load for the whole province?" Mr. Strachan asked.

"The municipalities involved just can't pick up the load and it should be borne by the whole province through the government."

He said this was a crucial distinction from the situation applying to acute hospitals which have to be provided in all communities.

SECOND FACTOR

"The second factor," continued Mr. Strachan, "it that in spite of all the misleading publicity, the latest announcement of the minister of health on this subject is merely a faltering first step 10 years too late to meet today's need."

He scored the fact that only 570 beds in nursing homes will be covered immediately and many of the patients now occupying them will not qualify on medical grounds.

"And as approximately 50 per cent of these patients are already being paid for by the government through social welfare grants the new government plan means very little," he said.

RESPONSIBILITY

He said a New Democratic government would take full responsibility for all chronic care and would purchase immediately all private profit-making hospitals and nursing homes that provide the three types of chronic care — rehabilitation, medical supervision and custodial.

"This would be an interim measure as a means of supplying immediate coverage until adquate facilities can be provided in conjunction with acute hospitals," Mr. Strachan said.

"No more licences would be granted for profit-making ventures and all future facilities for this type of care would be financed 100 per cent by the provincial government."

Local Plan For Hospitals First In B.C.

The proposed hospital partnership of local municipalities and unorganized areas would be a first in British Columbia, a Municipal Affairs spokesman said today.

His statement clarifies a situation clouded by several speakers in the hospital tax controversy which goes to the voters Saturday.

Many speakers on the subject have stated that 38 other community groups have already endorsed the cost-sharing formula now presented locally.

The assumption has been that Victoria and district, if it turns down the referendum, will be flying in the face of precedents set by most of the province.

The spokesman explained that the Hospital Improvement Districts which have been set up on a co-operative basis generally have taken in unorganized territories only, although some villages have been included.

VOLUNTARY

In many instances larger centres adjoining the Hospital Improvement Districts have voluntarily passed their own money bylaws to make the hospital planning more effective.

The nearest hospital district to Victoria takes in unorganized territories in the Duncan, Lake Cowichan area. But Duncan and North Cowichan municipalities are not included.

They have, on their own, passed money bylaws to assume their responsibility to the Duncan hospital which will serve the whole area on an equal sharing basis.

Neither Vancouver nor New Westminster is involved in a hospital improvement district nor a joint regional board (minimetro), such as is proposed here.

PASSED BY EACH

But they differ from Victoria in that they have each passed money bylaws as required to maintain their hospitals. In this area required funds have depended upon generosity of municipal councils, through grants and private citizens.

If the same system that applies elsewhere in the province was applied in this area, Sooke, Metchosin, Langford, Colwood and View Royal would be joined in a hospital improvement district.

And the municipalities of Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Sidney, Central Saanich and North Saanich would hold money bylaws on an individual basis to raise hospital funds.

Federal and provincial participation would be the same as now, $2,000 a bed from Ottawa and 50 per cent from the province toward capital costs.

In Victoria area, however, money bylaws have not been held and donations to hospitals have been at the discretion of local councils instead of a direct demand on ratepayers.

TWO STILL AT LARGE

4 Break-Ins Admitted By Lookout for Gang

A youth who acted as lookout and getaway car driver, pleaded guilty today in central court to taking part in four recent break-ins.

Roy Alexander McLaren, no fixed address, was remanded to Dec. 16 for sentence.

He will also be charged by Saanich police in connection with recent break-ins at Gordon Head Elementary School and Mattick's Farm.

The acts were done in company with three other youths.

One appeared on the charges in juvenile court today. The other two are still at large.

Police launched an extensive search for McLaren's companions today. He admitted the break-ins to police when questioned Wednesday.

On Nov. 28, McLaren parked his auto in the lot of the RCN Sailing Association clubhouse at 1001 Maple Bank Rd.

He got out of the car and stood by a tree while his three companions broke into the premises, stealing $40 in cash and a dozen 26-ounce bottles of liquor.

They divided up their loot, valued at $100, as they drove to Nanaimo.

Friday the quartet smashed a window at S. J. Willis school and forced open the door of the principal's office to steal a radio.

McLaren again did the driving.

Saturday night they broke into Shepherd's Dairy, 1645 Fort Street, by kicking in a rear door, but nothing was taken.

Tuesday night they returned to the sailing association's clubhouse and stole $78 in cash.

Police have recovered about $25 in cash and the radio.

TOPICS of the DAY

United Nations Association in Canada, Victoria branch, will meet Wednesday, Dec. 15, at 8 p.m. in the Douglas Building cafeteria, not Wednesday, Dec. 8, as previously reported.

Speaker will be Hon. Ralph Loffmark: "Practical Choices in International Politics."

★ ★ ★

Rear-Admiral C. J. Dillon will visit west coast defence establishments from Monday to Wednesday.

He is deputy comptroller for Canada's armed forces.

★ ★ ★

Sailors who must serve their duty watch aboard Pacific command ships Christmas Day will get a present this year.

Rear-Admiral M. G. Stirling, flag officer Pacific coast, has announced wives and families of men involved will be allowed aboard their ships to celebrate Christmas with them.

★ ★ ★

A man found to have a neighbor's transistor radio in his home today pleaded guilty to possession of stolen goods.

Daniel Barrieu, 1499 Admirals Road, will be sentenced Friday.

Colwood RCMP Constable Walter Curry told the court he uncovered the radio, valued at less than $50, following a complaint by Mr. Barrieu's neighbor.

He said Barrieu knew the radio was stolen from a neighbor but he made no effort to return it.

Buy Surplus, Nurserymen Ask Ottawa

Saanich nurserymen have asked the federal government to buy their surplus stock to compensate for the loss of export markets.

Shipments of plants with soil attached from South Vancouver Island were halted last July with the discovery in Saanich of golden nematode, a wormlike parasite.

John E. Wallner, president of the Vancouver Island Nurserymen Association and Allied Trades, said today thousands of ornamentals normally destined for the mainland can't be moved out of Saanich because of the embargo.

The Victoria market can't absorb the surplus, he said.

HARDSHIPS

He said nurserymen expected regulations affecting ornamental tres and shrubs to be relaxed this fall, but as yet nothing has been done to relieve the situation.

"Some nurserymen are now suffering hardships," he said. "They depended on mainland and U.S. sales for their livelihood."

One grower is caught with 40,000 ornamentals on his hands. They were being grown for sale on the B.C. mainland and prairie provinces.

Ed Lohbrunner, chairman of the association's quarantine committee, said he is hopeful that the government will compensate growers in the near future.

Bigger Pay Boost Seen for Servants

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Provincial civil servants likely will receive word of their fifth annual wage raise next week and this time it may go over an average of 5 per cent.

Premier Bennett is expected to announce a hike Tuesday at the annual luncheon the cabinet tenders to civil servants who join the ranks of the 25-year-service club.

He has used the same occasion each year since 1961 to announce inclusion of wage boosts in his forthcoming budgets. In 1961 he announced selective increases for professional and hourly-rated employees but every year since it has been an across-the-board increase averaging 5 per cent.

Reasons for speculation that there will be an even bigger boost this time for the 18,000-strong provincial employees are:

The huge surplus building up in the provincial treasury; announcement this morning by Ottawa of a major increase for federal employees; relatively larger hike in cost of living index over the past year; and possibility of a provincial election in 1966.

INDIAN BANDS WILL BENEFIT

Clothing Drive by Santa

Sidney's Santa will ride again this year.

The Santa in working clothes is logger John Fraser, of 11050 Heather Road, Sidney.

For the second year in a row he is collecting used clothing for distribution among Vancouver Island Indian bands.

Main drive will be next week when Mr. Fraser opens a temporary collection booth at 709 Johnson Street.

A similar drive last year collected over 6,000 pounds of clothing for Gulf Islands Indians.

This year the clothing will be taken to Tofino and Ucluelet.

Said Mr. Fraser, who got the idea for a clothing drive after reading a story in the Times about the plight of Indian children:

"I hear that many Indians on the west coast have had a bad year fishing. They'll presumably not have much cash to spare for winter clothing.

"If people can just sort out some of their unwanted stuff it will be a real blessing to these people."

The collection booth will be open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

UNUSUALLY LARGE flock of wild swans was captured by the camera today on the Saanich farm of Bud and Ralph Michell. The swans have been at the farm several days now, presumably resting before continuing on their long flight south. Seven adults and five young, they will spend the winter in southern California. In the spring they will return to B.C. They differ from the tamer variety of swans to be found in Beacon Hill Park, in that they migrate annually. Usually they are found in smaller flocks of three or four. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

CHILDREN GET $10,000 IN SUIT SETTLEMENT

The two children of Mrs. Doris LeCorre, 1170 Palmer Road, Victoria, are to receive $10,000 in an out-of-court settlement for the loss of their father, killed in a 1964 target shooting accident.

The settlement was announced in B.C. Supreme Court, Vancouver, Wednesday. It followed a suit launched by Mrs. LeCorre against Geritt Mol of Saanich, charging that her husband, Jean James Peakman, was killed by a bullet from a rifle fired by Mr. Mol in the Martin's Gulch area just south of Shawnigan Lake on Nov. 15, 1964.

Roland Johnson, counsel for Mrs. LeCorre, said Mr. Peakman was hunting with Mr. Mol and stopped to fire at a tin can. While returning to their firing position, Mr. Mol's rifle accidentally fired and the bullet struck Mr. Peakman in the spine.

He was dead on arrival at Duncan Hospital.

'Tight Money' Shows in City Debenture Bids

The tight-money picture was seen at city hall today as $50,000 debenture bids were opened in the mayor's office.

Investment houses bid from 95.14 to 96.14 for the serial bonds, which was interpreted as 6 per cent money.

The equivalent serials were sold last year at a cost of 5.5 per cent.

High bidder was the combination of Pemberton Securities and Bank of Nova Scotia, with 96.14.

Six other firms or syndicates submitted bids.

The series is to finance local improvement projects.

Telephone Calls by Sauve 'Hot Topic' for Martin

OTTAWA (CP) — An alleged telephone call by Forestry Minister Sauve to an Iles-de-la-Madeleine judge on election day became a hot topic at Acting Prime Minister Martin's press conference Wednesday.

Mr. Martin was asked whether Mr. Sauve, now in Rome, had telephoned the judge in the forestry minister's Iles-de-la-Madeleine riding Nov. 8 to have two Conservatives detained in jail.

Mr. Martin said he had heard about the matter but hadn't read the newspaper account in question.

However, he added, there was a well-established legal procedure for anyone to take if he contends irregularities occurred.

Judge Joseph Duguay of Grindstone, Que., has told reporters Mr. Sauve telephoned him "at least twice" on election day to protest the release of two men from jail to vote. They had been charged that day with theatening a Liberal and one of them subsequently pleaded guilty and was fined $50.

Mr. Martin was asked whether the government plans an investigation.

"I know nothing about the situation," he snapped.

A reporter then asked whether it was still the government's view that cleaning house should be left to the Opposition and not to the government itself.

Mr. Martin said there are well-known legal remedies to deal with a question involving an allegation against a member of Parliament.

MARTIN
. . . heard about matter

He added that he wouldn't want to leave the impression the matter wasn't being looked at by the government.

"Is it?" he was asked.

Mr. Martin said he had made only an "observation."

Meanwhile, national director Richard Thrasher of the Conservative party said the Conservatives have begun an investigation into the Iles-de-la-Madeleine election. No decision had yet been taken on whether to ask the courts to nullify the contest, won by Mr. Sauve by 392 votes—2,860 to 2,468—over Conservative Dr. Marc Arsenault.

Mr. Martin had announcements to make about Rhodesia, sugar beets and holidays for civil servants.

He said Canada's ban on imports of Rhodesian goods will be extended to cover 90 per cent of these commodities with embargoes on imports of ferrochrome, chrome ores and concentrates, asbestos and meat. Imports from Rhodesia were valued at $4,300,000 in 1964.

MORE FOR SERVANTS

Mr. Martin also said public servants will get 3½ days off on the Christmas and New Year's weekends—half of Friday and all day Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

In reply to a question, Mr. Martin said he is sure Prime Minister Pearson is making "constructive progress" on cabinet changes during his Caribbean holiday.

A reporter said there has been criticism because Mr. Pearson has been away during important financial decisions.

"His absence in no way impairs his concern and interest in this country," Mr. Martin said.

Murder Suspect Taken by Posse

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—A 30-year-old man wanted on a charge of capital murder surrendered to an armed posse today in the rugged snow-covered bushland of British Columbia's Chilcotin district.

RCMP here said John Sulin of the Anahim Lake Indian reserve gave up without a struggle when stopped by the posse near Nimpo Lake, southeast of Anahim Lake, where 67-year-old Jamus Jack was fatally shot last week.

Police said Sulin was hungry and tired. He apparently had obtained some food from trappers' cabins in the area and appeared to be heading towards a store at Nimpo Lake when captured.

Jamus Jack and his son Benny, 26, were shot after going to the rescue of a cousin who was attacked by a man with an axe.

Jamus Jack died on the 90-mile trip to Bella Coola hospital from the reserve 300 miles north of Vancouver.

Benny Jack is in hospital in Vancouver with bullet wounds in his shoulder and spine, temporarily paralyzed from the waist down.

Police, using a 20-man posse and a helicopter, had been searching for Sulin since Friday.

Day Ahead On Gemini 6

★ ★ ★

Flying Garbage Bucket

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Gemini 7 astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell face a housekeeping problem that would make any good housewife throw up her hands in disgust.

Home for two weeks in a cramped spacecraft with a living area for two men no larger than the front seat of a small foreign car. Anything loose floats aimlessly and weightless.

To make matters worse, Borman and Lovell are not allowed to dispose of anything in space. What went up must come down.

Housekeeping is a daily chore for the high-flying space twins. This means stuffing away trash or storing cameras and other experiment equipment used during a busy day circling the globe.

And from what they have told ground controllers, they seem to be running a pretty tight ship.

"It's amazing how the spacecraft seems to be getting bigger and bigger," command pilot Borman said. "Either we're losing weight or we're getting used to it."

The astronauts harbor no doubt they can master the stowage problem by using every nook and cranny in the craft. Several times before the flight they surveyed the cabin inch by inch, converting unused space into storage bins, drawers and pouches.

By HOWARD BENEDICT

HOUSTON (AP) — Gemini 6 launch crew received orders today to prepare for a Sunday morning firing and completion of the first U.S. space rendezvous one day ahead of schedule.

Preparations at Cape Kennedy were 24 hours ahead for the blastoff of a Titan II rocket that will propel Gemini 6 in pursuit of astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell in the Gemini 7 spaceship.

The two spacecraft will meet in the sky, if there are no hitches, and complete a space first by flying in formation.

Other than a few sneezes by Borman, there were no problems aboard the Gemini 7, which was hurtling along toward a 14-day endurance record.

Dr. D. Owen Coons, a flight surgeon, said if Borman develops a cold "we would treat him with the medicine we have on board the spacecraft. We would expect to continue the flight."

The four-ton Gemini 7 continued its performance as the best operating of any U.S. manned spacecraft.

Mikoyan Leaves Post In Russian Shuffle

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP) — A major shuffle in the Soviet high command today assigned Alexander N. Shelepin to an influential job at the top level of the Communist party and boosted Nikolai V. Podgorny into the presidency.

Podgorny, 62, who has been No. 2 man in the part as one of its secretaries and a member of the ruling party Presidium, replaces Anastas I. Mikoyan, a member of the top Soviet command for 40 years.

At 70, Mikoyan said an operation three years ago had made it difficult for him to fulfil the demands of the presidency. This is a largely ceremonial post.

Shelepin, 47, was relieved as deputy premier and head of the committee for party and state control. Communist sources indicated he would take the No. 2 post formerly held by Podgorny. This job is second to that of Leonid I. Brezhnev, chief of the secretariat, the most powerful unit in the Soviet Union.

There was no change in the two top posts—Brezhnev as first secretary of the party and Alexei N. Kosygin as premier. They suggested the changes, which were approved by the Supreme Soviet, the parliament.

STAY IN PRESIDIUM

Both Podgorny and Mikoyan remained members of the 12-man party Presidium which makes the policy executed by the party secretariat.

Mikoyan also was elected, following his resignation from the presidency, to a Supreme Soviet role corresponding to one of many parliamentary vice-presidents.

The unit which Shelepin headed for the last three years, the committee for party and state control, was changed into the committee of people's control.

The Supreme Soviet was told that the change in the application of the powerful organization, which supervises party leaders by Soviet government units, would increase the role of the common people.

The chairman of the new committee is Pavel Kovanov.

The Supreme Soviet also made changes in the Soviet Council of Ministers, including Pavel Kovanov, the new chairman of the U.S.S.R. people's control committee, in the council. The council of ministers, which has about 100 members, acts as the administrative arm of the government, or cabinet.

Two others also were made council members. They were Alexander Bulgakov, chairman of the state committee of the council for vocational and technical education, and Alexander Yershevsky, chairman of the agricultural engineering equipment association.

Killer Peddled Story

TOKYO (AP) — Police reported Tuesday the arrest of a man who strangled his wife four months ago, encased her in cement, then tried to sell the story of his deed to a magazine. The police said Ryutaro Shoji, 29, confessed. Shoji was arrested after editors of the weekly magazine reported his tale to the police.

Waterfront Racket In Liquor Broken

VANCOUVER (CP)—A waterfront liquor racket has been broken by city police and the RCMP.

Six cases and 20 assorted bottles of liquor were seized by an RCMP officer and city detectives when a suspect was arrested Wednesday night on Ballantyne pier in Vancouver harbor.

Two other suspects were picked up later. No charges have been laid.

Police said today one of the suspects is a Canadian customs officer, another a cargo checker and the third a provincial Liquor Control Board truck driver.

Police said liquor has been taken from cargo and smuggled into the country without being checked through customs.

It was then sold to persons unknown.

Police said they have not yet determined how much liquor is involved but said it could run into thousands of dollars.

Ski Classes Scheduled

CAMPBELL RIVER — Skiing, always at the back door, is finally catching on with local residents.

Last year, about 50 persons took ski lessons under auspices of Courtenay Recreation Association and Mt. Becher Ski Society.

This year, two buses of 50 enthusiasts each will travel to the slopes of Forbidden Plateau starting in January, for nine weeks of lessons.

In addition, about 20 others wishing to learn how to ski and with their own transportation will also take lessons.

The nine-lesson package costs $25 with bus transportation, or $7 if own transportation is provided.

No plans are being made for a local ski club.

Skiers here prefer to work along with the CRA and Ski Society.

'USE N-BOMBS AGAINST N. VIET NAM'

WELLESLEY, Mass. (AP) —Mme. Chiang Kai-shek recommends hitting the industrial centres and military complex in North Viet Nam with nuclear bombs.

She told a press conference Wednesday at Wellesley College, from which she graduated in 1917, that she would not recommend using nuclear weapons to bomb Viet Cong civilians.

Mme. Chiang said nationalist China, of which her husband is president, would send troops to South Viet Nam only if asked by the government of Saigon.

15 Years In Coma

MURPHYS, Calif. (AP) — Nurses at Bret Harte Hospital say an auto accident victim is beginning her 15th year of semi-conscious survival. The condition of Abbie Lelsh Howland, a 45-year-old former nurse, is still listed as "fair," just as it was when she entered the hospital with brain injuries Dec. 4, 1951.

Curb Lifting Urged

NEW YORK (CP) — Republican congressman Stanley R. Tupper of Maine urged the United States Wednesday night to amend its recently-passed immigration law to allow unlimited immigration from Canada and Mexico.

economic and social problems of our day" — automation and technological change.

The minister said the report recommends "important innovations" and will receive careful consideration.

The judge said there is no doubt under present law that the CNR had the right to introduce crew run-throughs. But he urged that this right should be taken away, through legislation if necessary.

Labor laws now provide that once it signs a contract a union cannot legally strike unless the specific provisions of the contract are violated. Management, meanwhile, is free to make any changes it desires in working conditions.

"The present situation which permits management to make unilateral changes in working conditions during the contract period is a manifest inequity which clamors for attention and correction," the 57-year-old Manitoba Appeal Court judge said.

Have you tried this happy marriage of flavour?

Can Gilbey's London Dry and ginger ale live happily together?

The answer is a blissful yes.

Gilbey's London Dry has a perfect balance of flavour for all mixed gin drinks.

The flavour of some other gins is either too strong—or utterly tasteless.

But Gilbey's dry flavour has been an international favourite since 1873. Quite a long time.

Gilbey's London Dry lives in perfect harmony with the lively taste and effervescence of ginger ale.

Prove it to yourself. Tonight.

Note: use a few crushed leaves of mint as a garnish.

GIRL CRITICAL

Island Crash Kills Airman

SQUIRE
. . . law on books

Carol Ann Manson of Courtenay, received multiple injuries when the car in which she was a passenger was in head-on collision with another car on the Island Highway just south of here.

Driver James Funkhouser, a U.S. Air Force staff-sergeant, was killed instantly in the crash.

The two were heading south in the 31-year-old communications officer's, white sports car when the collision occurred.

Police said another car, driven by Courtenay music store owner, Ken Day, pulled out to overtake a northbound car, hitting the sports model.

Mr. Day is in fairly good condition in Comox Hospital.

Miss Manson, 21, was being transferred to Victoria this afternoon.

An inquest on the staff-sergeant opened this morning and was adjourned indefinitely.

His body will be shipped back to the U.S. for burial. He was father of two. The wife Sally, lives in Fairborn, Ohio.

He had been stationed at RCAF station Comox for the past 15 months.

One of a group of U.S.A.F. officers supervising the storage of nuclear warheads at Comox, he lived on the base.

The accident happened around 3 p.m. in pouring rain.

Pollution Control 'Not Easy'

PORT ALBERNI—Controlling air pollution in mill towns is harder than it sounds, according to Port Alberni Mayor Les Hammer.

Replying Wednesday to statements made by local MLA John Squire who said municipalities now have legislation to force companies to control air pollution, Mayor Hammer said:

"If our council has not been successful in suppressing air pollution, it is not for lack of trying.

"We are perfectly aware of the municipal act provisions."

He said in theory it is possible to make things so tough a company will either close down or take the simple course of relocating outside the municipality where there is no control.

"Until there is provincial legislation to cover all areas, there is little hope of enforcing local tough bylaws," he said.

A petition is now being taken in the Alberni Valley asking for pollution control measures across the province.

BACK PETITION

Said George McKnight, one of the petition leaders:

"To suggest, as Mr. Squire does, that municipal councils have the power to control pollution by multi-million-dollar industries inside or outside their boundaries is unrealistic.

"We, and the petitioners, call on Mr. Squire to support this petition and help us bring this menace of air and water pollution under control."

CARVER HAS BEAR IN HIS TOTEM POLE

CAMPBELL RIVER—Local totem pole carver, Sam Henderson, is at work on the first of two poles he has been commissioned to carve for the Canadian Confederation Centennial Committee of B.C.

Mr. Henderson, of the Spit Reserve, is one of several leading Indian carvers in the province who have been commissioned to produce a total of 20 totem poles.

The totem poles are to be completed by June 1 of next year and will be located along the Route of the Haidas from Victoria to Port Hardy and Prince Rupert.

★ ★ ★

Totem poles will be 12 feet in height and approximately 3½ feet in diameter. Each will have an upright grizzly bear as its dominant figure and any smaller figures will be common to the areas in which the poles are erected.

In addition to the poles, each carver must supply the committe with a story depicting the pole's significance.

This will be displayed on a plaque alongside the pole.

Mr. Henderson's poles will be erected at Tsawwassen and Campbell River.

Early, Late Voters To Miss Trustees

Early morning and late night voters in Sooke school district will be cheated out of half their vote.

To mark their X on both school trustee and hospital slips they must cast their ballot between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Although polling booths in the Langford, Colwood, Metchosin and Sooke areas open 8 a.m. and close 8 p.m. the first and last hours will be for voting on the hospital referendum alone.

Explained the area's hospital vote returning officer Fred Willway: "Being in an unorganized area, the school board is allowed to set its own hours.

"They chose 9 to 7 before the hospital referendum came up.

"I asked to observe the same hours but the hospital referendum is governed by the Municipal Act which says we have to open 8 to 8.

"It's unfortunate but there's nothing we can do about it."

Firemen Back Drive

CAMPBELL RIVER—Firemen proved to be tireless workers for the community last week when they won an inter-club challenge shield for donating most blood at the Red Cross blood donor clinic.

Firemen had 68 per cent of the members donate blood while Lions were second with 48 per cent.

Rotary Club was third and Kinsmen fourth.

Challenge helped to spark one of the most successful clinics ever which saw a total of 410 pints donated.

Trainees from Snowden and Lakeview forestry camps contributed 63 pints.

Victory at Last

CAMPBELL RIVER — It took them two days to do it, but Willow Point elementary boys school soccer team finally won the district playoff trophy this week, edging Campbellton 1-0. First game Monday ended in a scoreless tie. The victory for Willow Point climaxed an uphill struggle. They finished second to Maple in regular season play. Maple was later eliminated in the semi-finals by Campbellton.

Yule Tree Sale

Racing Days Are Over For King of Trotters

TIME OUT By JEFF KEATE

"Cleverest stick handler in the league!"

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Su Mac Lad, greatest money-winning harness horse of all time, retired from racing in special ceremonies at the winner's circle Tuesday night at Roosevelt Raceway, scene of some of his greatest triumphs.

The 11-year-old trotting gelding was driven once around the track to the cheers of 14,017 fans and then stripped of his racing gear.

His shoes were removed and distributed to his owner, Irving Berkemeyer of New Milford, N.J., Alvin Weil, president of Roosevelt Raceway, Ed Binneweg, representing the Trotting Hall of Fame at Goshen, N.Y., and to his driver-trainer, Stanley Dancer of New Egypt, N.J.

After the ceremonies, Su Mac Lad was loaded on a horse van for shipment to the Dancer farm at New Egypt, where he will spend the rest of his days.

Su Mac Lad, purchased by Berkemeyer for $35,000 in 1959, retired with total earnings of $884,368. He set track records of two minutes at both Roosevelt and Yonkers and won the Roosevelt International classic twice among his many stakes triumphs.

Toronto Aids Baseball Club

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Maple Leaf baseball team will be operating in the International League for another year at least with the help of a $30,000 grant approved Wednesday night by city council.

Club representatives said they had losses of about $232,000 in the last two years and could not continue without the grant.

Mayor Philip Givens, who voted in favor of the grant, said the club probably will need similar grants for another two or three years.

GETS NEW CONTRACT

HOUSTON (AP)—Bones Taylor, coach of Houston Oilers of the American Football League, has been given a new three-year contract.

Seattle Eyes NFL Berth

SEATTLE (AP) — Six Seattle legislators gave bipartisan support today to proposals for use of the University of Washington Stadium for professional major league football.

Three said they would back action by the legislature to make the stadium available for pro football if the university regents won't do so.

The regents have said they have not taken a position on the issue because no firm proposal has been put before them.

Sports interests here believe a National Football League franchise could be obtained in 1967 if a pro team had an adequate place to play.

The university stadium, with a capacity of 55,000 and expansion plans for another 20,000 in the works, is the only place that could be available that soon.

Jury Denounces—Mayor Promises

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Vice in San Francisco is again under fire this time in a grand jury denunciation of sin, sex and "moral decay."

But the bright lights didn't even flicker in a city whose Barbary Coast past makes "amateur topless night" a humdrum event and where neons flash "Nude Model Strip Poker."

Even the Salvation Army gave up after an attempted revival and announced it wouldn't try that again on the North gbeach night club strip.

The grand jury, which makes reports of city activities one of its traditional functions, noted Tuesday what it called a marked increase in pornographic literature and "open and notorious solicitation for prostitution."

Jurors also took a new swing at the city's topless waitresses and showgirls.

THERE'S NO CASE

Police arrested several bare-bosomed performers in raids on North Beach clubs last summer. But municipal court judges said they failed to make a case under existing decency laws.

At any rate, officials debated among themselves who should be officially concerned now with the grand jury's finding of "the rising crime rate and the apparent decay of the moral standards of the community."

The mayor's office thought the jury's findings fell under the district attorney's office. The DA's office said the report was a police matter. Police said the report was addressed to the mayor.

Mayor John Shelley, who once punned "the topless bathing suit is at the bottom of it all," issued a statement promising "never to allow wantonness, vulgarity or sexual promiscuity to take over."

Triple Slaying

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A savage triple slaying which caused police inspectors to recoil in horror at the bloody scene ended in the arrest Tuesday of a 28-year-old hotel employee on suspicion of murder. Police said Jose de Trinidad killed his two-year-old son, the woman with whom he had been living and her mother with a paring knife and broken bottle, slept Monday night in the family flat with the bodies nearby, then summoned police.

"When the saleslady held up Cameo "Little Nothing" in new Cantrece nylon, I almost laughed. What a funny, crinkly stocking. But when I stretched it on, "Little Nothing" was suddenly made-to-measure. Not a wrinkle or sag. Just fit, fit, fit, with no let-down. (And me, the original baggy-stocking girl.) Soft matte finish. And sheer like crazy. Now I have a complete "Little Nothing" wardrobe. Plainstitch. Mesh. And a wicked nude heel. (The baggy-stocking girl is gone for good.)

Honestly, Cameo, where have you been all my life?"

Britain Launches Viet Peace Move

12-Nation Plea To Hanoi Sought

LONDON (AP) — Britain today proposed a 12-nation appeal to North Viet Nam to quit fighting and negotiate a peace.

The British move was contained in a draft message sent to the Soviet government. It called upon the Russians to join in signing and circulating the message among the nine countries which attended the 1954 Indochinese peace parley and the Indian, Canadian and Polish governments, which form the Viet Nam control commission.

Represented in the peace parley were the United States, France, Britain, Russia, China, Cambodia, Laos, the Viet Minh regime that fought the French and South Viet Nam. The United States never signed the general armistice agreement on Indochina, but made a unilateral declaration defining its position.

In the message, the British government accused the North Vietnamese of stepping up intervention in South Viet Nam.

The British government said North Viet Nam also has been speeding and increasing the flow of military equipment and men southward to aid the Viet Cong forces.

The message also said North Vietnamese forces, "on a constantly expanding scale, are violating the neutrality and territorial integrity of Laos."

MAKE COUNTER-PLEA

Britain and the Soviet Union were co-chairmen of the 1954 conference in Geneva and the British message was sent to the Russians as a counter-proposal to a parallel Moscow move aimed against the United States.

Soviet agreement seemed improbable.

Small groups of Russians are flooding the U.S. embassy in Moscow with resolutions protesting the war in Viet Nam. An embassy spokesman said more than 100 resolutions have been presented since last Friday. Others still were showing up.

The Russians three days ago had formulated a message which they wanted the British to sign and circulate among the Geneva nations. In it, the Russians called for international condemnation of American action in Viet Nam.

This proposed message was rejected by the British government, which then sent along its own version.

FINAL BULLETINS

$25,000 Salary Boost for Meany?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The executive council of the AFL-CIO has approved a $25,000-a-year pay raise for the labor federation's president George Meany, it was learned today.

The pay increase—more than 50 per cent of Meany's $45,000 salary—still needs approval from the convention of the AFL-CIO, which opened today.

Ship Strike May Block Canal

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—A 28,800-barrel tanker was forced to tie up at the Lake Ontario entrance to the Welland Canal today when her two deck officers walked out, joining some 500 other officers of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild (CLC).

The move sparked concern further walkouts might leave other ships blocking the canal.

Man's Body Found In Car Trunk

MONCTON, N.B. (UPI)—Moncton city detectives today found the body of a middle-aged man in the trunk of a car they had seized more than two weeks ago.

A police spokesman said the car, found abandoned on a mid-town street, was owned by Edward M. Crowley, 53, of Saint John, N.B., missing since Oct. 30. Crowley was last seen when he left his home for Cape Breton accompanied by an unidentified person.

Atom Plant Workers Vote to Strike

WINNIPEG (CP)—Maintenance employees at the Atomic Energy of Canada $14,500,000 Whiteshell nuclear research establishment near Pinawa, Man., have voted 46 to 3 in favor of strike action to back demands for wages and fringe benefits, it was announced today.

Driver Takes Aim at Policeman

HAMILTON (UPI)—A city police officer was forced to fire several shots today to prevent being run down by a car driven by a man wanted for questioning in connection with a joint city police-RCMP narcotics investigation.

The incident occurred shortly after noon in the city's west end in the vicinity of a narcotics cache discovered by police.

Suspect Held In Dynamite Thefts

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—FBI agents here are holding a California man arrested in Ottawa and wanted in Los Angeles on charges of stealing 1,400 pounds of dynamite, receiving stolen goods and fleeing to avoid prosecution.

Keith Gilbert, 26, of Glendale, Calif., was arrested in Ottawa Monday for illegal entry into Canada and deported Wednesday night. The FBI arrested him at Ogdensburg, N.Y.

ASTRONAUTS ALTER ORBIT

TRIBAL RAIDERS KILL WOMEN, CHILDREN

NAIROBI (Reuters)—Police in Kenya and neighboring Ethiopia searched today for raiders believed to have killed 62 persons in a tribal clash and stolen about 1,000 head of cattle.

Police reports said 33 young girls, 18 boys, 10 women and one man were killed when a joint force of Merille, Donyiro and Opotha tribesmen attacked a Turkana encampment in the Lokichoggio area of Kenya's northern frontier district.

'PROLONG BOOM' WITHOUT INFLATION

By JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Federal and provincial finance ministers today discussed prospects for prolonging Canada's expansion boom without allowing it to deteriorate into inflation.

Acting Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp expressed some concern over the possible threat of inflation and stressed it was not merely the responsibility of one level of government.

"This is a community problem and must be attacked from all sides," he said.

The outlook for 1966 is one of continuing pressure on Canadian resources which is the main factor which should be taken into account by all governments, he said.

"We are now expanding without any slack in the economy and our resources are being used fully," Sharp continued.

"This emphasizes the importance of stretching out, particularly in construction projects, so this expansion can be prolonged."

He said that provincial finance ministers who had spoken at the start of the two-day meeting had been in general agreement with these views.

There was considerable discussion of the effect of recent United States measures on the development of the capital market in Canada.

Minh Hedges On China Aid

TOKYO (UPI)— President Ho Chi Minh, in an interview broadcast today, said President Johnson "wants neither peace nor peace negotiations."

The interview was conducted recently in Hanoi by Felix Greene, a British journalist. It was broadcast by the official North Vietnamese news agency, monitored here.

Ho declined to answer directly when asked if Communist China was supplying North Viet Nam with great supplies of military aid.

"China, like the Soviet Union and the other socialist countries, fully agrees with the line of struggle of the government of the Democratic Republic of (North) Viet Nam and the South Viet Nam National Front for Liberation (the Viet Cong)," Ho said.

"They wholeheartedly support the Vietnamese people's fight against the U.S. imperialist aggressors."

Ho said the Vietnamese people "eagerly want peace to build up their country but genuine independence must be achieved if there is to be real peace.

"The question is very clear."

11 More Railroaders Join PGE Walkout

VANCOUVER (CP)—Another 11 men joined the Pacific Great Eastern railway walk-off today, bringing to 123 the number of trainmen who have reported sick since last Friday.

A spokesman for the B.C. government-owned line said the 11 all are from the Lillooet division.

He said passenger and freight trains are still running, although the dayliner passenger service is running only to Clinton, instead of Prince George.

The trainmen, members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, booked off sick because of what they said were long-standing grievances. The immediate incident was reported to be the dismissal of a trainman at Prince George four days before his six-month probationary period was to end.

Meanwhile, the PGE today turned down a request by the union for new talks to discuss the dispute.

Regional manager J. A. Deptford said in a wire to the union that PGE officials have repeatedly asked for an explanation of what the union wants to discuss and to date have received no answer.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen has offered to refer the whole dispute to a compulsory arbitration board but this has been rejected by the PGE.

The union had no comment today on Mr. Deptford's telegram rejecting the request for new talks.

'All Aspects Of Viet Nam On Agenda'

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson said today he would discuss "all aspects of the Viet Nam" problem when he meets President Johnson in Washington Dec. 17.

Wilson, answering questions in Parliament, said Washington had sent no request to Britain to send troops to South Viet Nam. But he said a medical representative was in South Viet Nam to see what Britain could do to provide "humanitarian assistance" such as an ambulance unit.

Details of Wilson's trip next week were announced today. He will leave London Wednesday, address the UN assembly the following day and see Johnson on Friday. The talks will probably be completed in one day, but, if necessary they will continue on Saturday.

Afterwards Wilson will go to Ottawa for talks with Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson and members of his government.

Strike May Isolate Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI)— — A 24-hour "general strike" of government workers, officially denounced as subversive, threatened today to isolate Uruguay from the rest of the world.

If all of the 200,000 unionists concerned heed the strike call, the walkout could paralyze long-distance telephone and telegraph lines, all banks, the docks, the customhouse and other government offices.

JURIST BACKS LABOR

'Take Away Right Of CN on Job Cuts'

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal inquiry report today recommended that the CNR should be denied the right to introduce controversial crew run-throughs without first negotiating them with its labor unions.

Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman of Winnipeg, reporting on his year-long study of CNR run-throughs at Nakina, Ont., and Wainwright, Alta., gave his backing to a revolutionary labor principle that the introduction of job-slashing technological changes should no longer be the exclusive right of management.

His report says the run-throughs, which reduce freight train stops by working their crew over longer runs, are a justifiable improvement in railway operations. But he is sharply critical of the way the CNR introduced them against mounting employee resistance.

When the CNR began its run-throughs at Nakina and Wainwright on the weekend of Oct. 25, 1964, more than 2,800 engineers, conductors, trainmen and firemen "booked sick" in what Mr. Justice Freedman described as an illegal strike.

OPERATIONS HINDERED

The work stoppage, which nearly crippled CNR operations across the country, ended after Labor Minister MacEachen agreed with a CNR proposal that a full inquiry be set up. The railway cancelled the run-throughs pending the inquiry report.

Mr. Justice Freedman's 65,000-word report was made public today by Mr. MacEachen who said the judge "had to struggle with one of the key

LBJ Speeds India Wheat

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson ordered a speedup today in shipment of 1,500,000 tons of wheat to India "to help meet the immediate food crisis" there.

He also authorized a $50,000,000 loan for Indian purchases of fertilizer.

Johnson decided upon the aid measures after conferences with Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman.

The decisions were announced by White House press secretary Bill D. Moyer, who said the $50,000,000 loan for purchases of fertilizer for India's spring rice crop would be matched by the Indian government and $100,000,000 worth of fertilizer would be bought.

Closing Sales At Vancouver

VANCOUVER—Closing sales: Neon 100 at $9, West Coast Trans. 100 at $23¾, Weldwood 100 at $10.25, Utica 1,000 at $1.95, Texmont 1,000 at $1.23, Rodstrum 500 at $1.50, Rolling Hills 2,000 at .82, Madrona 400 at $1.47, Trojan 3,000 at .29, Silver Ridge 500 at .29, Dynasty 100 at $16.50, London Pride Silver 1,000 at .20, Pyramid 100 at $14, Share Oil 1,000 at .35.

Professional CS Get Pay Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government today announced salary increases for some 19,300 professional employees that will cost the federal treasury some $8,600,000 annually.

The increases range from four to six per cent and are retroactive to July 1, 1965. The average increase is $446 a year.

Revenue Minister Benson, who made the announcement, said the "interim adjustments" were aimed at current problems of recruitment and retention of professional employees in the public service.

However, Leslie Barnes, executive director of the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada, branded the increases "too little, too late."

"They won't keep the best people in the civil service. They won't do the job they were intended to do—halt the drain of professionals from the government service."

WILL EXPLORE FURTHER

The pay announcement said the government will examine further recommendations on the group a professional category in the new year to consider whether further increases, effective July 1, 1966, would be warranted. Next July is the mid-point in the two-year pay cycle.

The increases amount to four per cent for classes with a pay maximum of $6,060 a year or less, five per cent for classes between $6,060 and $7,900, and six per cent for those above $7,900.

PODGORNY

MIKOYAN

SURVIVOR of 48 years of Communist Party struggles and purges, Anastas Mikoyan, 70, resigned today as president of the Soviet Union because of old age and ill health. Long-time party wheelhorse, Nikolai Podgorny, has been named his successor. (See story Page 3.)

FUTURE BRIGHTER FOR KOREAN MOTHER

Suicide Was Only Way Out

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

The baby was found in the waiting room of the Unitarian Service Committee hospital in Mokpo, Korea.

That night the mother, whose heart was breaking over having deserted her child, tried to kill herself.

She failed, and her tragic case came to the attention of USC workers who had her baby in their care.

Why did this woman take such drastic steps? What drove her to it?

Her despair stemmed directly from the poverty which afflicts her family, as it does thousands of others in Korea.

Her husband was unemployed, they had five underclad children, winter was coming and there was no food or fuel in their shack.

After her attempt at suicide, the mother was admited to the Seoul Mental Institution with her expenses paid by the USC.

USC workers also helped her husband get a job, and cared for her baby while the woman was in hospital.

Now recovered, she is back with her family and the future looks a little brighter for all of them, thanks to USC help.

The husband works as a laborer at Seoul harbor, earning 70 cents a day.

From this they are gradually paying off a debt of $100, still owing from their time of trouble.

In the meantime, they receive food and milk from USC workers.

They eat well now, rice and barley twice a day, and as special treat once a month they have some fish.

But without USC help, there would have been a different ending to the story.

Through contributions to the Times-sponsored Children of Asia Fund, the USC is able to continue their work with needy people in Korea, India and Hong Kong.

Donations may be sent care of this newspaper, and cheques should be made payable to the Children of Asia Fund.

Contributions are also being received at the main branch of the Bank of Montreal, Douglas and Yates.

Indonesia Offers to Negotiate Islands Dispute With Malaysia

JAKARTA (Reuters) — Indonesia is willing to negotiate its dispute with Malaysia, Foreign Minister Subandrio said today.

Negotiations would be held with representatives of the federation of Malaysia — Malaya, Sabah (North Borneo) and Sarawak—and with Singapore and Brunei, the official Antara news agency quoted Subandrio as saying.

He declined to say when talks would be held or at what level.

Indonesian military operations in the meantime would continue, Subandrio said.

He said the aim of the talks would be a solution to the dispute leading to self-determination for Sabah, Sarawak and British-protected Brunei.

Subandrio's statement, made to the news agency at President Sukarno's palace, came as a surprise to most observers.

Indonesia has been pursuing an economic blockade and sporadic guerrilla campaign against Malaysia for the last two years on the grounds that the federation was formed improperly and against the wishes of its people.

Only Wednesday Subandrio's deputy, Suwito Kusumowidagdo, threw cold water on a report from Malaysia that Malaysian Premier Tunku Abdul Rahman was still willing to attend peace talks with Indonesia.

Rescue Tugs Battling Big Storm

MANILA, (AP) — Two tugs battled a storm in the South China Sea Wednesday in a continuing effort to save two sections of a giant oil drilling platform that broke up and capsized last week with the loss of 13 men.

The only survivor of the capsizing was Ernest James McKeever, 25, of Calgary, an engineer with the Southeast Drilling Co. of Brunei. Also aboard the rig was Terry Ursulak, 25, of Edmonton.

A spokesman for the Shell Co., said the storm was blowing the tugs away from the Philippines. The tug Willem Barrendsz had one section of the drilling platform under tow while the Tai Koo out of Hong Kong was watching the second section, but unable to get a line aboard.

The giant platform capsized last Wednesday while being towed by the Willem Barrendsz. The superstructures and living quarters sank, leaving the two pontoon sections.

The two rescue tugs had been expected to reach Poro Point, 156 miles south of Manila on the west coast of Luzon Tuesday. But because of the storm, the Shell spokesman said, the vessels now have been ordered to head for Manila where there are superior facilities for salvage operations.

The Willem Barrendsz radioed that it expected to reach here in four days.

The source discounted reports from Brunei that some bodies of the 13 seamen have been washed ashore in the Philippines, pointing out that the storm was blowing away from the country.

If successfully towed ashore, the two pontoons will be examined by engineers to determine cause of the accident.

DANCE HALL GIRLS Lynda Gower and Lois Donaldson pose in the costumes they will wear at the Victoria Flying Club's "Klondike Night" on Saturday. Proceeds are for the building fund. Gambling (with paper money), dancing, bean supper and the usual Klondike fare will be featured.

POVERTY REPORT

Disability Hits Many Canadians

OTTAWA (CP)—Some 1,300,000 Candians have a permanent physical disability and have to be poverty-stricken to get government aid, a report to the federal-provincial conference on poverty suggests.

The profile on disability said 51,671 persons qualified in January this year under the disabled persons act for an average $69.48 a month.

"Last year, nearly 10,000 persons were turned away because their disability was not assessed as total or permanent though many were severely handicapped," a report by the federal government's special planning secretariat on poverty said.

Another 567 applicants were "not quite poor enough," to qualify for the maximum aid of $900 a year.

The report said 223 died before a decision was made on their applications.

The act sets the maximum allowable income in families where disability assistance is paid at $2,220 a year. For a single person the figure is $1,260.

The report said 8,581 blind persons received an average $68.12 a month in payments last year.

"Of the applicants, 304 were not blind enough and 68 were not poor enough to qualify."

The report said a substantial number of disabled probably never bothered to apply for aid for various reasons, among them the feeling they wouldn't qualify.

Nevertheless, indications were that 1,300,000 Canadians had a permanent physical disability. This excluded mental illness and retardation.

Some Africans Take Second Look at Break

By Reuters

Some independent African countries appeared to be having second thoughts Wednesday about a joint weekend decision to break off diplomatic relations with Britain if Ian Smith's Rhodesian regime is not crushed by Dec. 15.

They were also taking a deeper look at their second major decision: The formation of an all-African military force to smash the white regime in Rhodesia.

But in French-speaking Africa, President Maurice Yameogo of Upper Volta said Wednesday the Organization of African Unity conference had no authority to make a decision on such an important matter as Rhodesia.

In Tunisia, pro-government newspapers said the Addis Ababa conference went too far in its ultimatum to London.

President William Tubman of Liberia said Britain should be given time to handle the Rhodesian crisis, "since Rhodesia is still a British colony."

Reliable informants in Lusaka said Wednesday the Zambian president, Kenneth Kaunda, is warning other African leaders about the difficulties involved in a diplomatic rupture with Britain.

Ho said. "U.S. imperialism is the aggressor. It must stop its air attacks on the north, put an end to its aggression in the south, withdraw its troops from South Viet Nam and let the Vietnamese people settle by themselves their own affairs as provided for in the Geneva agreements.

"Peace will then be immediately restored."

As for the relationship between Hanoi and Peking, Ho said "all U.S. attempts to divide Viet Nam and China are doomed to ignominious failure."

SOFT LANDING

Moon Dust Cause Of Space Failure?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. space officials think Moon dust may have been the cause of Russia's latest failure to make a soft landing on the lunar surface.

The Luna 8, carrying scientific instruments, crashed and died on the moon late Monday after what had seemed to be a perfect flight from a Soviet launching pad. It was the fourth Russian failure to land working instruments on the Moon this year.

The United States will begin trying to do the same thing next May or June. It will launch several surveyor spacecraft in an effort to find out if the Moon's surface is firm enough to support a landing by Apollo astronauts before 1970.

The trick to a soft landing is the correct firing of braking rockets to slow down the spacecraft. The right time to fire is determined by radar altimeters. U.S. experts believe the Russians have the latest thing in radar height gauges and feel sure Luna 8 was equipped with them.

Then why did it crash? The theory of many scientists is that the Moon's surface is covered by dust or porous rock that could be inches to yards in depth.

Some experts said Wednesday the Russian craft's "radar eyes" may have penetrated the dust clear through to the hard rock. The difference in heights could have triggered the braking rockets seconds too late. As a result, Luna 8 could be buried in dust.

If dust is the Russian problem, it could be blamed for only three of the four failures. One attempt missed the Moon altogether.

"The Russian experience points up the extreme difficulty of throwing spacecraft to the Moon and then braking them to a safe landing," one U.S. official said. "U.S. engineers can only sympathize with the Russians."

The first U.S. surveyor is designed to slow down its descent toward the Moon from 8,600 feet per second at 1,000 miles to 5 feet per second at 13 feet above the surface. On the Moon, that 13-foot drop is equivalent to jumping off a table on Earth.
